President Roosevelt to Send Another Section of Garfield Report to Congress Tuesday.

SHOWS UP A CONSPIRACY.

Proof to Be Offered of Plot in Restraint of Trade; Prosecution to Follow Immediately.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., May 6.—[Special.]—The Standard Oil trust has fallen indeed upon evil times.

President Roosevelt will send to congress on Tuesday the second section of the Garfield report. The first section convicted the trust of demanding and receiving rebates, which is punishable by fine under the Elkins act; the second will charge that the Standard Oil company has been guilty of conspiracy in restraint of trade and commerce, an offense which carries the penalty of dissolution and fine and imprisonment.

It is the purpose of the department of justice to institute proceedings against the trust and its officials, both on account of its action in receiving rebates and in conspiring to crush out competition.

Trouble Ahead for the Trust.

This is the program of the executive branch of the government. In his message transmitting the rebate feature of the Garfield report the president recommended the enactment of the free alcohol bill in order that the Standard might be confronted by an element of competition. Senator Aldrich, chairman of the finance committee of the senate, to which was referred the bill passed by the house providing for the removal of the tax on denatured alcohol, announced today that his committee was in favor of the measure, which would be reported, with some amendments, within ten days.

The judiciary committees of the two houses intend to report also the bills specifically limiting immunity from prosecution to persons giving evidence on the witness stand and claiming it there.

Representative Campbell of Kansas has introduced a bill imposing a fine and imprisonment upon any person or corporation which for the purpose of destroying competition and creating a monopoly discriminates by selling an article at a lower price in one section than in another. Mr. Campbell will appear before the interstate and foreign commerce committee of the house this week and demand a hearing in support of his bill.

Already the senate has adopted unanimously an amendment to the railroad rate bill making pipe lines common carriers and subject therefore to the interstate commerce laws. This amendment will be accepted unanimously by the house.

Squeal of the Oil Trust.

The cry of the Standard Oil and railroad officials that Mr. Garfield was guilty of misrepresentation and ignorance in the preparation of the rebate section in his report was to have been expected as naturally as is the squeal of a pig when stuck by a knife. It became known today that this section as transmitted to congress by the president was not in the form originally written by the commissioner of corporations. Numerous changes were made in and some facts omitted from the document before it was laid before congress. The effect was to tone down the report to what the president believed to be a more conservative basis.

The second section has been put into type and will be submitted to the president tomorrow. In its present shape it handles the Standard Oil without gloves, describing with careful exactness the methods pursued by the trust to crush competition. These methods seems to be of the highwayman variety, with the difference that the Standard took not only a competitor's money but his life.

The report deals with the crude oil production and its relation to the world's supply and the prices and methods of purchase, explaining thoroughly the situation in the oil fields of Kansas, Texas, and California. It shows the way in which the crude oil is gotten to the refineries, the advantage of the location of the refineries in connection with sales, the cost of refining and marketing, and the prices at which the oil is sold in various sections.

How Competition Is Crushed.

The president's message transmitting the original Garfield report charged that the Standard sold oil at a higher rate in a district where there was no competition than in a district where competition existed. An especially interesting feature of the report will be that in regard to the organization, ownership, and relation of the companies engaged in the production, manufacture, and distribution of oil, and the competitive methods used in the production and sale of oil. Here will be described the policy of the Standard to establish bogus "independent" companies both for the purpose of meeting competition and to avoid the odium in the minds of the people which attaches to the trust.

Representative Campbell of Kansas, who was the author of the resolution under which Commissioner Garfield made his investigation, will not be content with the mere prosecution of the Standard Oil company and the railroads for violations of the Elkins anti-rebate law. Mr. Campbell said today that in his opinion the government should prosecute not only the corporation but the men who are responsible for the rebating, who have used the power in their hands to destroy competition and to form the most gigantic monopoly the world has ever seen.

"Where conspiracy has occurred," Mr. Campbell continued, "there ought not to be the slightest hesitancy displayed in the commencement of judicial proceedings, nor the least favoritism shown to any of the men involved."

No Chance for Immunity.

Mr. Campbell's attention was called to the statement made by Mr. Garfield that he had shown his report to the Standard Oil people, who had commented on it, and it was suggested that they might claim immunity in consequence.

"You will recall," he responded, "that the resolution under which the investigation was made directed Mr. Garfield to turn over the facts he should gather to the department of justice for action by the attorney general. That provision in the resolution was constructive notice to the Standard Oil company that it would not be granted immunity. I am inclined to think that the information secured by the commissioner of corporations will justify the attorney general in proceed-

RICH MEN NAMED IN FRAUD CHARGE

F. W. Gilchrist, Vessel Owner, and Others Charged with Conspiracy in Oregon Land Grabs.

LARGE SUM IS INVOLVED.

Value of Property Near $1,000,000; Twenty-one Indictments Returned by the Federal Grand Jury.

Portland, Ore., May 6.—[Special.]—The federal grand jury yesterday afternoon returned indictments against twenty-one men, including a number of wealthy lumbermen and business men, both east and west.

They are charged with conspiring to defraud the government, and secure 201,600 acres of the finest timber land in Crook, Lake, and Klamath counties. Warrants will be issued at once for the men.

The total value of the land which the men are alleged to have grabbed is nearly $1,000,000.

Names of Men Indicted.

The names of the men indicted, made public by District Attorney Bristol today, are:

F. W. Gilchrist, head of the Gilchrist Transportation company of Alpena, Mich., second largest owner of vessels on the great lakes.
Ralph Gilchrist, son of F. W., also of Alpena, Mich.
Patrick Culligan, banker, of Alpena, Mich.
James McPherson, Alpena, Mich.
Herman W. Stone, Benson, Mich.
Baron C. A. M. Q. S. Schlierholz of Little Rock, Ark.
Charles M. Elkins and Jack Combs of Prineville, Ore., and Benjamin F. Allen of Portland, Ore., members of the firm of Elkins & Co.
Judge M. E. Brink of Prineville.
Donald F. Steffa of Prineville, editor of the Crook County Journal.
Almond C. Palmer and H. Judd Palmer, attorneys, of Portland.
E. Dorgan, Francis J. Devine, and John J. Collins, members of the firm of E. Dorgan & Co. of Albany, Ore.
Malcolm McAlpin, a merchant of Albany, Ore.
J. W. Hopkins, attorney, of Vancouver, Wash.
W. W. Brown, attorney, of Seattle.
Thomas H. Watkins, formerly member of the firm of Erickson & Watkins of Prineville.
Edgar N. White, a saloonkeeper of Portland.

Michigan Men Said to Be Leaders.

The leaders in the alleged plot, it is said, were the Gilchrists, Culligan, McPherson, and Stone, who, it is claimed, endeavored, and to a large extent succeeded, in coming into possession of the land in the federal domain by procuring dupes in Oregon who were willing to take up claims by making false entries, with the understanding that they were to be turned over to their employers for a stipulated consideration as soon as the title should be secured.

With this plan for a working basis, it is charged that the eastern men operated through representatives in Oregon, with whom they were closely associated.

Besides the Alpena men and Stone, those who are said to have figured as principals in the illegal transactions are the members of Elkins & Co. of Prineville and of E. Dorgan & Co. of Albany. Other men whose names are mentioned, although in many cases men of considerable capital and prominence, served in the alleged scheme in subsidiary capacities, such as procuring men and women who were to file on the claims.

Over 400 Claims Involved.

Over 400 claims taken under the timber and stone act of congress are involved in the alleged plan to steal the wealth producing forests of the country. Of this amount 150 are mentioned specifically in the indictment returned by the grand jury through the efforts of District Attorney Bristol and Special Inspector Thomas B. Neuhaussen.

The territory which the men are accused of trying to gobble up, in disregard of the federal statutes, is one of the richest timber sections of Oregon. Nearly the entire area is covered with most excellent yellow pine timber. Placing the low estimate of 2,000,000 feet to the quarter section, the land would be worth at least $2,000 a claim, or $800,000 for the land involved.

Alpena Men Deny Guilt.

Alpena, Mich., May 6.—[Special.]—F. W. Gilchrist, Ralph Gilchrist, and Patrick Culligan all deny that they know anything of the land frauds in Oregon, in connection with which they are charged with conspiracy. Ralph Gilchrist was in Oregon this spring and bought some land, but his father declares all was correct and proper.

James McPherson, said to be of Alpena, is unknown here.

The elder Gilchrist has been identified with the lumber business since 1867, when he came to Alpena from Cleveland, where he had engaged in work about the lumber yards, following his leaving college in Oberlin, O.

He always has had the respect of his fellow townsmen and, it is said, never has had an enemy. A statement which can be made of few men who have had business successes as large as Gilchrist.

In 1870 Mr. Gilchrist entered the lake transportation business and soon established the Gilchrist Transportation company, the second largest owner of vessels on the great lakes.

His Other Interests Are Large.

Later the Rust-Owen Lumber company of Drummond, Wis., was organized. Gilchrist also is interested in the Three States Lumber company and the M. E. Smith Lumber company, both of Cairo, Ill.

He is president of the Alpena National bank, principal owner in a cement manufacturing plant, one of the largest of its kind in the country, and is engaged extensively in the beet sugar business.

Gilchrist has three sons—Frank R., treasurer of the transportation company; William A., and Ralph E. The last two are connected with the lumber business, and Ralph is accused, together with his father, of complicity in the Oregon land frauds.

Secretary Hitchcock Is Pleased.

Washington, D. C., May 6.—Secretary Hitchcock tonight, speaking of the indictment, stated that he was exceedingly gratified with the result of the investigation and that the government's case was considerably strengthened because of the heavy bond fixed by the court, $4,000 in each case.

He said that it was the intention of the department to secure a speedy trial of the cases if possible and that he expected further reports from agents in the middle western states who are conducting an investigation along the same lines.

'IS MY HELMET ON STRAIGHT?'

This Salutation Likely When Bayonne, N. J., Gets Women Police.

CLUBMEN WILL BE PREY.

All Husbands Must Stay Home at Night; Mayor Balks at the Idea.

Bayonne, N. J., May 6.—[Special.]—Unless some other city beats it to the wire, there will redound "to the everlasting glory" of this city the credit of organizing the first force of paid and uniformed policewomen. Mrs. Julia Goldzier is the originator of the plan. It will be put up to Mayor Pierre P. Garven and the city council this week, when petitions will be presented to them.

"Policewomen are bound to become an institution in the whole civilized world," said Mrs. Goldzier. "A little thought on the subject will disclose its possibilities of development. Immortal fame awaits the pioneer."

Mayor Garven says he is not opposed to as much immortal fame as the head of a municipality can acquire with due humility, but he is uncertain whether Bayonne would applaud the spectacle of a delegation of "lady cops" putting the laurel wreath on his brow. Tidings of Mrs. Goldzier's plan had reached him and he said today:

"This certainly is a tough proposition I'm up against. I don't know just what action I shall take when the petitions reach me. I want time to think it over."

Men's Bad Habits the Cause.

Mrs. Goldzier talked freely of her plans today in her home, at 26 East Forty-fifth street. "Drinking, smoking, and spitting men" inspired Mrs. Goldzier with the idea. Her observations of municipal problems have taught her that Bayonne policemen are powerless to cope with the growing evils of Jersey applejack, clay pipes, and tar heel plug. Hence, give policewomen a chance to show what they can do.

Mrs. Goldzier is convinced that much will depend on the impression Bayonne receives when first the women police appear. The uniform is, therefore, of vital importance.

Mrs. Goldzier says: "The helmet must be becoming, because even a policewoman would be absurd in a ridiculous hat. There will be no ostrich plumes or ribbons, of course, but a trim helmet with a star for ornament will become any face. The great coat, cut full, will reach just below the knee."

Divided Skirts Needed.

"I am convinced the divided skirt will be most sensible. The policewoman will have to climb fences and cover ground quickly in the prosecution of constabulary duty and her uniform must not incumber her. She will wear boots reaching to the knee, much like riding boots, and will carry a small but serviceable club. Brass buttons will be used on the uniform."

"Will there be any restrictions pertaining to the shoulders, waist line, or general contour of the figure?"

"Young man, I infer that you refer to the corset question," said Mrs. Goldzier, severely. "I have described all of the uniform that will be visible to the citizens of Bayonne."

Mrs. Goldzier says the policewoman should arrest "drunks," burglars, disorderly persons, keep crowds moving, stop runaway horses, and do the thousand and one other things a policeman has to do. Much of the evil which makes a policeman necessary is laid by Mrs. Goldzier to the door of intemperance.

"Men's Clubs Bad; Women's Good."

"Men's clubs are bad for the men and for the children of men," said Mrs. Goldzier. "They are places for holding smoking and drinking bouts, for gambling and general licentiousness. They are to be discouraged, for they interfere with domesticity and wastefully absorb time and money necessary for the family.

"Women's clubs are places for mental, moral, and spiritual improvement, which can but conduce to domestic felicity and aptitude for child rearing."

Bayonne's policewomen would keep an especially vigilant eye out for belated clubmen, corner loafers, and frivolous heads of families generally.

"These feminine official guardians would have to be especially trained for their positions, which would require talent of the highest order and would, of course, have to be well paid for," says Mrs. Goldzier.

WINS WAGER AGAINST DEATH; THREE OF QUARTET LOSERS.

Veteran Steamboat Captain of St. Louis Tells of Bet with Marshall Field, John Hay, and Corwin H. Spencer.

St. Louis, Mo., May 6.—[Special.]—Capt. H. W. Brolaski, a veteran steamboat man, who made a wager with John Hay, Marshall Field, and Corwin H. Spencer, has won. The details of one of the most remarkable bets on record were learned two days after the demise of Corwin H. Spencer.

The bet was made at a private dinner party on board the little steamer Corwin H. Spencer on May 27, 1904, where the quartet spent the evening on the river, near St. Louis. It was the occasion of the last visit of John Hay and Marshall Field to this city.

"Capt. Brolaski is the oldest and youngest man at the table," said Corwin H. Spencer, when the subject of ages came up for discussion.

"I'm 68," interposed Capt. Brolaski, "and I'll bet I live longer than any gentleman present."

At this time John Hay was 67 years old, Marshall Field 68, and Corwin H. Spencer 53.

"I'm good for twenty years more," said John Hay, laughing.

"I expect to reach the age of 100," added Marshall Field.

"It is a bet, then," retorted Capt. Brolaski. "Without venturing any money I'll be living when you three are dead and buried."

There was a general laugh and the distinguished guests turned to another topic.

Secretary of State John Hay died at Newbury, N. H., on July 1, last year, aged 68 years. Marshall Field died in New York on Jan. 15, this year, at the age of 70. Corwin H. Spencer was buried at St. Louis yesterday. He was 55 years old. Capt. Brolaski is now 70 years old.

"I have fulfilled the contract," he said today, "and have won the wager, whether I live much longer or not."

NEW CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

New York Physician Says Twenty Years' Practice Proves Poultice and Not Air Is Method.

New York, May 6.—[Special.]—Medical men in general are committed to the theory that consumption is curable only by means of fresh air, hygiene, and diet, and even then that the disease can be conquered only when it is attacked early in its course.

Nevertheless, a treatment which seems to consist in the main of the application of a plaster or "drawing poultice" upon the skin over the chest is advanced by a regular physician in Brooklyn, who calls the open air doctrine a phantom. He is Dr. F. J. Vose and has gained some fame through apparent success in a great number of cases.

"I came to the conclusion," he said, "that any treatment which aimed to expel the diseased tissue through the air passages was fallacious. The idea got hold of me that something that would arrest the progress of the diseasee in the lung and bring out the broken down tissue through the wall of the crust itself was the only means likely to be effective. That idea has stuck to me through twenty years' practice out here in east New York. The results have been to my entire satisfaction."

CAUSES TUMULT IN CHURCH.

Woman Denounces Pastor Quayle as an Ignorant Man.

CALLS HIS SERMON FALSE.

Disturber Is Thought to Be a Spiritualist Medium.

A large audience at St. James' Methodist church, Forty-sixth street and Ellis avenue, was thrown into a turmoil yesterday evening when the pastor, the Rev. William A. Quayle, was denounced at the close of his sermon by a woman who rose from a pew in the center of the house and declared the pastor to be "an ignorant man, preaching of things of which he knew nothing."

After she had shouted her protest, in spite of the efforts of the organist, who tried to drown her voice by playing a hymn, the woman turned and walked out of the church, muttering a curse upon the sermon and its author.

The woman's name was not learned, but it is believed that she is a trance medium. Dr. Quayle's sermon had consisted chiefly of a scathing arraignment of certain ideas which, in some quarters, have taken possession of the public mind, and a warning to his congregation to be on their guard against them.

Rebukes Patrons of Mediums.

Among other things the pastor assailed the principle of the open shop, the Elbert Hubbard cult, and the mania for consulting spirit mediums and palmists.

"The prosperity of the palmistry and spiritualism industries," said Dr. Quayle, "is a disgrace to the people of this age. That men and women living in the light of the twentieth century should consult these fakers and pay them large prices for their supposed predictions and feats of materialization is inconceivable, yet it is being done, and hundreds of people in Chicago are being mulcted of hard earned wages.

"It may seem preposterous to warn this congregation against such things, but I do not believe it is superfluous. The mania is appearing everywhere."

After his closing prayer, Dr. Quayle turned aside to pick up a hymn book and at the same time the congregation was startled by hearing a woman's voice coming from the center of the church.

Denounced by Woman Critic.

"I came here tonight," said the woman, "to hear Dr. Quayle because I have heard so much about him. I am greatly disappointed in him; though, and I wish, here before a good audience, to denounce him as an ignorant man who is talking on a subject of which he knows absolutely nothing.

"Now he has just called down the blessing of God on this sermon of lies, and you listen to this sacrilegious act without a word of protest. I shall enter my protest, anyway."

As the woman began speaking, every neck in the audience was craned to see who was making the disturbance. Persons in the gallery who could not see the speaker rose to their feet in an effort to look over the rail.

Dr. Quayle had had no opportunity to give out the hymn, but in an effort to prevent the confusion the organist began playing. The woman, however, only raised her voice to a higher pitch, and as she finished her denunciation she was shouting with all her might.

When she had finished she turned and walked down the aisle, muttering to herself in such a tone that those near her could hear:

"O God, bring down a curse on this ignorant man's head. He knows not what he does."

Several persons in the audience followed the woman and attempted to learn her name, but she refused to tell it. Walking rapidly down Forty-sixth street, she boarded a Cottage Grove avenue car.

RUSS TERRORISTS HURLING BOMBS.

ASSASSIN ONE OF DEAD.

Officials at Elizabethpol and Ekaterinoslav Also Die at the Hands of the Revolutionists.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

MOSCOW, May 6.—Vice Admiral Doubassoff, governor general of Moscow, was frightfully wounded by the explosion of a bomb thrown at his carriage this afternoon. One foot was blown off and he was seriously injured in the back and head. It is feared his injuries will terminate fatally."

News comes also that the governor general of Elizabethpol, in the Caucasus, was assassinated today and that the governor general of Ekaterinoslav was shot and killed last night by six men who escaped.

Four Killed by the Bomb.

The man who threw the bomb was killed by the explosion. Col. Kokonetsoff, the governor general's adjutant, was killed, as was a policeman and a boy who happened to be near at hand. A number of bystanders were injured and the coachman's skull was fractured. The carriage was demolished.

Gov. Gen. Doubassoff had been at the Uspenski cathedral, where services in honor of the czar's name day had been held. Knowing he was under sentence of death by the terrorists, he had taken, as he thought, precautions to guard himself against a bomb thrower. He had arranged to alight from his carriage at a side entrance to his palace. Had he done so he would have escaped. But on the way home from the cathedral he changed his mind and directed his coachman to drive through the main carriage entrance to the palace grounds, thereby unwittingly running into the peril he sought to avoid.

Assassin's Aim Is Bad.

As the governor's carriage drove up to the palace gates a young man, dressed in the uniform of a naval officer, stepped from the sidewalk and hurled a bomb at the carriage.

The assassin's aim was at fault, for the bomb struck the pavement several paces to the rear of the carriage. Even then the force of the explosion was so great that the carriage was demolished.

Gov. Gen. Doubassoff was hurled forward under the horses' heels. Col. Kokonetsoff, who was in the act of stepping from the carriage at the instant of the explosion, was killed, one arm being blown off and his face frightfully mutilated. The man who threw the bomb was mangled almost beyond recognition, as were the policeman and the boy.

It is thought the assassin was the student in whose rooms a bomb exploded on Saturday, killing three accomplices, but who at the time was watching the palace from a room in the hotel opposite.

Long Marked for Death.

Vice Admiral Doubassoff has long been under sentence of death by the terrorists. The unexampled severity with which he put down the revolt in Moscow in the closing days of last December made him a marked man. He has, however, treated all warnings with disdainful indifference.

Since his appointment as governor general last December several plots against him have been uncovered. Almost immediately after he had taken office he incurred the enmity of the revolutionists, who entered into a conspiracy to abduct him, but this failed. In January he was advised that an attempt would be made at the celebration of the ceremony of the blessing of the waters to assassinate him. As a result Princess Koslovska was arrested, charged with being an accessory to the conspiracy.

March 6 a bolder attempt on Doubassoff's life was frustrated by the arrest of a woman who had actually invaded the palace. She gained admittance on the plea that she had come from a personal friend of the governor general. Her agitation in the chancellery attracted the attention of an aid. He noted particularly the luxuriance of the woman's hair, which was worn in a high coiffure. Interrogation alarmed her and she attempted to flee; but she was seized and searched and a small bomb was found concealed in her hair.

Forty-five Years in the Navy.

Vice Admiral Doubassoff entered the navy in 1850 as a midshipman, and won his St. George's medal, the highest decoration for bravery the czar can bestow, during the Russo-Turkish war, when, as a lieutenant, he fought side by side with Makaroff, who went down in the Petropavlovsk at Port Arthur.

But it is as a diplomat and a statesman, instead of a sailor, that Doubassoff has won his renown in Russia. He is a natural born leader of men, stern, harsh, and a severe taskmaster. These qualities came out strongly during last winter's revolt in Moscow, when Doubassoff fought the revolutionists in the streets from behind barricades and from buildings with relentless stubbornness.

It is believed that several members of the secret police who are nihilists are members of the terrorist wing of the revolutionary party, and that they had an opportunity of facilitating today's attempt on the life of the governor.

News Cheered in St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 6.—News of the attempted assassination of Gov. Gen. Doubassoff was the signal for a remarkable demonstration at the convention of the constitutional democrats, the dominant party in the new national parliament.

The first news that came indicated that Doubassoff had been killed. The convention took a recess and cheered the assassin and the deed for ten minutes. During the evening the news also was received of the assassination of the governor of Elizabethpol in revenge for his savage repressions in the Caucasus. This, too, caused a demonstration of joy.

News of the attempted assassination is keenly discussed by members of the douma who are now gathering in the capital. It is the impression among several of them that the terrorist party, which has been abnormally quiet throughout the elections, is determined to do its utmost to prevent the pacific transition, which the dismissal of count de Witte and Minister of the Interior Durnovo foreshadows as a possibility of the czar announcing liberal concessions to the new parliament.

Terrorist Harvest of Death.

The terrorist branch of the Russian revolutionary party has been active in the last five months, the list of notable assassinations of Russian officials since Dec. 1, 1905, including:

Dec. 7—Gen. Sakharoff, at Saratoff; shot and killed by a woman.

Dec. 29—Chief of police of Moscow; killed by a bomb.

Jan. 4—Governor of Ufa; killed by a bomb.

Jan. 31—Gen. Griaznoff, chief of staff of governor general of Caucasia; shot.

Feb. 1—Gov. Falonoff of Poltava; shot.

April 8—Governor of Iver; killed by a bomb.

April 29—Chief of police of Odessa; killed by a bomb.

In addition a score or more of chiefs of police in smaller cities of Russia and Poland have been killed by bombs. On Feb. 11 a woman tried to kill Vice Admiral Chouknin, governor of Sevastopol. He was severely but not dangerous wounded. The woman was shot and killed by his orderly.

CZAR TO OPEN DOUMA MAY 10.

Glittering Pomp and Ceremony Will Mark Inaugural of Russia's First Parliament.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 6.—The members of the national parliament, which will be opened next Thursday with ceremonies only less imposing than a coronation, are arriving here on every train.

The delegates to the parliament represent every class of society. There are professors from the university, haughty nobles, workmen, small land owners, and peasants, the latter in long blue blouses, long hair, and huge yellow beards.

The initial ceremonies in the inauguration of the new parliament will be held at the winter palace, where the czar in person will deliver the speech from the throne.

Czar to Read Speech.

The ceremony has been arranged with as much glitter and pomp as possible. The entire imperial family, with the grand dukes, the ladies and gentlemen of the court, the former in ancient Russian costumes and the latter in court dress, imperial aids de camp, ministers, generals, admirals, officers of the guard regiments, marshals of the nobility, and such governors general and military commanders of the army corps as are in St. Petersburg; the mayors and city councils of St. Petersburg and Moscow, and members of the holy synod are commanded to attend. The ambassadors and ministers of the powers also will be present.

The members of the parliament will assemble in Nicholas' hall, the council of the empire at the Hermitage pavilion, and the others at the Armorial, Field Marshals, and other halls, and march in state to the great hall of St. George, a magnificent pillared chamber fifty yards long and twenty-five yards wide, where the emperor from the throne will address the parliament and the council of the empire, which will then return respectively to the Tauride palace and the hall of nobles, where the formal openings of the houses will take place.

Will Have Free Hand.

The fears that the government might attempt to dissolve the parliament before it had the opportunity of accomplishing anything are vanishing, and, despite the bomb outrage at Moscow today and the continued irreconcilable attitude of the extreme revolutionists, there is a more hopeful feeling that Russia may enter smoothly into parliamentary life.

This is due not only to the moderate attitude of the constitutional democratic majority, whose leaders with admirable self-restraint are holding the extremists among them in check, but to the manifest desire of the government to avoid a conflict.

The new cabinet has announced a policy of hands off, practically saying that the parliament shall have carte blanche, and that so long as it does not attempt to meddle with the fundamental laws of the empire the parliament will be allowed to offer its own solution for the crying agrarian problem.

With this attitude of the government, if it is sincerely carried out, the constitutional democrats for the present are content. They believe their final victory when the emperor will be forced to grant a constitution is not far off—a few months at most—especially if in the meantime they are permitted to accomplish something tangible which will strengthen them with the country.

No Desire to Control Cabinet.

M. Naboukoff, the leader of the constitutional democrats, said today that his party had no desire at present to have a premier and cabinet, even if it could. Such responsibility would place it upon the defensive, while by remaining in opposition, with the country behind it, the chances of forcing a complete surrender were increased instead of being diminished.

The little group of socialists of the extreme left has not yet shown its hand, but without the constitutional democrats, who have a clear working majority, it will be powerless to force a conflict. The Octoberists, in the center, are a negligible quantity, and, with the present temper at Tsarskoe Selo, the small group of reactionaries in the parliament sings low.

Moderate Program Wins.

The moderates carried another feature of the program of the constitutional democratic congress today by adopting the project of party organization which places the control of both the policy and the tactics of the party in the hands of the national congress and its executive arm, the central committee. This project was introduced on Saturday and was bitterly fought by the extremist wing of the party.

The deputies spent most of the day discussing their tactics for agitation in the country and at the evening session the agrarian program fixing the maximum size of farms, the redistribution through government agency of lands exceeding this maximum, etc., was introduced. The railroads immediately attacked this, demanding the nationalization and socialization of all lands.

Parliament to Fill Cabinet.

LONDON, May 7, 3 a. m.—The Times correspondent at St. Petersburg says he is able to state positively that Emperor Nicholas intends to select future ministers from the national parliament and that the Goremyken ministry is merely transitional.

GAPON LIVES, SAYS RUSSIAN.

Ivan Narodny Declares Here That the Priest Is an Exile in Swiss Village.

Father Gapon, the Russian priest and leader of the "bloody Sunday" insurrection in St. Petersburg on Jan. 22, 1905, is not dead, but living in exile in a small Alpine village in Switzerland, according to information in the possession of Ivan Ivanovitch Narodny, who spoke in Chicago yesterday as a substitute for Maxim Gorky.

Many conflicting rumors concerning Father Gapon's fate have been circulated, the latest of which had it that the revolutionist priest had been executed by his former comrades as a traitor.

Narodny, who was with Gapon in the St. Petersburg insurrection, declared that O. Collins, a civil engineer of Washington, D. C., received a cablegram from the exiled priest last Monday in which he declares that he is in hiding, but in constant communication with his revolutionist followers.

The speaker said Collins and Father Gapon were close friends, the American having become acquainted with the priest while traveling in Russia several years ago. Narodny also met Collins in St. Petersburg, in company with Father Gapon, and the American was said to be much interested in the Russian revolutionary movement headed by the priest.

Narodny, who was minister of the interior and prefect of police in the short lived Baltic republic, spoke at two meetings under the auspices of the Industrial Workers of the World in the afternoon. The first meeting was held at the West Side auditorium, Center avenue and Taylor street, where he spoke in Russian to an audience of nearly 1,000 Russians, Jews, socialists, members of the "bund," and of other revolutionary organizations.

Then he was taken in an automobile to the north side, where he spoke in German to 800 socialists in North Side Turner hall. At both meetings his utterances were received with cheers, applause, and cries of "bravo."

Although the meetings were held ostensibly for the purpose of protesting against the imprisonment of leaders of the Western Federation of Miners charged with the murder of ex-Gov. Steunenberg of Idaho, Narodny confined his speech almost entirely to describing conditions in Russia, with the exception of occasional sarcastic references to "the money power in the land of the free."

FRENCH MINISTRY GAINS IN ELECTION

BLOW TO MILITARISTS.

Count Boni Castellane Elected and Another of Family Defeated.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, May 7, 5:30 a. m.—The returns from the parliamentary elections in 508 districts give the ministerialists a net gain of 23. The results thus far known are: Ministerialists elected, 235; opposition, 141; no results, 127.

Former Minister Jaurez, who was reported to have been defeated, has been elected.

Count Boni de Castellane has been elected.

Count Stanislaus de Castellane was defeated.

Renault Morlciere, leader of the progressivists, has been defeated by a clerical.

The nationalists distinctly have lost ground in Paris. Grosjean has beaten Flourens. Guyot de Villeneuve, Auffray, and Congy will stand a poor chance on the second ballot.

The whole military movement, in fact, found little support at the polls.

Surprises in Returns.

Some of the latest returns are surprising, even Brittany, which is a stronghold of the church, electing socialists over clericals. Viscount Roscoat, whose family has been represented in parliament from time immemorial, has been defeated by a radical socialist.

Paul Deroulede failed to obtain a majority and will go to a second ballot.

The latest figures from the provinces show large gains in the socialist vote, although not sufficient to change their representation, except in two or three districts.

French election returns always are quick, and the result in Paris was known soon after 10 o'clock. It appeared there had been no choice—that is, no candidate received a majority—in 13 out of 40 districts. It would be easy in any other country where party lines are distinctly drawn to draw clear conclusions, by comparing the vote with that of 1902. Here this is impossible.

Lessons of Balloting.

There was no choice in one-third of the districts thus far reported. It seems safe to assume that the government will retain control of the chamber of deputies. Details and figures from various districts show this result was produced by a curious conflict of cross currents. First, it is clear the country strongly approved the separation of church and state, and second, the great increase in the socialistic vote which generally was expected and which assuredly would have been polled if the election had taken place ten days ago, has not taken place. This is because of the great resentment among M. Clemenceau's socialist friends on account of his change of policy between the Pas de Calais outbreak and May 1. The loss in this direction is more than counterbalanced by gains among the general conservative elements of the population.

The French people as a whole want peace, domestic and foreign. They became convinced during the last few days that the present régime is the best available means to this end. Hence they rallied to its support. It is too early to speak with entire confidence, but the present information points strongly to this conclusion.

Blow to Militarists.

There is every reason to believe the hope of the militarists to form a party of discontented ex-officers has failed. Gen. Zurlingen has been beaten at Belfort. Col. Marchand, although he is at the head of the poll in his district, probably will be beaten on the second ballot by a combination of his opponents. Driand is in a similar position. Deroulede's Lieut. Habert is defeated.

A severe blow was given the nationalists by the failure of their chief tactician, Guyot de Villeneuve, to obtain a majority. He is the candidate who started and directed the campaign against the Combes cabinet in connection with the secret reports regarding officers, which he accused it of utilising. These revelations were said to have aroused indignation. His reelection was regarded as a dead certainty.

Millerand, Bryand Pelletan, and Puech, socialists, all were elected. Among the successful nationalists are Admiral Bienaime, Maurice Bares, and Lucien Millevoye.

Parisians were amused by the passage through the streets before the polling stations of a decorated automobile, containing a group of champions of women's rights and a banner with the device:

"We obey the laws, pay taxes, and we mean to vote."

END OF FRENCH ROYALIST PLOT

Men Arrested During May Day Panic in Paris Are Given Their Provisional Liberty.

PARIS, May 6.—All the persons arrested recently for connection with the alleged royalist plot against the security of the republic have been provisionally released.

Among those taken into custody as a result of a series of wholesale searches designed to unearth an extensive plot against the security of the republic were M. Griffuelhes, the virtual head of the Confederation of Labor, and Leon Robert, secretary of a branch of the confederation.

Count de Beauregard, who was alleged to be at the head of the plot against the government, also was arrested, as was Maj. Feuillant, former commander of the Imperial guard, and M. Gilbert, editor of the imperialist journal L'Autorite.

WARRANT FOR PRINCE WREDE.

German Nobleman in Whose Castle Stolen Silver Was Found Must Face Criminal Court.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, May 6.—Warrants have been issued for the arrest of Prince von Wrede and his wife, both of whom are still in Spain, and in whose castle at Basedow in Mecklenburg a large quantity of stolen silver was recently found. A warrant also has been issued for the housekeeper of the castle, who is accused of perjury while under examination regarding the silver. The warrants against the prince and princess do not state the charge.

SULTAN WANTS TO ARBITRATE.

England Refuses to Reopen Egyptian Boundary Question and Turkey May Suggest The Hague.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 6.—The sultan has attempted to reopen discussion regarding the Tabah affair, but the British ambassador has declined to do so. It is reported that the sultan wishes to submit the question to The Hague. Owing to the intervention of the feast of Mulud no reply to the note presented to the porte last Thursday by Sir Nicholas O'Conor, the British ambassador, is expected before Wednesday.

Fleet at Phaleron Bay.

LONDON, May 6.—A dispatch to a news agency says that the British fleet under Vice Admiral Lord Charles Beresford has arrived in Phaleron bay.

NOTES FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

PANAMA.—Owing to the expiration of its agreement with bankers here, the canal commission is receiving gold from the United States for the payment of employés.

ROME.—King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena have given a dinner in honor of the delegates to the international postal congress. Edward Rosewater of Omaha and Capt. N. M. Brooks, superintendent of foreign mails of the United States, attended.

Moscow Governor, Wounded by Bomb.

ADMIRAL DOUBASSOFF

Gov. Gen. Doubassoff of Moscow, at whom a bomb was thrown yesterday which wounded him and killed four persons, including the assassin, has been governor general since Jan. 1 last of the city in which Grand Duke Sergius was killed on Feb. 17, 1905. Doubassoff is an admiral in the navy and was the Russian member of the North sea commission which inquired into the firing on British fishermen on the Dogger banks by Rojestvensky's squadron in October, 1904.

ZULUS IN FIERCE BATTLE.

1,500 BLACKS ATTACK BRITISH FORCE IN NATAL.

Warriors of Famous Fighting Tribe Charge White Soldiers Up to the Muzzles of the Guns—Advance in Crescent Formation, but Are Routed Because Rush Took Place Prematurely—Natives Lose 60 Killed and Wounded.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

DURBAN, Natal, May 6.—A force of Zulus attacked Col. Mansel's column near Cetewayo's grave today, but they were repulsed with the loss of sixty killed and wounded. The blacks are estimated to have numbered nearly 1,500.

They were apparently advancing in their traditional crescent formation, intending to envelop Col. Mansel. About 200 of them attacked prematurely, charging Col. Mansel's advance guard almost to their rifle muzzles. The charge completely failed, despite the fact it was made with characteristic Zulu bravery.

Col. Mansel's report says the steadiness of the Durban light infantry at the critical stage of the attack prevented the whites from sustaining serious casualties. Only three men were wounded. The native police attached to the mounted rifles behaved courageously. Col. Mansel captured a quantity of cattle and burned several kraals.

WOMEN IN TRAILING SKIRTS ANGRY AT GERM CRUSADE.

Maidens and Matrons of Nordhausen, Germany, Claim Right to Wear Dresses with Long Trains.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, May 6.—The order of the authorities of Nordhausen forbidding women wearing trailing skirts within the boundaries of the town on the ground that they scatter germs and are a public nuisance has resulted in an angry controversy. The police have been ordered to arrest all offenders, who will be liable to a fine of $8 for the first offense. Obdurate repeaters will be liable to imprisonment. The women claim the right to wear their gowns as they please, and the legality of the prohibition will be tested in the court.

BIG GAIN IN JAPANESE NAVY.

Third Period of Expansion Will Add Two 18,000 Ton Battleships and Others

Victoria, B. C., May 6.—Advices from Japan state that the third period of Japanese naval expansion now commenced will result in increasing the Japanese navy by 90,000 tons before the end of this year.

The third program of expansion started with the building of the 18,000 ton battleships Katori and Kashima, just completed in England, and the armored cruisers Tsukuba and Ikoma of 14,000 tons, just launched in Japan. The other armored cruisers will be built in Japan. The Kurama will be ready in August, the Ikubi is soon to be laid down, and the 19,000 ton battleship Aki shortly will be ordered.

Marquis Oyama has been retired from the post of field marshal and chief of the Japanese headquarters staff, being succeeded by Viscount Kodama, recently promoted from a baronetcy and lieutenant general. Admiral Togo shortly will be made a count because of his services during the war. Viscount Kodama will be further promoted and be made a count. Count Nodzu will become a marquis and Gens. Kuroki, Oku, Nogi, and Kawamura, who were recently appointed to command the Tokio district, will be created viscounts.

BULGARIANS KILLED BY TURKS.

Band of Fourteen Exterminated by Sultan's Soldiers, and the Latter Lose Two Men.

SALONICA, European Turkey, May 6.—Turkish troops on Saturday exterminated a band of fourteen Bulgarians at Loyodia, near Kluprill. Two Turks were killed.

BRYAN IN QUARANTINED SHIP.

Vessel Carrying Americans Held in Suez, Egypt, Because of Bubonic Plague on Board.

Cincinnati, O., May 6.—[Special.]—A letter from John Uri Lloyd states that he, W. J. Bryan, and other Americans are quarantined at Suez, Egypt, because of bubonic plague aboard the ship.

VACCINATE BY WHOLESALE

4,000 PHILADELPHIANS SUBMIT TO OPERATION.

Fifty Physicians, Reinforced by 500 Policemen, Descend on Section of City at 4 O'Clock a. m. and 20,000 People Are Examined — Many Are Caught in Bed and Church Services Are Prevented — Object Is to Prevent an Epidemic of Smallpox.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 6.—[Special.]—Five hundred policemen, accompanied by a medical corps of fifty, the latter headed by Dr. Coplin, director of the department of public health, descended upon one of the densely populated sections of this city today, and, after placing the entire section under quarantine, proceeded to vaccinate all persons who had not been inoculated.

About forty-five square yards of the city were for ten hours isolated from the rest and during this time 20,000 people were examined, of whom 4,000 were vaccinated. The action was taken to prevent the spread of smallpox, two cases of which have developed in the district invaded.

Much of the quarter is occupied by negroes, although one end contains a population of the better sort.

Clattering Hoofs Warn People.

While the physicians were at work confusion reigned. A half dozen churches were prevented from holding morning services.

It was 4 o'clock in the morning when the raid of police and surgeons began. The section invaded is bounded by Bainbridge, Christian, Eleventh, and Broad streets. The clattering of the hoofs of the horses of mounted policemen and the rumbling of patrol wagons gave the residents their first warning that something unusual was going to happen. Putting their heads out of windows, they found the streets filled with bluecoats and white coated doctors, each of the latter carrying a bag of instruments in his hand.

No Time for Preliminaries.

No time was wasted upon preliminaries, but a house to house visitation immediately began. In many instances people had not time to arise from their beds before the physicians were at their side with virus. All had to submit to the ordeal, and if objection was made calling in several policemen usually brought consent.

While this was going on the church bells began to ring, but nobody was allowed to respond, the authorities permitting nothing that might interfere with the thoroughness of their work. Even street cars were guarded by policemen when they passed through the district and no one was allowed to board or alight.

THAW DROPS DE LUXE MAGAZINE

After Young Pittsburger Had Spent $25,000 on Yale Publication Papa Thaw Intervened.

New Haven, Conn., May 6.—[Special.]—After spending $25,000 in less than three months to gratify his desire to be editor of a de luxe college magazine, Stephen Dows Thaw of Yale, son of Benjamin Thaw, Pittsburg multi-millionaire, and brother-in-law of the Earl of Yarmouth, announced that he has enough.

The decision follows the arrival in New Haven of Mr. and Mrs. Thaw, a long conversation between them and the young editor, and the signing of many checks by Papa Thaw. The Pittsburger is reputed to have $50,000,000, but he is believed to have opposed the idea of his son spending $150,000 a year for the satisfaction of being an editor and publisher.

Young Thaw, who is 21 years old, a junior in the academic department and a lover of literature, started the Yale monthly magazine in January. The publication was handsomely gotten up and contained matter quite unusual to college publications, but the students didn't buy it.

EDITOR CANDIDATE FOR SENATE

Edward Rosewater of Omaha Bee Will Ask Nebraska Republican Convention for Nomination.

Omaha, Neb., May 6.—The candidacy of Edward Rosewater, proprietor of the Omaha Bee, for the republican nomination for United States senator at the coming state convention, will be announced tomorrow morning in the Bee in a signed article by his son, Victor Rosewater, managing editor. Mr. Rosewater senior is at present in Rome as the official representative of the United States at the universal postal congress. Mr. Rosewater has been a leader of his party in this state for many years.

Banner company No. 35, Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, colored, will give its fourth annual ball Thursday evening in First Regiment armory. Company drill will precede the ball.

TRADERS' TO ASK SPECIAL MASTER.

Insolvent Insurance Company to Hasten Payments on Frisco Losses.

FAILURE HURTS OTHERS.

Underwriters Say Chicago Will Be Injured as Home of Risk Concerns.

San Francisco's claims on the bankrupt Traders' Insurance company of this city will be paid as far as the assets will go, as soon as proofs of losses are presented. This was decided yesterday afternoon at a conference between Receiver Byron L. Smith and Attorney Noble B. Judah, representing the directors of the company.

Mr. Smith expects to go before Judge Mack this morning and ask for the appointment of a special master in chancery, before whom proofs may be made of the San Francisco and other liabilities of the company.

"It is a novel situation," said Mr. Judah. "The natural thing to do now is to ask for the appointment of a special master in chancery before whom proofs of all liabilities may be made. I don't know whether the court will authorize the appointment of special adjusters. The intention of course is to wind up the affairs of the company as soon as possible, so as to give the policy holders the full advantage of all assets.

Many Employes to Be Retained.

"No losses can be paid without the sanction of the court. It is possible if all the companies would agree on some basis of settlement for the losses Judge Mack would agree to it."

Receiver Smith wanted to know how many employés of the company it would be necessary to retain. There are thirty who work in the general office in the Rector building and it was thought the services of most of them would be needed until affairs of the company have been closed up. It was not decided whether the company would remain in its present quarters. Its lease expires May 15.

At the earliest moment Mr. Smith expects to have a detailed report of the company's assets for the information of Judge Mack.

City Put in Bad Repute.

Disquieting rumors as to the effect of the failure on other insurance companies, especially in Chicago, were heard again yesterday.

"It will be twenty-five years before Chicago can recover from the effect of this failure," was the view of one insurance man. The failure of the stockholders of the Traders' to meet their liabilities will give this city a bad reputation all over the country as a home city for a fire insurance company.

"There is a general condemnation of the action of the directors of the Traders' in throwing the company into the hands of a receiver on this account. Other companies of the city would have been glad to go down into their pockets and pay the loss rather than to have had the failure occur. The trouble was the directors of the Traders' were bankers and not insurance men. If they had been insurance men the sentiment of the thing would have made them willing to put up any amount of money rather than go into the hands of a receiver."

The failure of the Traders' to secure a reinsurance contract, it is stated, will also be regarded as ominous by other insurance companies which have heavy liabilities as a result of the San Francisco conflagration.

States Want Figures.

Another cause for apprehension on the part of some of the local insurance companies is that the failure of the Traders' will be followed by a prompt demand by the insurance commissioner of Illinois and other states for a complete statement of their assets and liabilities.

Aside from the Traders' there were but two insurance companies in Chicago which are involved to any great extent in the San Francisco losses. One is the Calumet Insurance company, 153 La Salle street, organized two years ago with a capital of $500,000. The other is the German National, with offices also at 153 La Salle street. The German National's liabilities in the burned district of San Francisco amount to around $800,000.

Companies to Pay Claims.

Officers of both companies said yesterday they would pay every dollar on the San Francisco claims without embarrassment.

"We have the nerve and the money and that is all that is necessary," said a representative of the Calumet Insurance company.

"Immediately after the conflagration, when the company learned the extent of its liabilities, it sent out letters to all of its agents assuring them it would pay dollar for dollar, and as a consequence the company has been securing a lot of desirable new business. Stockholders have repaid their capital stock of $500,000, which will give us a fund ample to pay all losses. Fortunately, the company is in the hands of practical insurance men."

TEACH IRISH HISTORY IN BOSTON

Will Be Made an Elective Study in High Schools—No Special Teachers to Be Employed.

Boston, Mass., May 6.—[Special.]—The placing of Irish history in the curriculum of the public schools of Boston this week will not be accompanied by the employment of new or additional teachers at high salaries, the purchase of tons of new books, or noticeable changes in the working schedule.

Chairman Storrow of the school committee said today: "John A. Spencer's book, 'Ireland's story,' hereafter will be used in the grammar and high schools. One copy of the book will be placed in each grammar school, in the hands of the teacher, and will be used as a reference book for the pupils.

"In the high schools the study of Irish history will be placed on the list of electives, and such parents as wish their children to become familiar with the history of Ireland can have an opportunity of selecting that topic for their study."

Edwin Burritt Smith Unchanged.

Physicians attending Edwin Burritt Smith, who is critically ill at his residence in Hyde Park, announced last night there was no change in their patient's condition during the day. Mr. Smith was thought to be slowly sinking on Friday, but rallied on Saturday.

SCHOOL BOARD MEMBER SUCCUMBS TO PNEUMONIA.

Taken Ill on Tuesday and Expires Sunday Night—Was 60 Years Old, and Had Lived in Chicago Since He Was 2—Lincoln Park Commissioner Under Gov. Tanner and on Public Library Board When Harrison Was Mayor.

Michael Shields, a member of the board of education, died at 11:30 o'clock last night at his residence, 573 Dearborn avenue, of pneumonia. He was taken ill on Tuesday. For three days he held out with some promise of overcoming the disease, then a turn for the worse came, and yesterday afternoon it became apparent to his physician that he could not recover.

Besides his position on the school board, Mr. Shields had held other public offices. He was a Lincoln park commissioner under the administration of Gov. Tanner, and under Mayor Carter H. Harrison was on the board of the public library. He never sought an elective office.

In the business world Mr. Shields was known as a large manufacturer of confectionery. For many years his factory was in State street, north of the Masonic temple. He was one of the first to move from the section that was becoming crowded with the retail stores, and found larger quarters for his establishment on Jefferson street.

Mr. Shields was born in Ireland sixty years ago. When he was 2 years old his parents came to America, making Chicago their home until their death. Twenty-seven years ago he married Sarah Conley, daughter of Philip Conley, a Chicago pioneer and collector of the port for some years. Mrs. Shields survives. There are no children.

For a quarter of a century Mr. Shields lived in Dearborn avenue. He was a close friend of ex-Mayor Harrison.

FALL FATAL FOR MRS. HONORE.

Mrs. Potter Palmer's Mother Dies from Effects of Injuries Received in Mishap Last Wednesday.

Mrs. Eliza Carr Honoré, 80 years old, wife of Henry H. Honoré, died at 4:30 p. m. yesterday at her residence, 2108 Michigan avenue, as the result of injuries caused by a fall last Wednesday. Her condition was thought to be improved on Saturday, but she failed to rally sufficiently to recover.

She fell down several steps of a stairway in her residence, fracturing her collar bone and receiving other injuries.

Mrs. Honoré was married in 1846, when her husband was a resident of Louisville, Ky. They came to Chicago to live in 1855. The surviving members of her family are her husband and six children: Adrian C. Honoré, Mrs. Potter Palmer, Henry H. Honoré Jr., Mrs. Fred D. Grant, wife of Gen. Grant; Nathaniel K. Honoré, and Judge Lockwood Honoré. Mrs. Palmer now is in Europe.

Arrangements for the funeral, which will be private, have not been completed.

OBITUARY.

MRS. ARVILLE CHAPIN ADSIT, 85 years old, widow of James M. Adsit, who for the fifty years prior to 1894, the year of his death, conducted a private banking business in Chicago, died yesterday at the family residence, 400 Dearborn avenue. Her health had been failing since last September. She was born in Ludlow, Mass., and with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Chapin, came to Chicago in 1838. She was married to Mr. Adsit in 1841. Five children are living. They are Charles C. Adsit, James M. Adsit, Mrs. Isabel M. Wheeler, Miss Carrie Adsit, and Miss Jeanie Adsit. The funeral will be at the residence at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

JOHN B. GAVIN, who came to Chicago in 1841 and carried on the pattern making business until thirteen years ago, when he moved to Waukegan, died in that city on May 4. Owing to impaired health he went to Berkeley, Cal., in 1904 and returned to Waukegan a month ago. For a time he was president of the Waukegan board of education. He left a widow, one daughter, Mrs. Stephen Dale, and five sons, John H., Dr. Edward F., Elisha W., Walter O., and Paul S. Gavin.

MRS. ANNA C. ROOKER, wife of W. E. Rooker, formerly of the Chicago board of trade, and for many years prominent in local amateur athletic circles, was buried yesterday afternoon at Oakwoods cemetery. Mrs. Rooker was in a San Francisco hospital about to undergo an operation when the earthquake came. She was driven thirty miles into the country in an automobile, but succumbed to the shock on April 19.

Present Building Boom Marks Passing of Constructions of 1872.

UP TO DATE BLOCKS THEN.

Fire Called Blessing in Disguise Because It Brought These Structures.

A feature of the present building boom in the central business district is the passing of several exceedingly interesting landmarks. In most cities they probably would not be termed old, since they were all erected just after the great fire of 1871. But they are old for Chicago, and they are interesting, not merely because of the history which attaches to them, but also because they mark in a striking manner the remarkable evolution which Chicago has undergone in a building way since they were erected.

At that time they were regarded as representing the best type of the modern commercial and office building, and as soon as the first great losses which the fire entailed were in a measure overcome, it was commented on as a blessing in disguise, inasmuch as it had resulted in giving to Chicago, throughout its business district, buildings which for many years to come would stand as the best expression of the modern business building.

Type Rapidly Passing.

It is interesting to recall this in view of what is now recognized as the modern type of the Chicago office and commercial building. With the rapid advance in land values and the increasing demand for business space in this central district the time probably is not far distant when practically none of these old buildings will be left.

They have been giving way rapidly to the modern buildings during the last three years especially, but building operations just undertaken are making a more rapid inroad into them than any of these previous years and embrace such landmarks as the Jones building at 119 Dearborn street, the Henning and Speed block adjoining on the south, the Manierre building at the northeast corner of Madison and Dearborn streets, the Kentucky block at the northeast corner of Adams and Clark streets, the Pike building at the northeast corner of State and Monroe streets, and the Marshall Field & Co. retail store at State and Washington streets.

Marshall Field & Co. Building.

The Marshall Field & Co. building, known to old residents as the Singer block, which was built immediately after the fire of 1871, has a unique history. In order to buy it Marshall Field had to borrow money for the first time in his life. It also was the last time. He was compelled to resort to a loan because the Singer estate gave him just fifteen minutes to raise the money to buy the original structure.

The ground alone on which the old building stood was held at $800,000. The structure was then only five stories high. From 1873 to 1892 it was the only retail store operated by Marshall Field & Co. In 1893 the "annex" was built, and in 1897 the mansard roof of the old building was removed and three stories added.

"Commissioner" Jones' Building.

The Jones building which, like the Henning and Speed and Manierre buildings, is being torn down to make place for the Dearborn street frontage of the new Boston store, was built by John Jones, a colored man, who was one of the unique characters of Chicago in those days. He was not only a shrewd business man, but a shrewd politician as well, and was elected to the position of county commissioner, from which fact he came to be known as "Commissioner Jones."

He was a man of fine appearance and good address, and in the business of clothes cleaning, repairing, etc., which he conducted on the premises before he owned them, he amassed sufficient money to enable him finally to buy the property.

This was some time prior to the fire, and when the latter swept away the three story building then standing on the lot Mr. Jones set about erecting a new one. The latter, a four story building, was completed some time in 1872, and in it Mr. Jones continued to conduct his business up to the time of his death in the late 80's.

Henning & Speed Title Complex.

The Henning & Speed block, a four story structure at 121-127, was built by James W. Henning and Joshua F. Speed, both of Louisville. Mr. Speed was a schoolmate of Abraham Lincoln, as was his brother, James B. Speed, who was at one time attorney general in Mr. Lincoln's cabinet. Mr. Henning and Mr. Speed both died some years ago and the widow of the latter on her death in 1902 left a peculiar will, which was contested, which contest materially delayed the acquirement of this interest by Mr. Netcher.

The Manierre building was built by William R. and George Manierre in 1872. The property had been in the family for many years, the father of the two named having erected the three story building which was destroyed by the fire.

The "Kentucky" block, at Adams and Clark streets, now being torn down to make place for the $4,000,000 building of the Commercial National bank, was so named for the reason that those who built it, John B. Knight, the father of John B. Knight, a prominent real estate broker, the late Malcolm McNeill, and Moses G. Knight, were all natives of Kentucky. John B. Knight owned 47 feet at the corner of Adams street. McNeill 40 feet adjoining on the north, and Moses G. Knight 63 feet adjoining the McNeill holding on the north. The Knight holding at the corner subsequently passed into the possession of the late Henry Field.

Original Palmer Hotel.

The Pike property has an interesting history. The property was originally the site of a saloon and oyster house conducted by a man called "Saddlerock" Smith. It was subsequently acquired by the late Potter Palmer, who improved it with a five story building, 26x83 feet, the upper floors of which were used for hotel purposes, and this is said to have been the first venture of Mr. Palmer in the hotel business.

After the fire the property passed into the hands of a Mr. Barnes, who began the erection of a building. He carried the building up to three stories, when he became financially embarrassed, and the property passed into the hands of Mr. Pike in 1872. The latter completed the building, making it five stories, and about ten years later added two more stories.

Hotel Site Since 1836.

Another landmark which will be torn down next year to make room for a new sixteen story structure to cost $1,750,000 is the Sherman house.

For nearly three-quarters of a century this ground has been occupied by hotels, which since 1844 have borne the name of the Sherman house.

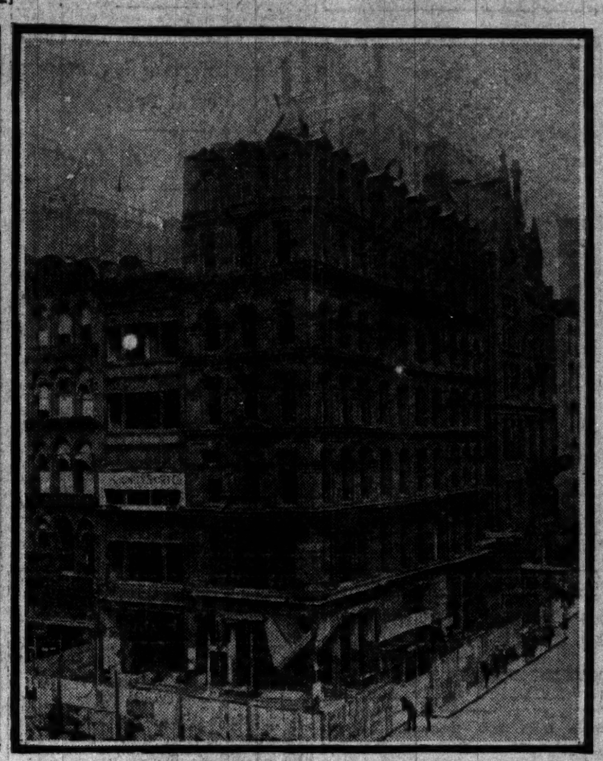

In 1836 the east eighty feet at the corner of Clark and Randolph streets was bought by Francis C. Sherman for $6,353, and during the following year he completed the construction of a three story building which was opened in November of that year by Jacob Russell under the name of the City hotel. In 1844 the building was remodeled and two stories added and was renamed the Sherman, which name was borne by the two succeeding buildings on the property.

WARRANT REPLY TO SLAP.

OAK PARK WOMAN ACCUSED OF ASSAULTING A VISITOR.

Miss Bessie Thompson of Minneapolis Swears to Charges Against Mrs. William H. Prinz, Claiming She Was Mistreated When She Called to See Husband at His Home "On Business"—Umbrella Broken and She Is Bruised in Encounter.

A warrant was served yesterday on Mrs. William H. Prinz, 327 South Austin avenue, Oak Park, on complaint of Miss Bessie Thompson of Minneapolis, now stopping at the Windsor-Clifton hotel. The charge is assault and battery.

Considerable mystery surrounds the case, which the principals refused yesterday to clear up. Miss Thompson declares she went to see Mr. Prinz yesterday afternoon "on business," and was met at the door by Mrs. Prinz, who refused to let her enter.

"She flew at me in a rage," declared the complainant, "and backed me off the porch upon the steps. Then she leaned over and slapped me and gave me a vicious shove that threw me against the balustrade. My umbrella was broken and I was severely bruised in the fall.

"She told me never to return, and said I would regret it if I attempted to enter her house again."

Warrant Secured by Woman.

Miss Thompson went from the house to the residence of Justice Arthur J. Kendall, where she swore out her warrant, which was later served upon Mrs. Prinz. The hearing will take place this evening.

"The charges are outrageous," declared Mr. Prins last night. "She is just trying to make trouble and we shall show her up. Further than that I shall not discuss it."

Miss Thompson refused to divulge the nature of the business which took her to the Prins home.

Claims Jealousy Is Motive.

"I have reason for not making any statement on that point until after the hearing tomorrow," she said. "Mrs. Prinz's action seemed to have jealousy for the motive, but that is too absurd for anything. I knew them a year ago when I was here studying at a school of music.

"I returned on Wednesday on business of my own and it was not until Sunday afternoon that I found time to run out to Oak Park. If Mrs. Prinz had the slightest reason to be jealous I should hardly have gone to their home to see him." Mr. Prinz has an office at 63 Clinton street.

FIVE MEN IN PISTOL FIGHT; TWO DEAD, ANOTHER DYING.

Two Brothers Start In to "Clean Out" Saloon at New Point, Ind., and Both Are Killed.

Greensburg, Ind., May 6.—[Special.]—New Point, six miles east of this city, was the scene of a desperate pistol duel this evening, in which five men were engaged, two of them being killed and a third one mortally wounded.

Pleasant and Winfield Land, brothers, went to a saloon kept by Jeff Williams and his brother, Garfield, early in the evening, and began a quarrel with the proprietors, but were induced to leave. They returned later, and Pleasant Land declared that he intended to kill everybody in the saloon. Presenting a revolver, he fired at Jeff Williams, who was behind the bar.

The shooting then began in earnest between the four men and William Bare, who joined in the fray. The first shot struck Pleasant Land, but he fired a second before falling to the floor dead. Several pistols were then turned on his brother, Winfield, who received a bullet in the head and started from the saloon. He fell after walking a few feet and died. One bullet from his revolver, however, had struck Jeff Williams in the cheek and, ranging upward, buried itself in his brain, making a mortal wound.

Garfield Williams and William Bare came here tonight and surrendered to officers. The Lands were desperate characters and have been in many affrays.

CONSTABLE HARD TO CONVINCE.

Certificates of Three Physicians Required to Prevent Eviction of Family with Two Sick Children.

Three doctors' certificates and a consultation of physicians were required to prove to Constable Dennis O'Brien that the wife and children of George Panitcki were not in a condition to be turned into the streets last Friday because the head of the family had fallen in arrears in his rent.

When Panitcki heard that his family was about to be evicted he obtained a certificate from his family physician to the effect that two of his children were suffering with pneumonia and probably would die if they were removed from the house. In spite of this the constable is said to have ordered the children from the house while he plied the furniture in the street.

The desperate father sent for Dr. A. S. Russell, who told the officer that the children could not leave the house without great danger. A third physician, being sent for by the constable with the same result, it was decided that the family might be allowed to live in the house until the children have recovered.

LOOKS MORE LIKE COAL PEACE.

Nothing Develops to Indicate Failure to Reach Agreement in Hard Coal Field.

Scranton, Pa., May 6.—Nothing developed today to disturb the general belief that a strike of the anthracite mineworkers had been averted. There seems to be every assurance that the subscale committee of the organization, which will go to New York for a conference tomorrow afternoon with the operators, will be assured by the latter that there will be no discrimination shown in case the men are ordered back to work and that the term the agreement is to last will be readily agreed upon.

RESCUE 5 BOYS IN LAGOON

POLICEMEN SAVE LIVES OF PARTY IN STEAMER COLLISION.

Youths in a Boat at Ogden Park Are Struck by a Steam Yacht on Its First Trip, and Are Drawn Under the Craft—Three Officers Cheered by a Crowd When They Succeed in Reaching Them—All Are Unconscious When Brought Ashore.

Five boys were rescued after a narrow escape from drowning in the lagoon at Ogden park yesterday afternoon, when a boat in which they were rowing was run down by a steam yacht. The boys all were unconscious when taken from the water by three policemen who saw the accident and went to their aid in a rowboat. Two of the boys—Robert and James Smith, 6900 Justine street—were taken out from under the yacht. The other boys are Arthur and Philip Kenton, 6607 Justine street, and Paul Anderson, 6605 Laflin street. The policemen—John Mulligan of the Englewood station and Park Policemen Moran and Ryan—were cheered by the crowd when it was learned the boys still were living.

The yacht which overturned the rowboat was launched yesterday on the lagoon, between Sixty-third and Sixty-seventh streets. Charles Rattery, the man at the wheel, had difficulty with the machinery soon after the first trip began, and announced his intention of having the craft laid aside for repairs. This statement no sooner had been made to a man standing near him, when the rowboat crossed the bow of the yacht. Rattery gave the wheel a turn, but the boat failed to respond, and with a crash the boys were upset in the water, eighteen feet deep at this place.

Several persons sprang into the water to aid the boys, but the latter were drawn under the boat, apparently beyond reach of help. The policemen passed the swimmers in a rowboat, and with the aid of passengers on the yacht drew the boys to safety. Medical aid was summoned, and the boys all were revived.

SPRINKLES SELF WITH BLUING, THINKING IT HOLY WATER.

Houghton, Mich., Woman Seeks Safeguard from Evil in Thunder Storm, but Daughter Finds Wrong Bottle.

Houghton, Mich., May 6.—[Special.]—The belief of all good Catholics in the efficacy of holy water to guard against evil was responsible for an incident attended with unlooked for results during the recent severe electrical storm here.

A good woman, advanced in years, had sought her couch when the storm broke at an early hour in the evening, and, with a pious ejaculation, she besought her daughter to get the holy water. Obediently, the daughter ran to the place—the location is immaterial—grasped a bottle, and hastened into her mother's darkened room. She sprinkled the contents of the bottle in a generous manner, while the elder woman dipped her finger into the fluid and devoutly crossed herself. Secure in the divine protection, she turned her face away from earthly things and found rest in peace.

The daughter returned to the lighted room, and there found, to her consternation, that she had liberally bespattered the room and her mother with laundry bluing. In the morning the mother awoke to find dots of an ultramarine hue on the newly papered walls of her chamber, that the snowy counterpane of her couch was splashed with blue, and that on the bosom of her lacy white robe was an indigo cross. The woman felt that, in the sight of Providence, the intent and not the act was seen, and the bluing was as much a safeguard as would have been the sanctified water.

JAPANESE BANKER IS HERE.

Head of Financial Institution Comes to Chicago to Close Up War Bond Negotiations.

Yojiro Ono, president of the Bank of Japan, which floated the war bond issue, arrived in Chicago yesterday, accompanied by several other bankers, to close up the business of the bond issue in the United States. More than $300,000,000 worth of the bonds were sold in this country, which has necessitated considerable banking business, which only can be done by an official of the Japanese national bank. President Ono, who is a graduate of the University of Michigan, was in Chicago fifteen years ago. He said yesterday the growth of the business district within the loop was so great as to make it almost unrecognizable to a former visitor to the city.

TENT FOR GUESTS AT WEDDING.

Roumanian Entertains in Novel Manner and Provides an Elaborate Feast at Marriage.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 6.—[Special.]—Charles Alban, a Roumanian, provided a tent for the guests at his wedding and served two calves, 100 chickens, 1,500 bottles of beer, and 100 gallons of wine at the feast.

Jealousy Leads to Shooting.

William M. Gibbs, colored, 46 years old, 1284 Indiana avenue, was shot in the right leg last night by another negro in front of 1228 Indiana avenue. The police say a woman was implicated in the affair.

"JOCKO" BRIGGS CELEBRATES FREEDOM AS BARROOM HERO.

Puts in First Saturday Night Drinking and Boasting in Long String of West Side Saloons.

"Jocko" Briggs spent his first Saturday night of freedom for more than two years in posing as a barroom hero in west side saloons. He finished yesterday morning after visiting many places in which he was known and welcomed. Boasting that he was "luckier than tney make 'em," he entered saloons in West Lake street near the store in which Hans Peterson was killed. Briggs was convicted of the murder by one jury, then freed by another.

After he had been cleared of one robbery charge several others against him were dropped. Then Robert Cantwell, his attorney, took him to a saloon where he announced with gusto that he had turned his back on his drinking habits and was going to start life anew.

With a companion, Briggs started in Saturday night by visiting three saloons near Ashland avenue and Lake street. They worked east to Peoria street, then south to Randolph, met plenty of friends and had drinks accordingly. The triumphal march proceeded to Halsted street and down to Adams.

Detectives crossed the "hero's" path here. Two policemen, looking for a thief, entered a saloon in which a knot of men was gathered around a central figure. A stranger asked the bartender who the attraction was and learned it was Briggs. The stranger did not know who Briggs was.

"Doesn't that fellow know who I am?" spoke up Briggs, promptly. "Why, I'm "Jocko" Briggs; you certainly have heard of me. I am the one you've read so much about in the papers."

CHIEF FINDS SALOONS CLOSED.

Selling of Liquor Stops Promptly at 1 O'Clock When Proprietors Learn of Collins' Tour of Inspection.

Chief of Police Collins and Lieut. Rohan of the detective bureau made a tour of the Harrison street district early yesterday morning, following a report that saloons were running in violation of the 1 o'clock closing ordinance. Although they traveled the territory from end to end they failed to detect one violation.

Word that "the chief" was in the neighborhood spread rapidly, and patrolmen were prompt in enforcing the closing of the saloons. Even the Congress and the Olympia resorts stopped selling liquor at the stroke of 1, although it was somewhat of an innovation for a Saturday night.

Despite the fact that Chief Collins was touring the district three highwaymen operated at Wabash avenue and Harrison street, a short time after he had passed.

Patrick Maskell, 158 West Eighteenth street; J. Conley, 293 Center avenue, and J. F. Bryne, 149 Canalport avenue, reported that they had been attacked, beaten almost to insensibility, and robbed of $706 and a diamond.

Four new policemen of the Thirty-fifth street station early in the morning participated in the capture of three alleged highway robbers. The men are James Jordan, William Downey, and Thomas Blaney. They were arrested following an attempted robbery of Willard Galusha, 5253 Bishop street, at Thirty-second street and Union avenue.

No torture compares to that of a rheumatic. Prescription No. 2851, by Eimer & Amend, quickly relieves all.

PEROXIDE HAIR OUT OF DATE.

Prematurely Gray of Salt and Pepper Type Given Prize of Honor by Women Experts.

New York, May 6.—[Special.]—Peroxide is out of date and henna is discounted. The too, too golden blondes and adventitious Titians may hide their diminished heads. Prematurely gray hair of pepper and salt effect is the latest. It took the prize of honor at the annual exhibition of the Ladies' Hairdressers' association Saturday night, and is now the envy of all womankind.

The hair in question grows on the head of Miss Mary Considine, and the gold medal goes to Ernest Daubert, the artist whose waves and puffs and professional genius transformed it from an ordinary suggestion of fading youth to the magnificent coiffure, touched with white and distinction, of a court lady.

Some of the puffs were adjustable, and the instruments of torture that fashioned those delightful undulations were in full view.

CROWD CHASES MEN IN BUGGY.

After Long Pursuit Fugitives Are Arrested for Knocking Down and Running Over a Little Boy.

James Oldahl, Ole Kallernuth, and Jens Egland, after the buggy in which they were riding had knocked down and run over Peter Hayes, 8 years old, 608 West Erie street, were pursued by a crowd of almost 1,000 men and boys from a ball park at Western and Chicago avenues and by three policemen in an automobile yesterday afternoon, and were arrested after a chase of a mile and a half.

Detectives Larson and Kubitzki of the West Chicago avenue station fired six shots at the fugitives early in the chase, but they paid no attention.

Realizing that the crowd was in an ugly temper and might do the men harm, the two detectives and Policeman McGinnis entered an automobile that was standing at the curb and captured the men at Division street and Sacramento avenue. The boy was not hurt seriously.

CRIME DISCLOSED IN LAKE MYSTERY

Examination of Body Shows Woman Was Smothered After Operation.

POLICE AGAIN ARE ACTIVE

Illegal Practitioners Are Sought for Prosecution by City and County Authorities.

Another examination of the body of the woman which was found in the lake near Thorndale avenue, which was made by Dr. Warren H. Hunter at the county morgue yesterday afternoon, left no doubt as to the cause of the death. The woman had been smothered to death after an operation. The condition of the lungs shows death resulted from suffocation.

Although the illegal practitioners believed to have caused her death may never be discovered, the case has stirred the police and coroner's officials to renewed activity.

Coroner Hoffman will begin an investigation this morning in an effort to bring to justice the physicians, midwives, and nurses who in the last twelve months have caused the death of not less than forty women in Chicago. This is nearly twice the number of women who have been murdered by other means in the city in the same length of time.

Authorities Lack a Clew.

Having found the nature of the woman's death, and being reasonably certain either physicians or midwives are guilty of the murder, the police probably will get no further because of the lack of evidence even as to the identity of the woman.

Work on the case began early in the morning when Lieut. Cudmore of the Summerdale police station found the names of sixteen women whose descriptions correspond in a general way to that of the body found in the lake who had been reported to the police as missing. Policemen were detailed to visit the homes of all of these persons, and before night all had been accounted for.

Police Advance a Theory.

The only tenable theory now advanced by the police is that the woman may have been treated in the office of some physician or in a hospital. She was then taken from the place.

After reaching a point considerably north of the city, possibly north of Evanston, a quarrel took place between the woman and her escort or her condition suddenly grew worse, say the police. At any rate, she was smothered to death. That this occurred in or north of Evanston is likely because of the locality of the body when found. For the women who have died as the result of similar operations in the last year, but one woman was sent to the penitentiary, and she was given her freedom in some manner not yet plain to the Chicago officials who sent her to the institution. She is now under indictment and may return to serve another sentence.

Fail to Get a Clew.

Coroner Hoffman declares this investigation is to bring results, and if proof can be obtained some one will be sent to the penitentiary.

All the cases now on the coroner's books have jury recommendations something like the following: "Deceased came to her death as the result of a criminal operation, and the jury recommends that the guilty person be sought out and held without bail until released by due process of the law."

As in the case of Mercedes Berriesobal, a pupil at the Hyde Park High school, the police have been uniformly unsuccessful in carrying out the recommendations of the coroners' juries.

KENTUCKY HAS DRY SUNDAY; CLOSING LAW IS ENFORCED.

No Liquor Can Be Had Across Bars, but the Colonels Probably Had Something to Drink at Home.

Lexington, Ky., May 6.—[Special.]—Kentucky, made famous by its fine whiskies, was virtually dry today, the Sunday closing laws being enforced in all the towns in central Kentucky, Lexington included.

The Kentucky colonel, who cannot be suppressed, of course had his at home and drank his mint julep as usual, but the visitor or citizen who wished to take a drink across the bar found them closed.

In Paris a saloonman thought he would take a party of friends fishing and take along a case of beer as a stimulant while eating their noon lunch. He was seen taking the case of beer from the house and promptly arrested. Here one saloonist attempted to run on the sly, but he was arrested. Frankfort, the state capital, has been a dry town for several Sundays and Versailles, Danville, and the other towns have fallen in line.

ICE KING AFRAID; POLITICIAN HELD.

Charles W. Morse Causes Arrest of Ex-Assemblyman, Fearing Bodily Harm.

ROW OVER POKER AT SEA.

Captain of Amerika Threatens to Put Offenders in Irons and Calm Rules.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE. New York, May 6.

Ex-Assemblyman Held for Writing Threats.

Ex-Assemblyman Patrick H. Roche was arrested this morning on complaint of Charles W. Morse, the ice king, and former president of the American Ice company. The complaint was that Roche had written a letter to Mr. Morse which conveyed a threat to do bodily harm.

Roche protested and declared he had committed no violation of law. While waiting for court, Roche said he had had trouble over the lease of the old Rossmore hotel at Broadway and Forty-second street, of which he was proprietor for four years.

"It was John F. Carroll who induced me to take the Rossmore," Mr. Roche said. "He advised me to go and see Mr. Morse, the owner, and I did so. I got a four years' lease from Jan. 1, 1901. The rental was to be $37,500 a year. The lease provided that I was to pay the taxes. According to my understanding of the lease, I was to pay taxes up to $8,000 a year. Should the taxes come to less than that I was to get a rebate. If the taxes were more than $8,000 for any one year I was not to be required to pay the excess. This was the cause of the whole trouble. Two years ago the property changed hands and the taxes went to $10,000 and I was ordered to pay them."

Roche left the hotel a few months ago and it now is run by Jockey Maher. Roche wrote a letter to Morse asking him to refund the excess for taxes. It was this letter, Morse declared, was the threat and that Roche must be crazy. The magistrate laughed at Morse's fears and refused to hold Roche.

Row at Poker on Ship; Captain Threatens Irons.

During the trip of the steamship Amerika, which arrived today, there was a poker game in the smoke-room, and a Frenchman named Robert lost about $200. He got it into his head he had been robbed, and left the table without settling. The three other men who were in the game followed him up. He still refused to pay, but went back to the smoke-room. An altercation arose and all four were asked to leave the room. The quarrel was renewed on deck and one of the three produced a revolver and fired two shots at the Frenchman. The captain told the men if there were any further words he would put them in irons.

Mrs. Burton Harrison came over on the Amerika. She has been abroad for the last two years resting. Her health is much improved, but she will not resume writing just yet.

George Ade also was a passenger.

The Amerika ran all day Saturday at full speed, though the fog was thick. It was using its new safety telephone appliance, which is connected with the keel, and when the steamer passed Nantucket lightship the presence of that vessel was detected though it was seven miles away.

B'rith Abraham Begins Convention.

The twentieth national convention of the Independent Order B'rith Abraham began here today with several hundred delegates in attendance. Samuel Weldorf, grand master of the old order of B'rith Abraham, said:

"There are a few gentlemen down in Washington who think they represent all the Jews in this country and they go to the president and tell him so. And he thinks they do and he gives them whatever they want. But no one asks your order, which represents 90,000 Jews in this country, what you think about it, because you don't ask yourselves. You haven't shown any interest."

Tammany Man in Shooting Scrape.

"Tim" Foley, a Tammany politician, came near being lynched in New Hell's Kitchen tonight. He shot John Flanagan, one of the neighborhood gang, and Flanagan is going to die. The police saved Foley from a mob of 3,000 persons by sneaking him into trolley cars and by a roundabout route, getting him to the West Forty-seventh street police station. The cars were made the targets of stones and everything that came to the hands of the mob. The windows were smashed and Foley and the police saved themselves by crouching under the seats.

Car Kills Woman and Injures Child.

A woman was instantly killed and her infant daughter's leg amputated in a collision between a trolley car and a carriage near Prospect park, Brooklyn, tonight.

Joseph Storch, a dealer in house furnishings, started for a drive. In the carriage were Storch, his wife, and three children. As it was crossing a street the carriage was struck by a trolley car, and Mrs. Storch, who had her baby in her arms, was thrown under the car and her skull was crushed. The child's leg fell across the track and a wheel passed over it.

Retired Broker, Ill, Ends Life.

Edwin William Clark, retired cotton broker and former member of the New York cotton exchange, committed suicide today in his apartments at the Hotel Marseille by shooting himself in the head with a revolver. He died before his wife could reach him. Mr. Clark was 64 years old and was a native of this city. He retired from business several years ago.

Archbishop Celebrates Midnight Mass.

Archbishop Farley celebrated pontifical high mass at 2:30 this morning in the old St. Andrew's church at Duane, on the occasion of the fifth anniversary of the founding of what popularly is known as "The night workers' midnight mass." This is the first time in this country that an archbishop has taken part in a service of this kind at such an hour.

AFTER RESERVE BOND ASSETS.

Kentucky State Treasurer Cited to Court That Appointed Receiver for Chicago Company.

Lexington, Ky., May 6.—[Special.]—State Treasurer Henry M. Bosworth has been ordered to appear in court here tomorrow morning and show cause why he should not turn over the assets of the American Reserve Bond company now in his hands to the receiver appointed by Judge Parker. There are now on deposit with the state treasurer cash and bonds to the amount of nearly $500,000.

Investment Men Indicted.

St. Louis, Mo., May 6.—[Special.]—Officers of a St. Louis bond investment company have been indicted by the federal grand jury. The indictments returned on Friday charge the use of the mails in a scheme to defraud.

The indictments were suppressed, as no arrests have been made.

The receivership suit against the American Reserve Bond company was transferred yesterday to the United States Circuit court from the St. Louis Circuit court.

Cigarmakers to Strike.

Boston, Mass., May 6.—Arrangements have been completed for the strike of cigarmakers, which will be instituted tomorrow for an increase in wages. This announcement was made at the union headquarters tonight. It is thought about 1,500 men will go out.

Seeks Retention as Park Keeper.

MRS. HUDSON H. KELLOGG

TO SETTLE PARK STRIFE.

COMMISSIONERS TO PASS ON MRS. KELLOGG'S GRIEVANCE.

More than 200 Residents of the Twenty-fourth Ward Have Signed Petition for Her Retention in Charge of Triangle Patch of Ground Which She Has Transformed from an Unsightly Mudhole Into a Beautiful Flower and Grass Plot.

Armed with a petition signed by more than 200 citizens of the Twenty-fourth ward, the friends of Mrs. Hudson H. Kellogg, 402 Chestnut street, will attend a special meeting of the small park commission in the city hall this afternoon to ask that she be continued as superintendent of Green Bay park, a triangular flower and grass plot at Cass, Rush, and Chestnut streets.

The meeting will be held to settle a dispute between Mrs. Kellogg and Paul Rapp, city superintendent of small parks, both claiming the right to supervise the little park. The trouble arose last week, when Rapp informed Mrs. Kellogg that he was in charge of the plot. She objected on the ground that she practically had founded the park and had been its superintendent for seven years.

Mrs. Kellogg entered a protest with the city officials and asked that a special meeting of the commission be held to decide the matter. Her friends all agreed to stand by her and got up a petition to present to the commissioners.

Unsightly Spot Is Beautified.

Mrs. Kellogg's residence faces the park. When she came to Chestnut street to live, eight years ago, the triangle was an unsightly area of mudholes and rubbish. She went to the superintendent of parks and asked if she might help to make the spot into a park. She was so enthusiastic and so eager to beautify the neighborhood that a gardener was furnished her and permission was given her to improve the ugly place.

In 1901, after she had accomplished much toward making the triangle a pretty plot of grass and flowers, F. W. Blodd, who was then commissioner of public works, formally appointed her superintendent of the park in appreciation of her efforts. Mrs. Kellogg was instrumental in securing an attractive iron fence for the plot and she worked many hours a day to improve the place. Under her constant care the park soon became the admiration of all the people in the neighborhood.

Control Demanded by Rapp.

Apparently it eclipsed some of the other small parks in attractiveness, for Paul Rapp, so her friends say, noticed the difference and became jealous. He decided that Mrs. Kellogg was too industrious and demanded the keys to the park.

"I gave all my services to beautifying that piece of ground," Mrs. Kellogg said yesterday, "and the joy of having charge of it was all the remuneration I ever asked for or got. Now it seems as if I should be continued as superintendent of the park which I myself created. It would almost break my heart to give up caring for that triangle of foliage and blossoms. To me it is as dear almost as a child could be and I cannot stop caring for it as long as I have good health.

"If I had failed to keep it in good condition it would be different, but it now is one of the prettiest little parks in the city."

Rapp contends that as city superintendent of small parks he should have full charge of Green Bay as well as other parks.

Mrs. Kellogg's Work Praised.

Dwight Perkins, city architect, has written Mrs. Kellogg a letter defending her position. He says the city needs the help of all women and citizens in making Chicago more beautiful. Mrs. Kellogg is backed by Ald. Foell and Ald. Reese, ex-Ald. Minwegen, Harry Bonney, and numerous other residents of the ward.

Mrs. Kellogg is one of the few women in America who have taken an active interest in the making of parks. She has been the subject of many articles in newspapers of the country. She believes women should do more toward beautifying the cities. Green Bay park is a shining example of her industry. She named it Green Bay park because upon the spot where it was founded traders from Green Bay, Wis., used to stop to feed their horses in the early days of Chicago.

Killing Frost in Nebraska.

Lincoln, Neb., May 6.—There was a killing frost in parts of Nebraska last night, but the damage done cannot be yet be accurately measured. Frost covered the ground in this county and ice formed at Broken Bow. The temperature tonight indicates frost. The principal damage will be to fruit.

BIG BATTLESHIP PULLED OFF BAR.

Rhode Island Floated by Combined Efforts of Four Powerful Tugs.

DAMAGE IS NOT KNOWN.

Court of Inquiry Will Be Called to Fix Responsibility for Mishap.

Norfolk, Va., May 6.—[Special.]—The United States battleship Rhode Island is afloat again tonight, after having been aground at the mouth of the York river since early yesterday morning. It was due to the efforts of four powerful naval tugs, the Uncas, Wahneta, Hercules, and Mohawk that the big warship was freed from the sandbar.

The United States cruiser Minneapolis stood by and saw the Rhode Island pulled from shoal water at 6:30 o'clock, and would have taken a hand in the proceedings but for the inability to get a hawser aboard the battleship.

When naval tugs reached the stranded warship, after a thirty mile run from the Norfolk navy yard, they found the Rhode Island's nose poked high on the bar at the eastern entrance to York river.

Early this morning the cruiser Minneapolis endeavored to get a line aboard the Rhode Island's stern, with the assistance of the naval tug Uncas. In maneuvering the Uncas was in collision with the Rhode Island and carried away part of its rail. Later the Mohawk went aground alongside the Rhode Island while passing a hawser aboard the vessel, but eventually got afloat.

Efforts at High Tide Futile.

The efforts to float the Rhode Island at high tide this morning were futile. At low tide today the fact was disclosed that the battleship was drawing twenty-four feet of water aft and eighteen forward. Water was pumped from the forward tanks aft and every piece of portable material was shifted from the forward part of the ship with a view of lightening that quarter.

This afternoon the naval tugs tandemed for a strain at the battleship at high tide. Their efforts were successful. The Rhode Island then dropped anchor in the mouth of the York river and will come to Hampton roads tomorrow morning.

It is believed the course of the warship was laid too far to the eastward in entering the York river.

The Wahneta, Mohawk, and Hercules returned to the navy yard tonight, leaving the Uncas standing by the Rhode Island. It is not known tonight the extent of the injury to the ship.

It develops that no native pilot was taken aboard the battleship when it entered the capes. Virginia pilots say one was offered but refused. No other pilot would have undertaken to take the ship to York bay.

Goes Ashore at High Tide.

The battleship is supposed to have passed in the Virginia capes at 4:40 o'clock yesterday morning. It took it probably three hours to get from the capes to the point at which it ran aground, and if that be true, it went ashore at high tide water.

There was fair weather at York Spit yesterday morning and no sea was running. The wind at Cape Henry at 8 o'clock yesterday morning was blowing from the southwest, four miles an hour.

The Rhode Island is commanded by Capt. Perry Garst. It is his first battleship to command. Capt. Garst has had nearly forty-three years' service in the navy. Of this period he served twenty years in sea duty. He served one year and five months under a commission commander. Prior to taking command of the Rhode Island when it was commissioned recently he had been on shore duty since February, 1902. He became a captain in June, 1904, and the Rhode Island was his first command under commission.

Court of Inquiry to Investigate.

A court of inquiry will be appointed to ascertain the cause of the accident and report whether further action should be taken against any one who may be responsible. This court, usually appointed by the commanding officer of the fleet or squadron, will, in the present case, in all probability be named by the secretary of the navy, as the Rhode Island had not yet been attached to any squadron, but was merely out for a shakedown. If the court of inquiry finds any of the officers culpable a court martial will be appointed.

IRRIGATION DITCH OPENED.

Water Turned Into First Section of Western Canal Which Will Reclaim 500,000 Acres.

Whalen, Wyo., May 6.—[Special.]—An epoch in the history of irrigating in the west was reached yesterday, when water was turned into the first section of the interstate canal. The portion of the canal opened is forty-five miles long, and cost about $600,000. The two remaining sections will cost about the same, and, with the reservation reservoir and lateral systems which are being constructed by the government, will bring the total expense up to $3,500,000. An area approximating a half million acres will be reclaimed.

Girl Who Eloped on 18th Birthday.

Edna Carpenter.

On her eighteenth birthday Edna Carpenter disappeared from the home of her guardian, John W. Kelly, 247 West Monroe street, yesterday, and the police were asked to aid in finding her. Mr. Kelly told the police Miss Carpenter had left a note which read: "I have eloped. Please do not worry; I will be all right and search for me would be useless." Kelly said Miss Carpenter had been friendly with a young man whom he did not know and that he believed she had eloped. Friends of the young woman said they often heard her express a desire to go to St. Louis. That is the only clew the police have, and authorities at St. Louis were telegraphed a description of the girl and asked to watch for her arrival.

ing without fear of another immunity bath. It must not be forgotten that the practices which Mr. Garfield ascribes to the Standard Oil company have long been a matter of common knowledge. It would be monstrous if the men who have been guilty of violating the law should escape punishment.

"But, besides punishing the guilty, congress has another duty—that of making enactments which will prevent the development of another monopoly like the Standard Oil. Mr. Garfield's report states that the Standard sells its products cheaper in a competitive territory than it does in a noncompetitive territory. A bill I introduced a few days ago makes this practice a misdemeanor punishable upon conviction by a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $5,000, or imprisonment for not less than thirty days or more than six months. The Garfield report in itself is a sufficient argument for the passage of this bill. It is my intention to urge the interstate and foreign commerce committee to report the bill promptly in order that action may be secured by the house at least before the end of the session.

Attorney General Moody to Act.

Attorney General Moody is out of town for a couple of days, but when he returns it is his intention to proceed with the preparation of instructions to the district attorneys at the points where service can be had upon the men and corporations accused of rebating and violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, with a view to having them secure indictments such as were obtained against the sugar trust.

It is proposed to follow the same policy as was observed against the latter corporation, that is to say, both the giver and receiver of rebates are to be prosecuted.

Whether Mr. Rockefeller will be named in any of the indictments has not been determined, as it is the understanding here that he has not been in active control of the Standard Oil company for some time, perhaps beyond the three year period fixed by the statute of limitations.

It is stated authoritatively that the president and attorney general have no intention of shielding any one, no matter how high placed he might be or what influence he may possess. It is the purpose of the administration to demonstrate that the Elkins act and the Sherman anti-trust law are not dead letters, but that they are active laws which it is the duty of the government to enforce.

It is the belief of the president that if one or two men high up in the business world who have been guilty of the crime of accepting or giving rebates or conspiracy in restraint of trade could be sent to jail further violation of the law would end. Of course, imprisonment cannot be secured under the Elkins act, which merely imposes a fine, but the Sherman law declares that every person who shall engage in a conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce shall be punished by a fine, not exceeding $5,000, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year.

Means a Maze of Lawsuits.

Should the proceedings against the Standard Oil under consideration declaring it to be illegal be carried on a struggle between the government and one of its creatures will be inaugurated which will eclipse that which occurred when the government sought the dissolution of the Northern Securities company. In case of the conviction of the Standard the persons who have been driven out of business by its methods may succeed in getting damages. Under section seven of the Sherman law any person injured in business or property by any other person or corporation by reason of anything forbidden or declared unlawful in the act may sue therefor in any Circuit court and recover threefold the damages he sustained.

So if the Standard Oil company be declared by the courts an illegal combination it is likely that it will be precipitated into a maze of lawsuits whereof there will be no end.

Clothes Shop Has the Best Ready-to-Wear Clothes

It is not easy to maintain in a community the position which we have. Men who buy $10 suits will take anything, but not so with the man who pays from $20 to $50. The fact that we hold our trade and increase it season after season is the best proof that we have garments a little better than anybody else.

LIKES THE ALLISON AMENDMENT

President Roosevelt Reiterates His Position in Regard to the Pending Railroad Rate Bill.

Washington, D. C., May 6.—President Roosevelt today reiterated his views on railroad rate legislation in a telegram sent to the legislative committee of the Pennsylvania state grange. The telegram follows:

"Washington, D. C., May 6.—W. F. Hill and members legislative committee, Pennsylvania state grange: Telegram received. I am happy to tell you that not only am I standing on my original position as regards rate legislation, but it seems likely that congress will take this position, too. The Hepburn bill meets my views, as I have from the beginning stated. The Allison amendment is only declaratory of what the Hepburn bill must mean supposing it to be constitutional, and no genuine friend of the bill can object to it without stultifying himself.

"In addition, I should be glad to get certain amendments, such as those commonly known as the Long and Overman amendments, but they are not vital, and even without them the Hepburn bill, with the Allison amendment, contains practically exactly what I have both originally and always since asked for, and if enacted into law it will represent the longest step ever yet taken in the direction of solving the railway rate problem. THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

WANTS REPORT ON POSTAL LAW

Cortelyou Recommends Appointment of Committee to Investigate Subject of Second Class Matter.

Washington, D. # AN EVERY-DAY STRUGGLE.

Men and women of every occupation overtax the kidneys and suffer daily miseries when the kidneys begin to fail.

Any work that is a constant strain on the back is bound to hurt the kidneys. The lifting, digging, and planting of farm work, the constant bending over a desk or sitting at a sewing machine, working for hours on jarring, jolting wagons or railroad trains; the stooped positions and the reaching, pulling and heavy lifting of a hundred different trades—all these are hard on the back and must wear, weaken, and injure the kidneys, because the kidneys are in the very part of the back that feels the strain. When the kidneys are sick, every exertion sends a sharp, stinging pain through the back or loins, and you are weary and tired all the time.

Many tasks, like housework, that do not require great physical strength, are very trying on the back and kidneys. That is why backache is so common. That is why so many women are unnaturally weak and tired and sleepless.

Doan's Kidney Pills have cured thousands of working men and women—have given them strong backs for their daily work. Doan's Kidney Pills help the kidneys to do their duty—to eliminate the liquid poisons from the blood, and to send pure, health-giving blood to the muscles and organs. We would sincerely advise every man or woman whose work is hard on the back to take an occasional dose of Doan's Kidney Pills. It will keep the kidneys well and the back strong, and keeping the kidneys well is half the task of keeping the body well.

"Every Picture Tells a Story."

CHICAGO PROOF

Andrew Winslade, of 6020 Ingleside ave., Chicago, well known retired railroad engineer, says: "I was a sufferer from backache and kidney troubles for many years. The pain was across the small of my back and at times very severe. Often in the morning it was some minutes after getting out of bed before I could stoop to tie my shoe laces. I suffered intolerable agony and the pains went way down into my legs. My kidney secretions were also badly disordered. I first got Doan's Kidney Pills at the Public Drug Co., 150 State street, last fall. They worked quickly and cured me of backache. I haven't felt a pain since, but I still take them occasionally as a regulator."

COUNCIL TO ACT ON CITY HALL DANGER

Question of Abandoning the Damaged Building to Come Up Tonight.

MORE PERILS ARE FOUND.

Wrecking Expert Discovers Defects in Beams Which May Bring About Disaster.

The question of abandoning or improving the crumbling city hall will be put up to the city council at its meeting this evening. Meanwhile Building Commissioner Bartzen is trying to discover some means of making the ruin safe. He said last night the fourth floor and perhaps the entire building may have to be closed at once and Mayor Dunne said he would act on the commissioner's recommendations.

A decision will be reached by the commissioner after consulting with his advisory commission of engineers today. The mayor will then present the problem to the aldermen. Mayor Dunne favors abandoning the present site to the county and building a city hall in Union park.

Danger Found in Beams.

The serious condition of the structure was further revealed yesterday by the examination of the walls and flooring in the northeast corner of the fourth and fifth floors. While the whole east face of the building is settling the northeast corner has sagged farther than the remainder and seems to be in danger of falling off.

Barney Benson, the city wrecking expert, had half a dozen men working all day removing brick and stone from the old iron girders. The beams and joists were found to be bolted at one end, but resting without anchors on the supports at the other end. The settling of the east side is gradually drawing the unfastened ends off their supports.

"The walls are strong enough," said Benson. "There is enough stone in this building to build four city halls along modern lines of engineering. But if these beams slip off their supports the fourth floor is going down. That will take the third with it and probably the whole building would be telescoped, leaving the walls standing.

"What we have found today shows a clear violation of the building ordinances on the part of the contractors. The joists should have been fastened at both ends. We find them pinned at one end and loose at the other."

Blast Would Start Collapse.

Asked if there is any danger of an immediate collapse, Benson replied:

"Well, you can hear the beams giving from time to time when all is quiet. An explosion in the neighborhood might start this corner and the whole thing would come down."

Building Commissioner Bartzen and Deputy Hughes came in during the afternoon and inspected the ruin. Mr. Bartzen called attention to a crack in the outer wall which has gradually been widening.

"If the city hall collapses," said the commissioner, "the contractors will be responsible for the damage or loss of life. If they had anchored the ends of the beams there would be no dislocation. If the upper floor should fall all of the floors would probably pile up in the basement and somebody would get hurt. The building is in a bad state. We shall have to close the fourth floor, and perhaps the whole building, unless some means can be found of making it safe."

Want City Hall on West Side.

Mayor Dunne was perturbed when the condition of affairs was reported to him.

"When the contractors began sinking the foundations of the county building I told Building Commissioner Williams to take measures to insure the safety of the city hall," he said. "If there is now any danger to the occupants of the building I should favor abandoning it at once. I shall be guided in the matter by the report of the experts. Personally, I favor building a new city hall on the west side."

"How about financing the undertaking," he was asked.

"I think a way could be found to provide the money," replied the mayor. "It would be difficult to find temporary quarters for all the city departments, but if the hall is unsafe the only thing to do is to move out at once."

Churches Are Inspected.

Twenty-nine building inspectors made the rounds of the churches in the morning looking for violations of the building and public safety ordinances. No infractions were reported to the commissioner.

Mayor Dunne said he was uncertain whether he would send an appointment to the position of public works commissioner to the council tonight. Acting Commissioner William L. O'Connell is the only candidate now mentioned for the place. The ordinance providing for the elevation of the Chicago Terminal Transfer tracks from Rockwell and Twelfth streets to North Forty-sixth avenue will probably be called up for passage. Ald. Bennett will ask the passage of the ordinance providing for an issue of corporate bonds to the extent of $1,500,000

FATAL FIGHT ON STREET CAR.

Frank Bentel Is Pulled from Platform by Stranger and His Skull Is Fractured by Fall.

Because Frank Bentel, 24 years old, 1050 West Polk street, interfered to protect Frank Thompson, 280 North Kedzie avenue, motorman of a Kedzie avenue car, who was assaulted early yesterday morning by a stranger, he was pulled from the car by the stranger and in falling he fractured his skull. He died two hours later in Park Avenue hospital.

The stranger was standing on the front step of the car and the motorman requested him to get on the platform, as it was against the rule to stand on the steps. The stranger knocked the motorman down.

Bentel and his brother-in-law, Anton Rehm, then interfered and before the motorman regained control of his car Bentel and the stranger had fallen to the ground. The stranger arose and fled.

FIGHT LA SALLE STREET FIRE.

Blaze in Traders' Safe and Trust Building Causes Damage of Several Hundred Dollars.

Fire broke out in the Traders' Safe and Trust building, 253-261 La Salle street, yesterday afternoon, and caused several hundred dollars' damage. It originated on the first floor, in the rear of the saloon of James Hay. From there it ascended to the second floor, where are the freight offices of the New York, Chicago and St. Louis and other eastern railways.

More than 3,000 bales of hay which had been stored in a barn at 39 Exchange avenue, Union Stockyards, were burned in the afternoon.

For more than three hours water was poured on the burning structure before the flames were extinguished. The loss will approximate $4,500.

BLAME IS LAID ON ENGINEER.

Report on Collision on Pennsylvania Railroad Holds Driver of West Bound Train Responsible.

Altoona, Pa., May 6.—The official report of the collision on Friday night on the Pennsylvania railroad, which caused the death of ten persons and the injury of many others, lays the blame on Engineer J. T. Dougherty, who was hauling the westbound train. Engineer Dougherty did not deny that he had made a mistake. The injured at the Altoona hospital are doing well.

School Janitor Kills Himself.

CARS KILL AND INJURE.

TWO HURT ON STREET RAILWAYS; ONE KILLED ON "Q" TRACKS.

Another Victim in Recent Evanston Accident Dies from Its Effects in a Hospital—Woman Passenger in Trolley Faints When She Sees a Pedestrian Run Down—Man on an Illinois Central Train Struck by Support of a Lake Front Viaduct.

Two men were injured in Chicago street car accidents yesterday, one fatally, and a third victim of a recent accident died in Evanston. Another man was killed instantly by a Burlington train at La Grange.

Wedged beneath a street car at Randolph and Dearborn streets in the evening, Irving Seeger, 28 years old, a cigarmaker, was compelled to remain until he could be released by persons who lifted the car from the rails. He fell while the car was turning a curve and was dragged twenty feet before the car could be stopped. He was taken to the Chicago Emergency hospital, where it was found he had suffered a fractured skull and fatal injuries.

Passengers riding on the front vestibule of a west bound Division street car were alarmed when they saw Martin Hanson, 29 years old, 389 West Erie street, struck by the fender of the car and made unconscious. Hanson, according to information given the police of the Rawson street station, was dragged several feet. A woman passenger fainted when she saw Hanson injured.

Dies as Result of Accident.

Martin Christenson, a street car conductor, 916 Edgewater place, died at the Evanston hospital as the result of injuries sustained in a street car accident on Wednesday, when he was thrown from a north bound car at Chicago avenue and Dempster street, Evanston, and his skull fractured.

Killed on Railway Tracks.

Fred Duval, 19 years old, of Park Ridge, was instantly killed at the Stone avenue station of the Burlington railroad at La Grange early in the morning by a west bound suburban train. He stepped from the platform to see if the train was approaching and he met death in the presence of a number of his friends with whom he had been attending a dance at Grossdale. They had walked to La Grange from Grossdale. The young man is the son of a police official at Park Ridge.

Richard Brandt, 27 years old, fireman on an Illinois Central railroad train, was perhaps fatally hurt in the morning when he struck a pillar supporting the viaduct at Sixteenth street.

OTIS SKINNER TALKS OF STAGE.

Considered as an Art, the Province of the Drama Is to Please, Not to Teach, Says Actor.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 6.—[Special.]—"If the stage is an art it must be beneficial in its influence on the public, because art is always uplifting. Every art is an expression of emotion, and the drama is the most emotional of all," thus spoke Otis Skinner in an address on "The Theater and Its Relation to the moral life of the community" before the Ethical Culture society today.

"The theater, however, should not be confounded," continued Mr. Skinner," with the schoolroom, except in the largest sense. The province of art is to please, not to teach. When the drama becomes avowedly didactic it really ceases to instruct. I do not mean we should regard the theater lightly. The drama is indeed a serious thing. More people attend the playhouse than the church.

"But the lessons of life to be learned from the theater must be derived indirectly and by subjective meditation upon the mistakes and miseries of those in the play. They must never be thrown at an audience in so many dogmas, as the preacher expounds to his congregation."

FAILS TO SECURE ENDOWMENT.

Indiana University Unable to Accept Offer Made by New York and Chicago Physicians.

Bloomington, Ind., May 6.—[Special.]—Indiana university has been unable to provide the library and laboratory equipment necessary to secure the two endowments for pathological research, recently offered it by a Chicago physician and by Dr. Benjamin Taylor Terry of New York City. The combined value of the two gifts thus lost to the university is $20,000.

LONGWORTH AUTO FAST

PRESIDENT'S SON-IN-LAW AND BRIDE STOPPED IN CINCINNATI.

Young Congressman Who Married Alice Roosevelt Halted by Mounted Police Because Machine in Which They Were Riding with Their Friends, Taylor Fields and His Betrothed, Miss Marion Harrison, Was Exceeding Speed Limit.

Cincinnati, O., May 6.—[Special.]—Congressman and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Miss Marion Harrison, and Taylor Fields, one of Mr. Longworth's chums, were stopped in Madison avenue at midnight tonight by two policemen, who threatened to take the whole party to the police station for alleged violation of the automobile speed ordinance. The policeman compromised by taking possession of the machine and locking up Mr. Fields until a bail bond had been secured for him.

Mr. Longworth and his bride and Miss Harrison, who is engaged to marry Mr. Fields in the near future, were taken to the Country club until the auto had been returned from the police station to take them to Rookwood, the Longworth residence.

Spent Day in Kentucky.

The party had spent the day at the Kentucky residence of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Holmes at Holmedale, Ky., where Miss Harrison and Mr. Fields were given a luncheon in honor of their approaching wedding. They were speeding along Madison road in East Walnut Hill, homeward bound, and were within a short distance of Rookwood when two mounted policemen saw the machine coming down the pike like a streak.

The policemen timed the auto with their stop watches and then called upon the chauffeur to stop. Not knowing the identity of the occupants of the automobile, the police threatened to take all of them to the station. The men of the party loudly protested and a lively altercation followed. The policemen finally arranged to take Mr. and Mrs. Longworth and Miss Harrison to the Country club nearby and Mr. Fields, the owner of the automobile, and his chauffeur to the station, where charges were preferred against them. They were released on bond in a few minutes.

Auto Accident May Be Fatal.

Cleveland, O., May 6.—[Special.]—Miss Katherine Maher, aged 27 years, is near death at the Downe street hospital as the result of being struck by a large touring car late last night.

With a woman friend, Miss Maher was standing at a street corner in the East End, when two large automobiles bore down upon them. The first was being driven by A. G. Gowan and was closely followed by that of Parmalee Herrick, a son of former Gov. Herrick. Each car contained a party of ladies on the way to the Country club.

Gowan's car struck Miss Maher and knocked her ten feet into the air. Herrick quickly stopped his car, picked up the victim, and rushed to the hospital with her. He afterward summoned his father's physicians.

Injured in Auto Smashup.

New York, May 6.—Gifford Cochran of Yonkers was badly hurt in an automobile accident today near White Plains, N. Y. The machine collided with a truck, the horses of which were killed. With Mr. Cochran were Joseph Pulitzer Jr., Mrs. Cochran, Miss Sally D. Dixon, and George Simpson, the chauffeur. Although the car was completely wrecked and the occupants thrown out, only Mr. Cochran was seriously injured.

EVANSTON BREAKS ITS AUTO RECORD.

Twenty-three Motorists Arrested Charged with Violating Speed Law.

NEW TIMING PLAN TRIED.

Policeman, on Bicycle, Paces Cars —Eleven Pay Fines, Others to Fight.

Twenty-three speeding autoists were arrested by the Evanston police yesterday. The number was a record breaker for the suburb and was partly due to the fact that it was the first day of the spring upon which Chief Frost has seen fit to put his men on the watch for scorchers. The largest total last year was fifteen speeders in one day, but they were caught napping yesterday to such an extent that almost $400 will be required to pay their fines.

A mounted "plain clothes" man was the one who caught the autoists. The old "trap," measured out over an eighth of a mile, along which the machines were timed, has been discarded, and a policeman on a bicycle fitted with a speedometer accomplished the day's work. As he sighted a car that appeared to be going at a lively pace he would ride along with it for a short distance, and if he found it was exceeding the speed limit he would signal one of the several patrolmen, who were placed at convenient distances along the road, and the offender would be taken in charge.

Ernest J. Lehmann, a son of Mrs. Augusta Lehmann, who a short time ago denied that he had raced with a friend down the Lake Shore drive, was one of those placed under arrest. He protested in vain, and, determined to fight his case, asked that it be continued. Police Magistrate J. F. Boyer could not be convinced that the young man was of legal age and would not accept his bond, which finally was signed by C. W. Praesent, who was with him.

Eleven Who Paid Fines.

Eleven of the scorchers, satisfied that a contest of their cases would be futile, paid their fines, which were placed at $15 and costs, a total of $17. They were:

Arbogast, E. W., Lexington hotel, salesman.
Banta, A. G., Chicago Beach hotel, salesman for an automobile company.
Berry, Ralph, 59 Evanston avenue, chauffeur.
Chisholm, George D., 1042 Chase avenue, secretary of the Theodore A. Kochs company.
Gardner, J. F., 833 Wilson avenue, salesman of railway supplies.
Gibson, Guy G., Chicago Beach hotel, president of Guy G. Gibson Coal company.
Ingels, A. W., traveling agent for Stowell Roofing company, 47 Market street.
Naumes, Joseph, 4311 Forrestville avenue, chauffeur.
Snelling, F. W., 1841 Surf street, salesman.
Wilson, Samuel, "427 Woodlawn avenue"; name and address admittedly fictitious.
Wolf, Fred W. Jr., 1210 Sunnyside avenue.

Twelve Will Be Tried.

The twelve others, who desired a hearing, and whose cases were continued until later in the week, were:

Adolphson, Oscar, chauffeur for J. P. Primley, 1029 Judson avenue, Evanston.
Aldrich, A. L., 835 Seward street, Evanston, real estate.
Benton, L. E., 1457 Dakin street, chauffeur.
Brown, Frank A., 822 Wilson avenue, president of the Squire Dingee company.
Dunber, C. F., 2667 Kenmore avenue, of Dunbar & Co., 10 North Desplaines street.
Hastings, R. V., chauffeur for W. R. Manterre, former alderman, 399 East Superior street.
Lehmann, Ernest J., 2004 Diversey boulevard.
Lowd, Charles, 1380 North Clark street, chauffeur for R. F. Lemont.
McCary, C. J., 305 Wesley avenue, Oak Park, of the Smith-McCary company, insurance.
Osings, J. H., 1217 Jackson boulevard, clerk.
Paul, Louis, Madison and Oakley streets, Evanston, chauffeur for Garwood Harris.
Von Klein, E. E. C., 1310 Lee street, Evanston.

Nearly all of the prisoners took the matter calmly, one of them, Mr. Osings, even declaring it "a pleasure to be arrested by the gentlemanly Evanston police."

Run Down in State Street.

An automobile, the license number of which is said to be 673, struck and severely injured John Wagner, 35 years old, 1706 State street, at State and Monroe streets in the afternoon. The motor continued on its way. Wagner was alighting from a car. The automobile, driven close to it, struck him, and he fell between the car and machine.

SON OF JAP BANKER MURDERED?

Body Found in New Jersey Creek and Money and Watch Are Missing.

New York, May 6.—The body of Eijiro Nahano, the 23 year old son of a wealthy Japanese banker, who disappeared from a hotel in this city April 28, was found tonight in a creek running between Bergen and Hudson counties, New Jersey. A reward of $2,500 had been offered for information as to Nahano's whereabouts. He was supposed to have had $5,000 in cash with him. Tonight only $1.36 was found in his clothing. His gold watch was missing. Nahano was seen near Fairview, N. J., the night of April 28, when he displayed a roll o. bills.

SARCASTIC FLING AT J. D. JR. BY SCOFFER IN BIBLE CLASS.

Laudation of "Spirit That Never Gives Up" Brings Retort That Standard Oil Has Not Overlooked Chance.

New York, May 6.—[Special.]—A scoffer hurled sarcasm at John D. Rockefeller Jr. today when he was talking to his bible class at the Fifth Avenue Baptist church.

"I admire the spirit that never gives up," said Mr. Rockefeller. "We've got to have it in our daily life. The man without it never will get anywhere. Opportunity will not seek us out. We must watch for it and when it comes we must be quick to grasp it. We must make all we can out of it."

As he paused to let the words sink in, a man sitting in a front pew exclaimed:

"Yes, I guess the Standard Oil hasn't overlooked any opportunities."

Mr. Rockefeller pretended not to hear the remark and continued his discussion.

"Don't be afraid to assert yourself," he said. "You must let men know that you are not afraid to do things. Do not shrink from criticism. If you are right all the criticism in the world will not hurt you. But let me tell you, men"—and Mr. Rockefeller laid particular emphasis on each word —"if your acts are not above reproach you will be found out sooner or later.

"Those of us who are possessed of advantages over others owe it to the less fortunate to help them out. If we have more education than some others we must help them. If we happen to have more wealth it is our duty to help with our money as far as we can. We must not think that we are entitled to keep to ourselves all these advantages. Let us be liberal with our possessions."

SISTERS OF MUENTER FEAR HE HAS ENDED HIS LIFE.

Hope of Finding Harvard Tutor Is Abandoned After Appeal to Surrender Is Unnoticed.

Receiving no response from their advertisement urging Erich Muenter to give himself up to the Cambridge authorities and prove his innocence, the sisters of the missing Harvard tutor fear he may have committed suicide. They think if he were alive he would be willing to return to Cambridge although he is accused of giving his wife a fatal poison.

The Chicago police began their second week of work on the case yesterday, but made no headway in their search for the man. Mrs. Max Gundlach of Rogers Park, one of the sisters of Muenter, said last night she had received no word from him.

In Cambridge the police continued to search for evidence against him, determined to convict him if possible when he is caught. A man closely associated with the case is authority for the statement that enough arsenic was found in Mrs. Muenter's stomach to kill several persons.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE FOR MAY

A Woman's Explorations in Unknown Labrador

Labrador is one of the few portions of the world which has remained practically unexplored. Leonidas Hubbard lost his life in trying to make his way through this desolate country. Recently Mrs. HUBBARD, the widow of the explorer, accompanied only by a few guides, succeeded in accomplishing what strong men had failed to accomplish. In 61 days she made the journey of over 600 miles on foot and by canoes through the wilderness from one end of Labrador to the other, and for the first time correctly mapped the country which no white man had traversed since 1838. This is the complete account of her explorations, written by herself.

How Men Feel in Battle

A remarkable narrative of the actual sensations of a soldier under fire. It is written by S. H. M. BYERS, a veteran of the Civil War, who enlisted as a private and was repeatedly distinguished for gallantry in action. His story, which is largely autobiographical, is unique. General BYERS is a trained writer as well as a soldier, and his detailed picture of his own experiences is a vivid and brilliant piece of descriptive writing.

Mr. Janvier in Mexico

After an absence of almost twenty years THOMAS A. JANVIER recently revisited Mexico for HARPER'S MAGAZINE. This is the first of a number of delightful articles which he has written. A picturesque account of old haunts revisited, old memories revived, written with all the charm for which the author is distinguished.

The Tragedies of Animal Life

Mr. HAROLD S. DEMING is a naturalist who gets all his knowledge at first hand from the animals and birds themselves. He writes only what he himself has seen, and he is a keen observer and a charming writer. His article in the May MAGAZINE describes most vividly intensely interesting incidents in the life of two hummingbirds, and later a dramatic tragedy of the forest in which a hawk and some of the forest folk came in conflict.

Unpublished Writings of Lewis Carroll

A delightful hitherto unpublished paper by the late LEWIS CARROLL, author of "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland," full of the same charming humor and pleasant philosophy which have made him one of the most beloved of the world's writers.

Personal Adventures on a Whaler

Mr. CLIFFORD W. ASHLEY, the artist who made a trip on a whaler recently for HARPER'S MAGAZINE, writes dramatically of the stirring scenes of the actual capture of whales off the African coast—of the long chases, the narrow escapes, and of the interesting if less exciting work of "trying out" the oil.

8 Complete Short Stories

There are eight notable short stories in HARPER'S MAGAZINE for May, stories of adventure, of love, of child life, of humor, of the city, and of the country. Among the authors are JUSTUS MILES FORMAN, ALICE BROWN, JOHNSON MORTON, NELSON LLOYD, J. B. CONNOLLY, ANNIE HAMILTON DONNELL, ETC., ETC., ETC.

Straight Talk on Good Furniture

THE absence of "bargain" sales in this store means only this—that we are making and selling exclusively the kind of furniture that never varies in value except to increase as its age increases—that we sell it every day in the year at the lowest possible price at which such furniture can be made and sold.

We own and operate the largest and finest factory in the world making hand-made mahogany furniture exclusively. This factory never has been able to quite keep pace with the demand for its product, although its facilities are constantly increased as rapidly as its high standard will allow.

Cowan hand-made furniture is on sale in all the leading cities of America. It never, under any circumstances, is included in any "odd lot," "factory surplus" or other bargain offers. Its worth is established, its possession is always an asset, its value enhances with the years.

Such furniture, and only such furniture, is always an investment and always a bargain at the prices asked for it.

LABOR DOOR AJAR FOR POLITICIANS.

Federation Refuses to Exclude "Professionals" and Public Employes.

ALTERS ELECTION RULE.

Officials Will Be Chosen Only Once a Year to Avoid Semi-Annual Row.

The federation of labor yesterday gave its approval to the professional politician. Instead of showing the union political "boss" the door, the federation extended him a welcome and invited him to a seat in the body. A vote on a proposed amendment to the federation constitution registered labor's stand.

A strong effort was made by a faction calling themselves "out and cut" trades unionists to oust all "salaried public officials, professional politicians, lawyers, or any one who is not a member of the trade or calling he represents and who is working at that trade." The move failed after two hours of spirited debate by the vote of 60 to 37.

The amendment would have excluded from membership in the central body the teachers' federation, the postoffice clerks' union, and a score of individual leaders who hold political jobs in the city, county, or state.

Cry Is "Too Much Politics."

The cry raised in the meeting that "too much politics" was undermining the fundamental principles of the body, and that strictly trade union matters were being neglected in the interest of a set of "office seekers," stirred up a storm.

"Whenever election time comes around," said Delegate John J. Ryan of the gasfitters' union, "some delegate from the federation goes out and pledges himself to deliver all the labor votes in his ward or precinct. That seems to be about all this body exists for."

A number of other leaders took the stand that politicians and public officials were a good thing for the federation. They said the politicians ought to be kept in subjection, but that they should be permitted to hold seats in the meetings.

Will Hold Elections Annually.

A change in the time of holding the federation elections also was adopted. Instead of semi-annually the elections hereafter will be held only once a year. This was explained to be for the purpose of minimizing opportunities for friction such as has characterized the last two elections.

Charles D. Wheeler read a report of an investigation made by the grievance committee regarding the manufacture and sale of impure food products.

It was announced that a massmeeting will be held next Sunday at Brand's hall for the benefit of the officials of the Western Federation of Miners now under arrest on charges of complicity in assassination and murder plots.

Nonunion Molders Brought In.

Fifty nonunion iron molders were secured to take the places of strikers, and several foundries are prepared to resume work today. It was said most of the men will be placed in the foundries of the Allis-Chalmers company.

The union announced that the payment of strike benefits of $7 a week will begin this morning. About 600 men were reported to be idle.

Iron Workers May Arbitrate.

At a meeting this afternoon at 122 La Salle street the striking structural iron workers may move to accept the arbitration proposal of the contractors. Leaders expressed the belief that the men will vote to continue the strike, and said thousands of workmen will be compelled to quit for lack of work on downtown buildings today.

The board of business agents of the allied unions will meet this morning at 164 Madison street and take up the proposed "individual" strike plan.

Lake Strike Weakening?

Reports from lake points indicated a weakening in the marine strike. President D. J. Keefe of the longshoremen's union was said to have ordered the crews of several tugs belonging to the Great Lakes Towing company to return to work at Sault Ste. Marie. Dockworkers were reported to be deserting at Buffalo along with the grain shovelers.

The twentieth anniversary of the inauguration of the eight hour day in German printing shops was celebrated at a banquet given by German Typographical union No. 9 at 55 North Clark street. L. Harjes acted as toastmaster, and 100 printers attended.

A campaign to enroll all trainmen in Chicago in the organization was planned at the evening meeting of the Northwestern Terminal lodge No. 750 of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, which was held at Drill hall, Masonic temple. More than 500 members of the brotherhood were present.

VOLIVA AND DOWIE CALL SUNDAY TRUCE IN ZION.

Factions Refrain from Hostilities, but New Leader Takes Fling at "Prophet" in Tabernacle.

The hostile factions in Zion City rested on their arms yesterday. A day of surprises had been promised, but the more pacific counselors prevailed. Both Voliva and Dowie declared a truce for the day. Voliva announced in the tabernacle that he would not allude to the controversy, but in the climax of his speech he took a few flings at Dowie and his followers. He announced Dowie and his family would be "dealt with." Others, he said, also would be in line for official discipline.

"They tell me I have been too harsh," said Voliva. "The prophets and apostles of Scriptural times said terrible things and I will be called upon to say things worse than anything Dowie ever said before I am through." Dowie's dispossessor took advantage of the opportunity of the meeting to tell the other side what he thought of the medical examination of the first apostle for his sanity.

Dowie's attendants announced he has improved steadily in health during the last few days and that he will again preside at the meeting of his followers Wednesday evening. He held no services yesterday, but contented himself with remaining in his study preparing more scriptural ammunition for the emergencies of the coming week. A Voliva emissary with a plan for changing the days of the week upon which the doctor will be allowed to speak at the tabernacle was greeted with a reference in Ephesians. He fled before the verse and chapter number was announced, as he said he knew it would not be pleasant.

66 GAMBLERS TAKEN IN RAIDS.

White, Negro, and Chinese Prisoners Are Captured by Police in Gaming Raids.

Sixty-six gamblers, white, negro, and Chinese, were arrested in police raids yesterday. Following are the places raided and number of prisoners:

National hotel, 28 Van Buren street; V. Grant, alleged keeper; twenty-one inmates.

8 Clark street; Roy B. Drewey, alleged keeper; ten inmates.

2250 State street; Thornton Williams, alleged keeper; seventeen negro inmates.

233 Clark street; fifteen Chinamen.

Detectives started from Central detail and divided into two squads, one of which went to 8 Clark street. A few minutes later the second squad summoned a patrol wagon from the Harrison street station. Grant and twenty-one others are said to have been found in a poker game in the National hotel.

REVOLT BY BURKE'S CLUB.

REFUSES TO RECOGNIZE DEMOCRATIC CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

Will Form Similar Body of Its Own and Ask Mayor Dunne to Recognize It as Representing the Party—Convention Is to Be Called for That Purpose in Accordance with Resolutions Adopted at Regular Meeting Sunday Afternoon.

Robert E. Burke's county democracy, incensed by the action of the democratic county convention of last Tuesday, refused yesterday to recognize the county central committee selected by the delegates and took steps to form a county committee of its own. Mayor Dunne, as the chief sufferer from the action of the convention, is to be asked to sanction this move and recognize the wing of the party it is thus sought to create.

The plan came before the club in the form of resolutions introduced by T. W. Hoagland and supported in ardent speeches by A. D. Gash, Frank Buchanan, James Bowman, T. Charles Griffiths, and Simon O'Donnell.

To Call New Convention.

The resolutions led off with five whereases in which the convention was characterized by various phrases expressive of superlative condemnation and scorn. It was, therefore, resolved that the county democracy call a convention "representing the progressive democracy of Cook county for the purpose of organization and also to form a committee to be constituted of two men from each city ward, one man from each senatorial district, and two men from each congressional district in the city, and one man from each county town."

Mayor Reserves His Decision.

The president was instructed to appoint a committee of thirty to call the convention and to submit the plan of organization to Mayor Dunne and the management of the American and the Examiner.

"I had not heard of the move till now," the mayor said, when told of the adoption of the resolutions by the Burke following. "I have no comment to make upon it until I hear what the committee appointed to call on me has to say."

THOUSANDS OF SIGHTSEERS VISIT SAN FRANCISCO RUINS.

Fakers and Venders of Refreshments Do Thriving Business with Throng of Sunday Arrivals—Work Goes On.

San Francisco, Cal., May 6.—The streets of the burned districts were thronged today with sightseers. Every train from nearby towns on the peninsula and every ferry boat in the bay counties was packed with people eager to get their first glimpse of the city's devastation, and almost every third person carried a camera or kodak.

In expectation of the crush of people booths of streets fakers sprung up over night along the curbs in the cleared streets, prepared to furnish refreshments, and most of them enjoyed a profitable trade. In many instances the booths were labeled with the names of former famous hostelries and the incongruity of "hot frankfurters, 5 cents," beneath the "Palace hotel," provoked a smile from each passerby.

The work of construction and tearing down continued today on all sides, notwithstanding the Sabbath. Several hundred frame buildings now appear among the destroyed structures, and foundations are being prepared for as many more. The slow process of taking down standing walls with pick and shovel is being employed by many merchants who are impatient to resume business; but the bulk of this work is being done by stevedores who are using donkey engine power to raze the walls.

ADDITIONS TO RELIEF FUND GIVEN BY ROMAN CATHOLICS.

Entertainments by German Societies and Hull House Men's Club Also Augment the Contributions.

Between $8,000 and $10,000, it is estimated, was collected for the San Francisco relief fund yesterday in the Roman Catholic churches throughout the city. The money will be turned over to Chancellor Barry this morning.

Thirty German turning and twenty-five singing societies joined in a benefit program at the Auditorium in the afternoon which netted the fund almost $2,000. Women as well as men took part in the exhibition drills, which were given under the direction of Henry Suder, superintendent of physical culture in the public schools.

The musical part of the program consisted of choral work under the direction of Gustav Ehrhorn and solos by Miss Helen Koelling of Chicago and Arnold von der Aue of Germany. Harry Rubens presided.

Hull House Men's club gave an entertainment at night in the rooms of Hull House Woman's club. Several hundred dollars was secured, which will be added to the general relief fund.

This week probably will see the close of the benefit entertainments and the gradual winding up of contributions, most of which will be in the custody of Vice President David R. Forgan of the First National bank.

"I came here half seriously and half out of curiosity," said a caller yesterday. "I've often been led to a store by an attractive illustration only to be extremely disappointed when I tried on the advertised suit. Now, if you can give me a suit that will look on me like the illustration you had in last night's paper, I'll buy it."

To shorten the story, he bought a suit. The only difficulty he had was to make a choice from the many patterns that came up to the standard of the newspaper cut. The explanation is simple: Our illustrations are drawn from life poses—as they actually are.

HIGH PRICED CONDUCTORS.

Time was when the musician was treated as a menial. Time was, also, when Bach made immortal music upon a salary of about $100 a year with firewood thrown in, and Beethoven wrote symphonies, one of which he sold to the London Philharmonic society for $250, and Schubert wrote undying songs which he could not sell at all.

The times have changed. As the Boston orchestra will lose its present conductor at the close of the season its guarantor has been looking around for another. Arthur Nikisch, once a conductor of that orchestra and now leader at the Gewandhaus, Leipsic, upon being appealed to, took the offer under consideration and finally decided that he would accept for $50,000 per annum and a life insurance policy for $125,000 while holding the position. Truly the times have changed, for here is a man once a fiddler, now a baton-wielder, unblushingly asking the salary of a bank president or a captain in the insurance industry, with a big life insurance on the side. But a short time ago the musician sat with the servants and shared pot luck with mendicants.

Of course the guarantor of the Boston orchestra declined to pay any such price, though he is wealthy enough to do so. He generously meets all the deficiencies of his orchestra, looking upon them as necessities, but he is not willing to pay an exorbitant price for a luxury. Mr. Nikisch, at the price he demands, would certainly be one. Several other conductors in Europe have been approached, but all of them place a correspondingly high estimate upon the value of their services, and much more than they are getting over there. They evidently think that the fortune of Col. Higginson of Boston is exhaustless and that he is willing to pay any amount asked. It may be possible, also, that they think they should have extra compensation for consenting to stay over here a year or two. Mr. Nikisch has outdone all the others not only in the salary demanded but in the life insurance condition. Does he think that the climate is dangerous? Or, having once led the Boston orchestra, does he think his life would be in danger if he were to come again? Surely he puts a fancy valuation upon wielding a baton. Kings have wielded scepters for less than he asks, and insured themselves.

In view of the high estimate which such gentlemen of the stick as Nikisch, Weingartner, Strauss, and Mahler place upon their services the trustees of the Thomas orchestra may congratulate themselves that they employed home talent and took a man from the ranks. Has not the much vaunted Boston orchestra a man in its ranks of sufficient caliber to wield a baton?

NO EVELESS EDEN WANTED.

In a western coeducational university a party was being formed for geological exploration during the summer vacation. One hundred and twenty-five names were registered from among the students apparently interested in geology. Then the professor in charge announced that instead of all who desired to make the trip only men would be taken. The region chosen was one of importance, the expenses were to be low, the work was to be done under intelligent supervision. But with the announcement that there would be no summer girls in the party the registration dropped from 125 to 5. Supposing the loss of 120 to be divided equally between the sexes, this would seem to show that for five students interested in geology there are sixty interested in girls. Or, rather, for it is unfair to assume that the five are not themselves moderately interested in the gentler sex, there are twelve times as many among professing scientists who prefer girls without science to science without girls, even for one short month.

Opponents of coeducation have urged that young men really prefer to be in classes by themselves. They have said that when a young man is found in a coeducational institution it is because for some reason or other he is unable to attend a college for men only. The incident just related indicates that whatever the ideas with which young men enter coeducational classes, they soon find the presence of the young women essential to their happiness. An Eden without a few Eves has no charms for them, even though the opportunities for the study of geology are excellent.

The picnic idea runs through most of the popularity of excursions or conventions. Much that passes as enthusiasm for scenery, for science, or for the propagation of religious or intellectual doctrines is really pleasure in the companionship of man and woman in surroundings out of the usual. Under changed conditions traits of character are revealed which otherwise might remain latent for years. Two young people may find themselves congenial or the reverse who never would have suspected it if they had continued to meet in the ordinary way. There is not so much difference after all, except in name, between the picnic of the Epaminondas Pleasure club and the scientific summer expedition of collegians. Unless the discomforts of the trip can be halved by sharing them with Miss Eve, Mr. Adam finds them too great to be endured. Nature may be expelled by a pitchfork, but not by the contemplation of the remains of the glacial period.

CHICAGO'S I WILL.

Dr. Dudley told the members of the board of education at a recent meeting that he was tired of Chicago's "I will," and hence felt himself justified in opposing a grant of permission to a publisher to furnish the schools without charge with copies of a song embodying that sentiment. "We don't want any song with the words 'Chicago says I will' in the public schools. Chicago has gained the reputation of being the most bumptious city in the world, and this reputation has made the city a laughing stock everywhere."

Now bumptiousness implies something offensive in self-assertion, a forward pushing which is disagreeable, and if this element be added to the natural boastfulness of the American, which unfortunately shows itself on many inopportune occasions, it is not difficult to make a good trait appear as an evil one. If Chicago's "I will" means only brag and bluster, then the sooner it is relegated to the rear the better. It is questionable whether the history of the city will bear out such an interpretation of a popular motto. There is a pushing spirit which is inspiring rather than offensive. There is a just pride which every citizen may have without giving ground for unfriendly criticism. In that sense "I will" might well be taught to the children in song and made a motto for daily living.

The average citizen feels that Chicago is a great city. He realizes that it has grown great against adversity. Nature did not give it a sightly location, but it raised itself out of the swamp and the dull monotony of the prairie level. A disastrous fire swept a large part of it from the landscape and carried with the buildings the savings of years. It was the indomitable will of its people that made its rebuilding possible. Again and again it has had matters presented for action and each time it has surmounted difficulties and achieved abundant success. In every such case the marked feature has been the spirit of the people, which could not be phrased better than in the words "I will." The facts of the history of half a century are back of the motto, and when those facts are recalled no one with justice can laugh at Chicago.

The population of the city is changing rapidly. Each year many young men are coming here to make their fortunes in business, in law, in medicine, in many a walk of life. They catch the spirit of the older residents. They quickly learn to take pride in the development of their adopted city. They gain much inspiration from the thought that "I will" has been the motto of the past. They make that their own motto for the future, and the city gains materially because of such adoption. What is apparent from conversation with any group of young business men of Chicago might just as well be shown in the schools. Not to blow and to brag and then to fail in securing results, but to feel and to say "I can" and then follow that with "I will" is certainly worth the suggesting to the boys and girls who are to make the men and women of the future.

A WISE CONCLUSION.

The anthracite coal miners have been counseled prudently by their president, and have acted wisely in following his advice. Four years ago public sympathy was with them in their strike, and justly so, as the decision of the strike commission proved. This year conditions are different. Of the demands formulated a month ago on behalf of the miners some were clearly inadmissible. There were others which may have been deserving of consideration, but compliance with them would have meant a higher price for hard coal—the lion's share of the increase going to the operators. The consumers are of the opinion that anthracite costs too much now, and they are not in sympathy with anything which would raise prices.

The miners have been out for a month. President Mitchell has not found the situation to his liking. He has become satisfied that the union is not in good shape for a strike. He has discovered a lack of unanimity among its members. That is not surprising, for the miners never have fared so well as during the last three years. Many of them must have been contented, and would not have voted to go out if their officers had not assured them that they would better themselves by doing so. It is to the credit of President Mitchell that he had the courage to advise a retreat from a false position.

The condition on which the men agree to go back to work is that there shall be no discrimination against those who have gone out. The operators should be glad to secure a restoration of peace on such reasonable terms, and it is intimated that they will accept the proposition. If so, the mines will be reopened soon, and there will be no occasion to fear a scarcity of hard coal next fall.

THE ICONOCLAST AND THE BUILDER.

The old story which has come down through the ages of the evil spirit cast out returning to its former habitation to find it empty, swept, and garnished, and thus ready to receive eight evil spirits in place of the one, is recalled by the address of Mr. Cleveland before the Periodical Publishers' association at Atlantic City. In commenting upon the work of magazines in recent months in attacking evils, in arousing distrust on the part of the people, and perhaps turning that distrust into positive resentment, the ex-president calls attention to the necessity of going beyond the mere destruction of the idols. There must be some definite and tangible suggestion for the future, lest the people be left helpless amid the confusing rubbish and unsightly waste of demolishing activity.

It is much more difficult to build up than to tear down. The constructive ability is rare, whereas power to destroy belongs to almost every one. There are many, too, who have ability to build but must have some plan to work by, some architect's design upon their trestleboard. That fact limits the number still more of those who can supply the new thing needed and acceptable in place of the rejected old one. For this reason there is a serious danger, as Mr. Cleveland well brings out, lest impetuosity and recklessness in destruction create more damage than can be repaired by the forces for upbuilding which are available.

This was the basal thought of his address to the publishers as he appealed for conservative periodicals. From the nature of the case the newspapers, in their desire to print the news, are often forced to make statements which have to be modified and perhaps completely disavowed on fuller information. The periodical does not meet this difficulty. It can well afford to print only well-seasoned articles which have been thought out with care. The tendency of the magazines has been to the haste and lack of discrimination which are, perhaps, inevitable in the conduct of the daily paper. The "muck raker" has had full opportunity for the exploitation of his special abilities. There is now chance for the builder to come in and do his work. It remains to be seen, however, whether the cash receipts, which have much to do with shaping the policy of many a periodical, would be as large under a plan for deliberate consideration of schemes for the improvement of conditions as under the present popular sensational method of attacking graft and other evils with more or less of arraignment of individuals thrown in. The magazine of today is a great social force, there is no doubt of that, and the ex-president's plea for more conservatism as a counter-balance to the dominant iconoclasm is one which deserves thoughtful attention.

AFTERTHOUGHT.

The failure of the Traders' Insurance company points out how much easier it is to be wise after the fact than before. It might have been assumed a month ago that it was unwise to risk in a single city losses which exceeded the available assets of the company. There is a law which forbids a national bank to loan to one individual more than 10 per cent of its capital, yet it is no more dangerous for a bank to make larger loans than it is to risk all the capital of an insurance company in one city, and that an extra dangerous one. But no one thought of it a month ago.

San Francisco had been regarded by the companies as easy money. The city was 90 per cent wood, and that meant high rates of insurance, while the danger of a great fire was believed to be small, in spite of official warnings. Redwood, which was used in the wooden houses of San Francisco, burns slowly, and with an adequate water supply a fire started in one place could be extinguished easily. There had been no extensive fire in San Francisco for years. The coincidence of a cutting off of the water supply at the same time that fires broke out in a hundred places had not been dreamed of by any one. It must be taken into account in the future. There is no way to make a recurrence of the disaster impossible except to make every building fireproof, and that is not possible in an impoverished community.

The Traders' affair shows that it is important to a policyholder to know what risks the company is running. A large amount of new business means an increase of risk, and unless well distributed may mean that the insurance company is weaker instead of stronger. A company whose risks in one city amount to 25 per cent of its assets is safer than a wealthier one whose risks in one city are 125 per cent of its assets. It is not well to put too many eggs in one basket even if the basket is large.

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright: 1906: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

During the proceedings which have lately been taken in court, in England by Lord Egmont—once a sailor before the mast—in relation to the expenditure of considerable sums of money, obtained by sale of the entailed property, mention was made of the fact that the earl's only brother and heir was living in childless marriage in South Africa; that the next heir in line of succession was Spencer Perceval, a man of considerably more than 70 years of age, with but one child, a daughter, and that the third in line of the honors and estates was a member of the family who had come to this country years ago and who could not be found.

Now the member of the family who came to this country and who, if alive, would stand immediately third in the line of succession to the Egmont peerages and estates would have been old Spencer Perceval's only son, Henry Godfrey Perceval. He settled in Nebraska and was murdered, together with his wife and only child, on Sept. 29, 1884. The crime, which was perpetrated under circumstances of particular atrocity, created no end of a sensation at the time, and of course the newspapers, in recording the tragedy, did not fail to recall the fact that a granduncle of the victim, the Rt. Hon. Spencer Perceval, while premier, was assassinated in the lobby of the house of commons. This took place in 1812, and 150 years previously Sir Robert Perceval, a famous duelist, was assassinated in the Strand by murderers whose identity was never discovered.

It was the grandfather of this Sir Robert Perceval who may be said really to have founded the family. His name was Richard Perceval, and he attracted the attention and won the favor of Queen Elizabeth by his success in rapidly deciphering a number of dispatches captured on a Spanish vessel, written in a secret cipher, and containing all sorts of details concerning the plans and projects of the so-called Spanish armada. In fact, these dispatches conveyed to the virgin queen and to her famous premier, Lord Burleigh, the first authentic news about the Spanish armada and enabled them to make preparations for defense against the threatened invasion. His grandson, Sir John Perceval, stood so high in the good graces of King Charles that the latter not merely conferred on him a baronetcy of Ireland but likewise caused a remarkable and unique proviso to be inserted in the patent, to the effect that the eldest son and grandson of the holder of the baronetcy should be created baronets in their own right during his lifetime on attaining their majority. Down to the reign of King George IV. the eldest son of every baronet had the right to demand the honor of knighthood from the crown on attaining his twenty-first birthday—a rule which was done away with just before Queen Victoria came to the throne. But the Perceval baronetcy, now merged in the earldom of Egmont, is the only one in existence which prescribes the grant of a new baronetcy to the eldest son of the baronet, even while the latter is still living.

As in the case of many of the houses of the British aristocracy, there is a hereditary curse upon the lords of Egmont. The story goes that the fifth earl of Egmont was appealed to by a widow on his estates in the south of Ireland to postpone her eviction owing to the fact that her only son was dangerously ill. But the earl was relentless and had the widow and her son thrown out on to the roadside, the sick man dying a couple of hours afterwards as the result of exposure and the rough treatment to which he had been subjected. The widow in her bitter anguish went down upon her knees by the corpse of her boy and cursed the earl as only an Irish peasant woman can, praying to God that neither he nor any of his successors would ever have a son given to them to inherit the peerage. It would seem as if the prayer had been heard. For the fifth earl died without issue and was succeeded by his cousin, the sixth earl. The latter likewise died childless and was succeeded by a cousin, the late earl. The latter in turn had no children and was succeeded by his cousin, the present earl, who, separated from his American wife (formerly a barmaid in London), but not divorced, has no offspring, while the marriage of his brother and next heir to the peerage, who was up to the Boer war a policeman at Johannesburg, has likewise remained childless.

Nor is this the only curse connected with the lord of Egmont. For a blight of the same character rests on Cowdray park, the family place in Sussex. It is one of those "fire and water curses" called down from heaven by the abbot and monks of Cowdray priory when they were driven out by King Henry VIII. at the time of the reformation upon all those who should thereafter enjoy possession of those lands which had been stolen from the church. Scoff as one may at these curses, the fact remains that tragedy after tragedy overtook the various families that occupied in turn old Cowdray castle and park.

The last Viscount Montagu of the Cowdray line perished in 1793 in a foolish attempt to shoot the falls of the Rhine at Schaffhausen in a boat, a feat which no one has ever attempted before or since. By a strange coincidence on the same day that he disappeared in the falls of the Rhine Cowdray castle was mysteriously burned to the ground, all its magnificent contents being destroyed and nothing but the blackened walls being left, and less than three months afterwards his only sister and heiress, married to a Mr. Poyntz, saw with her own eyes the death by drowning of her two only sons at the neighboring seaside village of Alnwick. The present mansion at Cowdray is of modern construction, a sort of cross between a magnificent cottage and a château, is haunted by the ghost of a particularly wicked Lady Montagu of the eighteenth century, but is surrounded by one of the finest parks in Sussex.

According to Sigurd Ibsen, formerly one of the cabinet ministers of Norway and son of the celebrated playwright and author, a good deal of pity has been needlessly wasted on King Oscar as heartbroken by the loss of his throne of Norway. Ibsen relates that on one occasion when he asked the king whether the crown prince, as regent, could not give the necessary sanction to the consular bill, which was one of the principal points at issue between the sister nations, Oscar replied:

"No! My son cannot afford to incur the ill will of the Swedes. Remember that Sweden is the bigger and more important country of the two, and that the house of Bernadotte was established there before there was any question of Norway."

And a day or two afterwards Price Charles of Sweden, a younger son of Prince Oscar, discussing the Swedish-Norwegian troubles with Sigurd Ibsen, exclaimed:

"Personally, I am convinced that it would be preferable from every point of view for my father to be monarch of merely one kingdom. It is impossible for any one to be, at one and the same time, both a Norwegian and a Swede without detriment to one's character."

Sigurd Ibsen states that he saw King Oscar for the last time in the summer, that Oscar spoke to him not only as if he realized that the separation of the two kingdoms was inevitable but also as if he were relieved and even grateful for having been spared, by the action of the Norwegians in dethroning him, the necessity of being called on to choose between them and the Swedish people.

This is thoroughly in keeping with reports contained in private letters from the French Riviera relating to the stay of King Oscar this spring on the shores of the Mediterranean. The king is described as being in a much better state of health and in far better spirits than on the occasion of his previous visit, when he was overwhelmed with anxiety with regard to the solution of the crisis.

New Ailment Needed.

[From the Ladies' Pictorial, London.]

Just at present a novel ailment is much wanted. Appendicitis is becoming démodé; many people recover miraculously from it without an operation who a year ago would have been content with nothing less than Sir Frederick Treves and a nursing home. There has been a slight attempt to introduce Platonic melancholia, but it is neither contagious nor has a thrill of fatality.

So Homelike!

Some one said to Brother Williams: "They have a balloon fad now, and you can go up and cool off in the clouds."

"Yes, suh," he replied. "En dar's so much thunder en lightnin' up dar, I reckon lots er 'um will feel lak' dey wuz right at home—'specially de married folks!"—Atlanta Constitution.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS.

THE MAYOR OF TOKIO.

A Farcical Opera in Two Acts,

BY

RICHARD CARLE and W. F. PETERS.

Presented at the Illinois Theater, Chicago, by Richard Carle and His Company, on May 6, 1906. The Cast:

| | |
|---|---|
| Kow Tow | Fred Frear |
| Gen. Satake | Sylvain Langlois |
| Ivan Orfulitch | Jo Smith Marba |
| Tanake | Jess Caine |
| Nikko | Edwin Baker |
| Awaki | William H. Platt |
| Betsey Lincoln | Adele Rowland |
| Oloto San | Ada Mitchell |
| Julian Lincoln | Albert Wallerstedt |
| Rusty | William Rock |
| Mme. Stitch | Emma Janvier |
| Birdie Talcum | Minerva Courtney |
| Chub | Madge Vincent |
| Marcus Orlando Kidder | Richard Carle |

"The Mayor of Tokio" was the only new offering at the downtown theaters last night. This evening Mr. Mansfield will inaugurate his fortnight engagement at the Grand and at McVicker's a new play by George Broadhurst will have its first presentation on any stage. But last night there were "holdovers" at the houses which were open.

At the Grand "Before and After" had a final performance before an audience which comfortably filled the theater; at McVicker's, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" was offered for the last time, and had a similar sized audience; at the Colonial, "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," and at the Garrick "Mexicana" were given before sold out houses.

The Studebaker, where "The College Widow" tonight begins its closing fortnight, and Powers', where Mr. Loraine and his company entered upon their final week, were dark. At the Chicago opera house "The Three Graces" placed another Sunday night to its credit, and at the La Salle "The Umpire" was given for the 249th time, the 250th performance taking place tonight and being scheduled for another souvenir distributing event.

At the Illinois Mr. Carle and his company were welcomed by an audience of friends, and the cordiality of their reception was unmistakable. "The Mayor of Tokio" came as a well proven quantity. Its long run last summer at the Studebaker and its subsequent stay at the Illinois demonstrated conclusively that it has a place among the merriest and most entertaining shows of its kind, and last evening the public that gathered to see and hear it again came knowing that pleasant entertainment was in store for them.

They were not disappointed. For since the "farcical opera" last was here it has been improved in certain details and all its formerly attractive elements have been retained. The costuming, setting, and stage management are as satisfactory as before, and the performance has been kept in shipshape. Some new lines and several new bits of business have been added, and the result is a musical comedy which goes with exhilarating vim and dash and which amuses in pleasant fashion.

The cast has undergone several changes. Mr. Carle is still the optimistic, resourceful impresario Kidder, and plays the part with even more unction and humor than he formerly did. Emma Janvier is seen again in her excellent characterization of the wardrobe mistress, and does it with the same careful attention to exact detail which made it highly praise meriting when first offered.

Fred Frear now has the title rôle, and is well suited to it. He has the needed rotundity of form, is the possessor of an agreeable singing voice, and has the ability to project the humor of his lines across the footlights. Mr. Langlois makes an unusually good Satake, his vocal powers being above the average of the company. Mr. Marba makes all that is possible of the inane rôle of the Russian spy, and Mr. Caine as the court physician. Mr. Platt as the diminutive bodyguard of the mayor, and Mr. Baker as Nikko are each well in place.

Mr. Rock plays the song book boy in entertaining style and sings what he has to sing in commendable manner. Mr. Wallerstedt, who is the tenor of the stranded operatic company, is evidently a new man in solo work, but he has a voice which if it could be brought up somewhere into the front of his face instead of being swallowed would be effective.

Of the women principals Ada Mitchell as Oloto San is a distinct improvement so far as vocal abilities go over the vociferous young woman who formerly had the rôle. Miss Mitchell sings at least in tune and with considerable finish to her work, and the impression she makes both as vocalist and actress is agreeable. Miss Howland is a good looking Betsey Lincoln and sings acceptably, and Miss Courtney does the sentimental soubrette in effective fashion. The chorus is above the average and moves and sings well.

At the Great Northern "Texas" is now in its second week. The Feigl play of southwestern ranch life has a new hero in the person of Charles D. Coburn. The remainder of the cast is virtually the same, however, as it was when last the company was here. Mr. Coburn has not quite so romantic an exterior as had his predecessor in the part of Jack Dalam, but he plays with more of manliness and directness. There is little suggestion of pose or "prettiness" about his impersonation and the performance gains correspondingly in strength and convincing power. His comedy scenes have naturalness and ease to lend them value, his love making is virile and sincere, and his moments of dramatic intensity are effectively handled.

Louis Thiel is excellent as Oklahomey, W. T. Chatterton does Tank in capital style, making him hearty and genuine, and Ted Griffin is a satisfactory Pasquale. Mabel Dixey is attractive as before as Texas, Monica Lee makes an entertaining and pleasing Jennie Peppercorn, her scene with Oklahomey being particularly well done, and Hattie Foley plays Mrs. West with good understanding.

At the outlying houses the usual changes of bill took place. "The Homeseekers" was the offering at the Academy and attracted two big audiences, "To Be Buried Alive" kept the patrons of the Bijou on the thrill, "The Burglar's Sweetheart" entertained the people at the Alhambra, and "Why Women Sin" was explained at the Columbus. At the Bush Temple "For Fair Virginia" received it final presentation, and tonight "Graustark" will be given for the third time this season, several new players appearing in the cast.

WATER SUPPLY FOR CITY OF PANAMA.

[John F. Wallace in the Engineering Magazine.]

The system consisted of a main impounding reservoir, at an elevation of approximately 235 feet above the level of the sea, containing enough water to supply the city of Panama with 2,000,000 gallons daily, an average of the basis of 30,000 population, which was at least 50 per cent in excess of the present number of inhabitants. This water was to be conducted to the immediate vicinity of Panama through a 16 inch main, and discharged into an auxiliary reservoir of 1,000,000 gallons capacity, situated at an elevation of approximately 140 feet above the sea level in the immediate vicinity of Panama, from which the water was conducted through a 20 inch pipe to a connection with the distributing system in the city.

Numerous delays occurred in the construction of this water supply system, due to the fact that the last shipment of 16 inch pipe for the water main did not arrive on the isthmus until May, 1905—eight months after the requisition for it had been issued. The system was in final readiness for the delivery of water in the city of Panama at the close of June, 1905, although the auxiliary reservoir and the full local distribution would still require several months for completion.

Even in the United States it is rare indeed that a water supply of this magnitude is conceived, designed, and executed in so short a time; and, considering the delays in securing the material, and especially the difficulty experienced in obtaining the proper quality and quantity of labor, the result of this particular installation was certainly gratifying. And the credit therefor is due to Mr. Carleton E. Davis and his efficient staff of assistants.

Man's Decadence.

[From the M. A. P., London.]

The plainest sign of man's decadence is the fact that he is always grumbling at woman. In the good old days he just took her in hand and did what he would with her.

A TRIP TO EUROPE IN AN ARM CHAIR

BY CORA ROCHE HOWLAND.

We could not have helped realizing yesterday, if we had not done so before, that May is here. For May, the month of Mary, has a special significance in a Catholic community, as Lucerne is, being virtually the capital of Catholic Switzerland. The many masses, the sweetfaced earnestness of the little first communicants, white robed, and shy because of the way that tourists turned to smile upon them, both told us of the season. It made us realize that we had come to a part of Switzerland quite different from Zurich, where Luther's hymns are sung and Luther's faith is cherished. There we were among a German people; here we come into a life which is in many ways like that of rural France, though sturdier and more democratic.

We are glad for every reminder of May, for all through Switzerland May is the glad time of the year. There is even a proverb here which says that happiness comes with May mornings. Everywhere about us will appear a brightness of hope, a fullness of life, that will grow with the new moon, and will usher in the coming month of June with gladness. The pent up emotions of the hard, cold winter now will find expression. All Switzerland will sing and will dance to the tune of violin and zither and to the steady rhythm of hand clappings. There will be the merrymaking of fairs, the persiflage of market day, and the varied blessings of an outdoor life spent in the midst of natural beauty. Come, let us all rejoice with Switzerland, for it is May.

All that Lucerne was keeping in trust for us we had no difficulty in collecting yesterday. Early in the morning we sought the old bridges which cut the river Ruess obliquely in order the better to withstand the force of its rapidly running current. Both of these, the Kapellbrücke and the Mühlenbrücke are roofed over, to protect their passages from the wind and weather, and both are curiously decorated with old paintings, done in the eighteenth century, those on the former representing scenes from the lives of the patron saints of the city and from Swiss history, and those on the latter showing a grewsome dance of death, a procession of skeletons and horrid figures. The old Wasserthurm, formerly the lighthouse which gave Lucerne its name, was closed, so we could not enter to see the municipal archives within.

We are glad, of course. One of the advantages of Sunday when you are traveling is that certain things are closed which you ought to see. 'Twould be a double sin to stay indoors and study a museum on such a day as this. The weather is so radiantly lovely. The sunny air has gold in it; the lake is blue as lapis lazuli; the quiet of a Sabbath morning blesses us with the soft shadows of its dovelike wings. Birds twitter, waters murmur—fuzzing lightly as they change their course to pass the strong piers of the wooden bridge—but even these, voicing nature, but emphasize the morning's gentle calm.

We went to the Hofkirche early. Last evening, as we approached the city from the lake, we saw its slender towers, with crosses at the tips of the spires. The plainness of the building surprised us, after the splendid ornamented symmetry of Gothic edifices; and inside of it we got the same impression, although its stained glass windows, its carved pulpit, and its stalls have beyond question an individuality of their own. Then we wandered through the quaint old town to our heart's delight. We must confess that we like crooked streets, and curious architecture, and all vestiges of the Switzerland which stood before the day of tourists.

Therefore, before all other public buildings of Lucerne, we prefer the ancient Rathhaus, a fascinating sixteenth century structure, which stands in the corn market, displaying with a proper pride its frescoed tower, that shows the death of one of Lucerne's heroes at the battle of Sempach. The place is closed. There's no use in our twisting the massive doorknob. Inside there are three interesting curios, the ancient council chamber with its wooden ceiling, carved one foot deep in bas relief, the collection of old stained glass that shows armorial bearings, and lastly the chased sword handle said to have belonged to William Tell.

Now for the famous "Lion of Lucerne" and the glacier garden near it. We saved these special sights of the city till the last because of their importance, and for the added reason that neither one is disappointing. The wounded lion is a heroic figure. Though the meaning of the sculpture were unknown to you, if you had never heard of the brave Swiss guards, men and officers who fell in defending the Tuileries in 1792, fearless to the last and loyal to their trust, nevertheless you ought here to be moved in spirit before Thorvaldsen's kingly lion. Transfixed by a broken lance he lies dying, but sheltering the Bourbon lily with his listless paw. A spring issuing from the rock above the grotto where he lies flows down into the shrub encircled pool below. Vines crowd toward the inscription and the names of the dead officers graven on the rock.

Right next to the monument is the entrance to the Glacier garden, a remarkable relic of the ice period, which reveals even to the unscientific observer the operation of that slow but not to be resisted force which left its impress upon the earth's configuration. There are thirty-two holes here, formed by the action of whirlpools; there are great circular stones worn into roundness by the ice's action on them; and an artificial "mill," operated by water, which is turned on by hand, illustrates the process whereby the whirlpool holes were formed.

Our final memory of Lucerne as today on our way to Interlaken we review the scene mentally in unwilling farewell is little different in detail from that first vision that we gained of it approaching from the lake at the twilight hour. Separate features are more prominent—the great continuous promenade along the quais, where people of all nations stroll beneath the chestnut trees—old houses and old bridges in strong contrast to the new town with its big hotels—old shops where richest carvings tempted us, and knickknacks—nut crackers like gnomes' heads, chamois horns put to artistic uses, all kinds of Alpine flora and Swiss finery—the quaint café, where a girl in costume served us goat's milk. But back of these more trivial things all that we anticipated fits in suitably to make the whole complete against the background of the lake and mountains.

Today will be a day of grandest scenery. The Brünig railway takes us to the Bernese Oberland. We shall see Meiringen, Brienz and Interlaken, and that majestic queen of mountains, the Jungfrau. We left Lucerne at 6:15, before either the city or we ourselves were well awake. By narrow gauge railway we went to Giswyl, whence, by rack and pinion line, we now ascend to Brünig through a beautiful region. At one point, looking southward, we get a momentary vision of the three peaked Wetterhorn, which looms up above the depression of the Brünig pass. Far, far below us the tiny Lake of Lungern tosses back the sunlight mirthfully; then our engine begins to climb like a living thing, at a gradient steep enough to make us hold our breath with apprehension, till, looking back, we see a view so exquisite we lose our fears in contemplation of its beauty. Bright cliffs and airy turrets of sun and mist, a golden lake that changes color like a piece of silk with colors interwoven, green grass and greener pines, a restful valley with toy houses and a church spire in it, a road that winds its way along as if it had all eternity in which to reach its destination.

Presently we reach the crest of the saddle and are at Brünig, a little town not far from the old pass of the name. Opposite us the Engelhorn towers; the chain of the Faulhorn touches the sky; and on our left is the valley of Meiringen, visible as far as the Kirchet. To the south of us, at the foot of the mountains, is the lower fall of the Reichenbach, where rainbow chases rainbow whenever the sun is shining; opposite is the fall of the Oltschibach, where the hair of water nymphs, spread clear across the bright cascades, is always golden in the sun. Below us flows the Aare; on the right appears a part of the green Lake of Brienz, through which the Aare flows, later to reach Lake Thun.

Down, down the mountain side we go from Brünig; we cross bright torrents, brawling rivers. We come to Meiringen, valley village of the Aare, the town of fairy waterfalls which gush joyously from the rocks behind it, that overflow with the springtime vigor of the melted snows. As we rise beside the slothful Aare, whose activity has been restricted by canals in order to protect the valley, we pass to the right of the waterfalls we saw looking down from the height of Brünig road. We ride along the Lake of Brienz, and come to the city of the same name on its border. Here we take the boat for Interlaken. Brienz is noted for its wood carving, which is the most elaborate in all Switzerland. Its houses are too low for their size and have wide roofs. The vines half cover some of them and this verdure, seen with the pine trees in the parks beside the wharf, gives us an impression of a green town as the steamer carries us away from the bank and allows us to get a general view. On the southeast as we ride down the lake we see the snowy Sustenhörner and the mighty Thierberge on the right of it. We reach Bönigen, where we take the Bödeli railway to Interlaken, only twelve minutes away, for once this Lake of Brienz was united with the neighboring Lake of Thun, which now lies lower and is separated by the strip of land whereon today is Interlaken.

At Interlaken we are in the headquarters for excursions into the Oberland. The busy street which leads us to the Höheweg, that walnut avenue on which the hotel stands where we shall stay tonight, proclaims the transient character of the great part of Interlaken's population. There are English people everywhere, the men stalwart and handsome, the women having faces of a distinguished type. In spite of their ugly traveling dresses, which fit them poorly, and seem all to be cut after the same long waisted, short skirted pattern, the Englishwomen whom you see traveling in Switzerland are splendid types of womanhood.

From our rooms we can see the Jungfrau fairly well, considering the fact it is nearly noon, and the mists have begun to close her in, increasing thereby our expectancy and our suspense. Many miles have we come to see this mountain goddess. Will our journey have been in vain? It all depends upon the wind and weather. If both are right tonight we'll see her maybe with the sunset glow upon her, and in the morning early, before we leave for Berne, we'll see her as she truly is, a shining Brunhilde, clad in a fine white armor of the impenetrable snows.

It is important that you should get your first view of the Jungfrau from the north. Then she is all marvelous, not massive and forbidding, but great, and white, and wonderful. If you compare her with the other mountains you comprehend why she is called "the maiden." The designation holds the potent poetry of truth. About the outlines of her virgin whiteness there is a grace of femininity, there is a pleasing roundness in the grand simplicity of her statuesque repose. She has one rival only in the neighborhood, the great Aletsch, mightiest of all the glaciers in the Alps, beautiful exceedingly, whether you gaze upon it from above or from below.

We take our chance upon the weather, reassured by the hotel clerk, who prophesies a clear view from the Mürren, and we catch the 2 o'clock train, which carries us by a cog and pinion road to Lauterbrunnen, and then transfers us to a car on an inclined plane that seems to rise almost vertically for three-quarters of a mile. Half way up the ascent we pass the downcoming car on the other track; this counterbalances our own, by a cable system. It is a unique experience. Though our seats are level, the floors slope upward beneath our feet. We feel as if we were being hauled up perpendicularly, so steep is the road. Again we change to a cog and pinion road; the way seems perilous as we gaze down into clefts and chasms.

On our left the mountains and glaciers unfold gradually until they form a mighty amphitheater. The Eiger and the Mönch disclose themselves in dazzling array; there is the Jungfrau, with her splendid pinnacles precipitately from the valley the Schwarz Mönch rises, a great wall of splendid blankness; on the left the Ebne-Fluh rears proudly aloft its conical cap that matches its mantle of snow. And grouped about in stately silence stand the rest of the court of the Jungfrau, the monarch of them all.

A PROPOSED CLASSICAL EXPOSITION.

[From the Architectural Record.]

The suggestion has lately been made that Rome join the list of cities that organize great expositions for the attraction of tourists. A sufficient excuse might be found, it is pointed out, in the inauguration of the colossal monument to Victor Emmanuel II. that has been so many years in building; and then the proposal, of such indifferent interest otherwise, is imbued with vitality by the character suggested for the exposition. A writer in the Nuova Antologia argues that since Rome can scarcely hope to excel in a commercial exposition, this one—for which he chooses 1911 as the date—should be purely artistic, and its site should include the Forum, the Colosseum, the Palatine hill, the Circus Maximus, the Baths of Caracalla, and as far as St. Paul's Gate on the Aventine. There the galleries for ancient art should rise, looking on the Tiber and the Alban hills; and sacred art should find housing in the cloisters of the churches of St. Saba, St. Alessio, and St. Sabina. He would have all the structures in keeping with their classic surroundings and of the highest artistic impress. He suggests a monumental portal to the Aventine, a boulevard from the Arch of Constantine and the Circus Maximus, and another from the Circus to the Catacombs. The landscape gardening, if rightly carried out, would forever enhance the attraction of the splendid ruins. And only two things are needed, he says, for success—a genius and 40,000,000 francs. But what great things, more permanent than an exposition, might be done by money and a genius! If, however, this cause serves where others fail to bring them into union, there will be a result well worth, indeed, the seeing.

Preparing to Get Even.

"Yes," he said, "I wish to adopt a girl."

"A little girl?"

"No, a girl old enough to have energy and perseverance and one who has had enough experience with the piano to make her think she knows how to play it. And if she thinks she can sing, why, so much the better. I tell you, I am going to get even with the people in the next flat even if I have to adopt two musical prodigies."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Bridesmaids for Hire.

[From Health and Home, London.]

A Parisian lady has established an agency for the supply of bridesmaids to prospective brides who are in need of such attendants. As the same girls in the same dresses take part in many different bridals, a fee of a sovereign for each girl is considered sufficient to meet the matter.

PLANS FOR MARRIAGE OF MISS HARRIET SMITH.

Will Become Wife of Mr. Leeds Mitchell on Saturday—Ceremony to Be Performed at Asheville, N. C., Where She Has Been Spending Several Months Owing to Poor Health —Miss Helen MacMurphy Thorne Engaged to Mr. Eugene Bard.

Mr. Leeds Mitchell will leave tomorrow for Asheville, N. C., where his marriage with Miss Harriet Le Grand Smith will take place on Saturday. The wedding is to be a simple one, an afternoon celebration at 4 o'clock in the little Episcopal church at Baltimore. Miss Smith, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Le Grand Smith, formerly of 414 East Chicago avenue, made her début two winters ago. Her engagement was announced last May, and owing to her poor health the marriage was postponed from the fall to the spring. Now, fully recovered, Miss Smith is to have an ideal setting to her wedding.

Miss Josephine Nixon of Chicago, a cousin of the bride, will attend as maid of honor, and there will be but one other maid, Miss Christine Robertson of Philadelphia. Mr. Mitchell will have his brother, Mr. Sidney Mitchell, as best man, and for ushers, four of his Yale college friends, Mr. Adolph Babcock and Mr. Hyatt Thompson of Chicago, Mr. Samuel Sutlin of Indianapolis, and Mr. Alfred H. Burston of Syracuse, N. Y.

The ceremony is to be performed by the rector of the church, the Rev. Mr. Swope, and afterward there will be a small reception at the Victoria inn, where Mr. and Mrs. Smith and their daughter have been all winter. The young couple will spend their honeymoon in Carolina, and late in June will go to Winnetka to reside.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Thorne, 99 East Forty-seventh street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen MacMurphy Thorne, to Mr. Dudley Eugene Bard, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bard of Auburn Park.

An out of town wedding of this evening is that of Miss Mina Chase, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chase of Cedar Falls, Ia., to Mr. Philip G. Bartelme of Austin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Bartelme. It is to be a small house wedding and there will be but two attendants, Miss Elizabeth Chase, sister of the bride, and Mr. Russell M. Simmons of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Bartelme expect, however, to take up their residence in Austin about Sept. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Smith of Wheaton announce the engagement of their daughter, Winifred Allee, to Mr. John Clyde Fruit of La Crosse, Wis.

The Chicago Woman's club held its last meeting and reception of the club year on Saturday afternoon, when the members and their friends were welcomed by the new president, Mrs. I. S. Blackwelder, and the entertainment committee. The hours were from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Bolter, 1734 Deming place, entertained fourteen guests at dinner on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Vance Cheney and Mr. Hart Conway left on Saturday for Los Angeles and Pasadena, Cal., to spend the month of May. Mrs. Cheney will remain in California all summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic S. White, 4466 Greenwood avenue, and Mrs. Ettu Soper Smith, 4423 Lake avenue, will sail for Europe on Thursday for a three months' trip. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. White are now visiting Mrs. A. C. Soper at her new home at Lakewood, N. J.

Miss Gertrude Danforth Patrick, 25 Woodland Park, has returned from a winter's visit in Germany, France, Switzerland, and Italy.

Miss Carrie Frohman is now residing with her sister, Mrs. J. L. Kesner, 4756 Grand boulevard.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis S. Reichenberg and daughter, Beatrice, of Omaha, Neb., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Max Eichberg, 4312 Grand boulevard.

Miss Mary Hinman is arranging an entertainment to be given by children living in Kenwood and around the university for the benefit of the Jackson Park sanitarium and the Old People's home, to take place on Thursday evening in Lincoln Center.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Knight, accompanied by their son, Denison, and Mrs. Knight's sister, Miss Mary Fowle, will sail from New York for Naples soon, returning to Chicago about Sept. 1.

Mrs. John E. Maurer, 212 East Forty-fifth street, entertained twelve young women at luncheon on Thursday in honor of Miss Pearl Miller.

Dr. and Mrs. Theodore B. Sachs, 763 Douglas boulevard, have left for a trip through the eastern states.

Auburn, Me., May 6.—[Special.]—Garret A. Hobart, son of the late vice president, is to marry Miss Caroline Frye Briggs, granddaughter of Senator Frye, here on June 6.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS

There have been several lives written of the great founder of Methodism and, of course, one of the best is his own "Journal," but one of the most interesting is that by Prof. C. T. Winchester, professor of English literature at Wesleyan university. His "LIFE Of JOHN WESLEY" (Macmillan company) has certainly the advantage of a less cumbersome length than some of its predecessors, and the author has approached his subject from a broad, modern view of biography, which allows the display of an attractive style.

He makes a point of what other biographers appear to have overlooked—namely: the relation of Wesley's great movement to the rise in the eighteenth century of the English middle classes. The English tradesmen freed themselves from social conventions and even to an extent from caste at this time, and their rise as a social and political force was mainly coincident with Wesley's movement. Indeed the latter may be clearly traced to the former in a certain extent, for Methodism was the result of a desire of the middle classes to free themselves from ecclesiastic conventions. And both were democratic forces at work.

To the great body of dissatisfied English—dissenters alike in a religious and a social sense—the marvelous magnetism and winning personality of Wesley united with his great earnestness and the newness and charm of his doctrine came as a revelation. On this point Prof. Winchester lays special stress and he rightly gives it a great deal of space. Another thing which made Wesley's appeal strike the English middle classes favorably was the fact that he was no believer in salvation by education and culture. His was first and always, a personal religion. His intimate personal assurances of spiritual truth and his intense devotion fitted him to be the leader of the people to whom he spoke.

Robert Grant in his short stories maintains nearly the same impersonal point of view towards his subjects and characters that he does in his novels. They contain, too, much of the veiled cynicism that distinguishes the more sustained efforts, and the reader is sometimes in doubt as to the author's real attitude. "THE LAW BREAKERS" is the title of a collection of short tales, the readers of which is left to draw his own conclusions in most instances. The story which gives its name to the book deals with a "reformer," who to his sweetheart denounces a little politician who deceived the civil service board, and who himself is obliged to confess to her that he smuggled cocaine in from Europe because he considered the tariff "an idiotic law." The politician's sweetheart forgives him and they are married, while the "reformer's" sweetheart follows him over. Perhaps the best story in the book, at least it seems as though Judge Grant must have most enjoyed writing it, is the case of a young professor of science who on a slender salary marries a girl with ambition. At length, after years of poverty, during which they have denied themselves much they and their children needed, an unexpected offer comes to become a partner in a brokerage concern which floats electric companies, and where his scientific knowledge would be used in connection with the financial features of the flotation. The metamorphosis of the professor after he has accepted the offer and ridden good by to all his dreams is well shown. And "it was the woman who tempted me." (Charles Scribner's Son.)

Auction by Mail

An Innovation in Shopping Methods

Read every line of this announcement. It is as clear and brief as possible.

IT IS AN AGE of startling development in social and trading facilities. Dreams of yesterday are realized today. Time honored institutions are put to new uses—at first by the few who foresee coming events, then broadly adopted as a matter of course.

The auction store, with its eager throngs of oral bidders, is as old and familiar as commerce. It is, and always will be a quick, fair channel for trading. Its usefulness will remain. It is in the broadened scope of that usefulness that a new feature has developed—of far-reaching effect—namely: bidding by mail, in your own home, leisurely, deliberately; buying standard merchandise from permanent, responsible merchants, at your own figure.

The beauty of this plan—and its entire safety to any individual buyer—is just this: You pay no more than you bid. You bid no more than you wish. If your bid falls too far below the actual value of an article, some one else, with a better or fairer estimate, gets it. But you lose nothing. If, on the other hand, your bid is successful, the award is to you ON YOUR OWN TERMS. No fairer basis for dealing could be invented. The value of all merchandise is clearly marked in retail figures, which may be compared at your leisure with prices prevailing elsewhere. Safeguards and facilities of retail trading accorded, such as credit, exchange or return of goods, etc.

Retail margins are enormous. Fortunes have been amassed, are now being amassed, through the regular channels of trade. It is to eliminate this immense economic waste that The Fidelity Trustee and Receivers Company of Chicago has inaugurated an auction system by mail, which will embrace in its scope nearly every article of jewelry, household and art goods handled by the largest stores. Our facilities for buying are as good. Our facilities for selling are much better. We save vast sums of money by quick disposition. Sales are forced by bidding. In a retail establishment they ebb and flow with the demand. The millions invested are a heavy burden on profits. Our money is rapidly turned over.

The interests of our stockholders are safeguarded by the law of averages—high bids and low bids. Some things—many things—are, of course, sold way below cost, in other instances a better average is obtained for the article. It is the principle of averages in insurance applied to merchandising.

The responsibility of this company is beyond question. It may be readily verified through any mercantile agency or bank. It has been long established with branch offices in principal cities. Executive offices, Republic Bldg., Chicago.

Secure Ninth Straight Victory, Pittsburg Being the Victim, Five to One.

COLD DAY, BUT BIG CROWD

Chance's Men Show Steady Improvement in Confidence and Skill.

Murphy's Spuds played a one matinee stand at home yesterday, and after dragging the hapless Pirates all the way from Pittsburg here for the engagement, forced them to walk the plank for the third straight time—winning, 5 to 1, in a brilliant spectacular game, full of action, incident, and joy.

The town turned out to welcome the Spuds back to the west side potato patch, and, although every one of the 14,000 persons who tried to raise the pneumonia, tuberculosis, grip, and chilblain rate froze solid, the Murphys were smoking hot. Their brilliant, dashing, slashing style of play swept the Pirates off their feet at the first break, and, although constantly in danger, their clever and brilliant defense held the Pirates helpless until the ninth, when they managed to flash a run across the plate and save themselves the disgrace of a shutout.

Play with Great Confidence.

It was the ninth straight victory for the Spuds, and they came home for their brief visit looking much better than when they went away, playing with a vim, dash, and confidence they lacked when they were home a fortnight ago.

Despite the day was cold, raw, and cheerless, the greatest crowd of the year—willing to be frapped to help along their favorites—came out to watch the struggle.

The grand welcome spurred the Spuds on to great doings, and after the first few rounds they played wonderful ball. Once Schulte came racing forward, and, while extended to the limit, scooped a fierce line drive off his shoestrings—saving a sure triple—and again the rabbit—Slagle—sprinted at a terrific clip over into right center, grabbed Clarke's line drive, and waltzed with it around and around, but holding it and saving two runs.

Begin Attack on Willis.

For three and a half innings the teams sparred for an opening—and the Pirates had all the better of the argument. Willis was outpitching Wicker, who seemed a bit wild and unsteady, but almost as unhittable as his elongated rival. The Spuds were in hot water in the second, third, and fourth—but were saved by brilliant fielding. With Slagle down in the fourth, Murphy sent out a general order to aim at the foul lines—Sheckard slapped a stinger straight across first base and landed in safety on second. An instant later Schulte cracked a beauty down the left field line, and he cast anchor at second, while Sheckard scored. Chance saw an open spot in left and pushed a short fly safe over there, Schulte being stopped at third, and, an instant later, while Chance was stealing, Willis came near knocking a man out of the upper tier of boxes in the grand stand with a wild pitch. Schulte counted on the miscue and Tinker's safe wallop to right center let Chance home with the third run.

Make the Game Safe.

The Pirates were stopped, and, after his disastrous inning, Willis held the Spuds safe just one round, then they broke loose again. A bunt by Slagle started it, Nealon letting Willis' slightly wild throw escape him. Sheckard sacrificed, and Schulte banged out his second hit, reaching second when Leach made a despairing effort to catch Slagle at the plate. Chance slashed a vicious bounder straight over second, which escaped Wagner despite his brilliant effort to reach it, and the score mounted to 5.

Content with five runs the Spuds stopped there—and played desperately to hold the Pirates safe. Wicker was wild and the team had a hard fight to repulse the attacks of the visitors. They were in hot water—and came near being boiled, both in the seventh and eighth—and, even when the ninth started there was a chance for the Pirates.

Visitors' Lone Run.

Up to that time they had made but two hits, one a scratch, off Wicker, but Wagner and Nealon started off with screaming singles. Wicker stopped the assault there, but a double steal and a muff by Evers made in an effort to pull off one of his copyrighted one handed stabs, gave Wagner a chance to cross the plate, and save the added disgrace of a shutout. Notes of the West Side Game.

Evers' fumble of Ritchey's hot grounder at the start of the seventh inning gave Chicago its first error in forty-two innings.

The Chicago and Pittsburg teams reached Chicago late in the forenoon from Pittsburg and started back again early last night to fight it out there today.

Wagner frightened the crowd in the second. He started on a pass, and, although thrown out five feet at second, was saved because Evers dropped Kling's perfect throw. Then he tried to steal third and was nipped.

Slagle's catch of Clarke's line drive in the eighth, with two out and two on bases, was one of the best of the year. He got the ball in deep right center while running at full speed. Had the ball passed him it was a certain triple into the crowd.

Willis robbed Slagle of a hit in the sixth. He pitched a slow ball and Slagle hit it back at him so hard he could not dodge. The ball struck him in the back and rolled away, and, although he recovered in time to make an error, he kept Slagle from getting credit for a hit.

Chance and Tinker pulled off one of the oddest double plays ever made. Leach was stealing, when Gibson hit a weak pop fly to Chance, and Wicker, covering the base, got the ball from Chance before Leach could get back. Chance appears to have profited by Comiskey's training of pitchers, and has his men fielding well and covering the base rapidly.

The seventh inning looked bad for a few minutes. Ritchey was saved by Evers' fumble and Wagner caught Steinfeldt asleep back in the grass and bunted safe towards third. Nealon's hot rap to Wicker forced Wagner at third, and Sheehan cracked a hot one towards second. It looked like a double play, but Evers fumbled, recovering only in time to slide to the base ahead of the runner. Tinker got Leach's hot bounder, and the danger was over.

The third was a scary round for the Spuds. Leach opened with a hit, took second on a passed ball, and staid there while Gibson struck out. Willis hit a bounder in front of the plate, jumped in, and was hit by the ball. He was three feet on fair ground, but Johnstone refused to allow the out, and Willis walked. Ganley hit hard to Steinfeldt, who threw to Evers, and Johnny, instead of trying for an impossible double, held Leach at third. Had he thrown for the double play Leach would have scored easily.

WALSH FIGURES IN PITCHING FEAT

Holds Cleveland Sluggers to One Hit, Made in Ninth Inning.

WHITE SOX VICTORS, 6 TO 0.

Besides Batting Cleverly They Give Their Twirler Splendid Support.

E. Walsh, from Connecticut, where the nutmegs come from, missed pitching a no-hit game against Cleveland at White Stocking park yesterday by less than nine inches, which represent the distance between George Davis' fingers and the one solitary safe hit Bemis poked out in the ninth inning. Incidentally that hit cut as much figure in the result as a drop of water in the bottom of the sea, for the Sox had the game on ice, 6 to 0, where it froze.

But a no-hit game at this time of year, and particularly against that bunch of leather killers which Lajoie carries around with him, would have been a real ostrich plume in Walsh's cap. It's pitching baseball, and then some, to hold the Naps down to one single in nine innings. That hasn't happened to Cleveland in some seasons—in fact, not since "Doc" White did it on Sept. 6, 1903. If that one hit had come in the first inning it wouldn't have looked half as big as it did in the ninth. For it kept Walsh from coming awfully close to tying "Cy" Young's feat of shutting out a team without letting a man reach first base.

Spell Broken in Ninth.

In eight innings only one Nap saw first base alive—that was Bradley on a pass in the first session. As inning after inning was reeled off hitless as well as runless for the Naps, while the Sox gradually pounded in the runs which spiked victory down, the crowd forgot the score and began rooting for Ed to go the route without a hit. When he got through the eighth safely, leaving the tail end of the batting list to come up in the ninth, the fans felt sure of it. Then right at the start of the ninth Bemis poked a roller close to second base. Davis extended himself as far as his lame hip would let him, but the ball sneaked past his outstretched hands by a quarter of a yard only, and the spell was broken.

Not a visitor ever saw second base, however, for Rossman, who subbed for Joss in that last round, forced Bemis and was forced in turn by Bay, while Bradley made the last out. In all four visitors reached first, three of them in the ninth, and twenty-nine men faced Walsh, only two more than the necessary twenty-seven putouts.

Does Not Use "Eel" Ball.

Walsh used only speed, of which he had perfect control after the initial inning, and reduced the size of the ball in the visitors' eyes to the size of one of the nutmegs of his native state. Not once did he let loose the eel, usually his mainstay. Yet those sluggers found the ball, small as it was, and banged it hard at times. It was not all Walsh, for the Sox pulled off some brilliant fielding stunts behind him and gave him perfect as well as dashing support. Hemphill, Isbell, and Donohue starred in the defense and Walsh himself smothered a couple or three budding hits.

The White Sox found Joss somewhat freely toward the finish, but could get a margin of only two runs up to the seventh. Isbell led in the smashing department with three safe drives, one of them for two bases, and Walsh made a couple, neither of which counted in the run column.

Get a Good Start.

Jones led in Chicago's first half with a clean double just inside first base. O'Neill bunted and Joss booted, making both runners safe. Davis hit viciously to Shipke right into a double play, but Jones scored from third on it. The second Sox run came in the fourth. Davis singled with one out, but was forced by Donohue. "Jiggs" immediately stole and scored on Isbell's single.

Isbell led off in the fertile seventh with a hard double to right center. Hemphill struck out trying to bunt. Tannehill singled and Sullivan shot a liner through left center for two bases and two runs. Walsh flied, but Sullivan scored when Turner missed Jones' grounder. The final run in the eighth was the result of Isbell's single, Shipke's muff of Hemphill's drive, a double steal, and Sullivan's long fly. Score:

Notes of the White Sox Game.

Walsh pitched only four balls in the second inning.

St. Louis comes today for the first of three games.

Bemis threw poorly to bases, and the Sox took full advantage of his lack of control.

Jones' double in the first was made on a teaser which Joss tried to sneak over, but the manager timed it aright and pickled it.

Turner made a fine stop of Walsh's wallop in deep short field in the fifth, then made a long throw to first, but the big pitcher was there ahead of it.

Secretary Barnard said he never comes to Chicago, even in midsummer, without bringing along all his winter clothes, because the Naps always encounter cold weather here.

Despite the chilly, sunless atmosphere, which made it good weather for football, a good sized crowd, close to 8,000, was out to get one of the few possible glimpses of the Sox before they hike for the long eastern trail.

Manager Lajoie sprouted another boil on his knee, and, although it had been lanced and he expected to play, he found on getting into practice the bandages were so tight he could not cover much territory. Larry's absence made little difference with the one hit proposition, as he invariably bats poorly here.

Hemphill made a fine running catch of Turner's long fly near the bleachers in the fifth, and Isbell robbed Flick of a single by a great stop in the seventh, but Donohue pulled off the hardest play when he speared with his mitt a wide throw from Davis while clinging to the bag with one toenail, and retired Turner, in the eighth.

Hemphill was robbed of a single in the eighth by one of those mixups which happen occasionally. Isbell was on first, and started a hit and run play. Hemphill hit a liner near second. Shipke, running to cover the base, stopped right in front of the ball, and had a sure double play, but muffed the catch and both men were safe. Had Turner covered the bag Shipke never would have reached the ball.

BROWNS TAKE EXCITING GAME.

St. Louis, Mo., May 6.—In a game filled with excitement St. Louis defeated Detroit, 5 to 3. Manager Armour of Detroit was ordered from the field at the end of the eighth inning by the umpire for disputing a decision, and Connor also ordered Pitcher Killian from the box for delaying the game. # ROYAL GIANTS WIN GAME.

DEFEAT LELAND'S MEN, BUT LOSE TO THE UNIONS.

Brooklyn Nine Registers Victory in Twelve Innings in Afternoon Contest, the First of Series Which, It Is Claimed, Is for Colored Championship of United States, 3 to 2—Lytle Allows Easterners Only One Hit in Morning.

The Royal Giants of Brooklyn played two games with local teams yesterday and broke even, losing in the morning to the Union Giants, 2 to 0, and winning in their afternoon contest with the Leland Giants in twelve innings, 3 to 2. The game was the first of a series which they claim is for the colored championship of the United States, and was played at Auburn Park. Great fielding, in which Brown and Irwin were the stars, was a feature.

Both Davis and Merritt pitched well, the former having the easterners shut out until the ninth inning, when four hits and an error gave the Royal Giants two runs and tied the score. Andrews, who succeeded Merritt in the eighth inning, also was in good form. Hits by A. Johnson and Andrews in the twelfth gave the visitors the victory. Score:

By winning from the Wanderers at Parkside yesterday the Hyde Park blues put themselves in a tie for second place in the race for the Peel pennant in the Association Football League of Chicago. They have the same number of points as Pullman, but have played one more game. The Wanderers were forced to third place.

The Calumets asked the Pullman team for a postponement on Saturday night, but the car builders thought the notice too short and will claim the games in both divisions. By drawing with the Hyde Park Albions the Wanderers Reserves added a point to their total and now stand a good show to win the championship.

Hyde Park Blues, 2; Wanderers, 0.

The Hyde Park blues won an uninteresting game from the Wanderers at Parkside by 2 goals to 0. The defense work on both sides was fairly good, but both forward lines played poorly. In the last half the blues must have sent twenty shots wide of the mark. The home team started with ten men and was without the services of Ward, Waller, and Linley. A few minutes after starting Clare filled in at center half.

Playing against the wind in the opening half the blues scored early, Jack Evans booting a fine center to Withington, who counted. Evans scored for Hyde Park after twenty minutes in the second half. He was off side right in front of goal, but Clare touched the ball, putting him in play and he had the goal at his mercy. Nearing the end the Wanderers got a penalty kick, Rogers deliberately fisting the ball away. Roberts cleared Spencer's low shot. Lineup:

Even Break for Lake Shores.

The meeting of the Lake Shores and Metropolitan Rangers, leaders in the Chicago league of association football, drew a good crowd to the foot of Indiana street. It proved an even contest, but was devoid of scientific football, the high wind having something to do with the wild kicking. Some of the home team displayed their usual tendency to rough play, and Referee Robertson had a busy time.

F. MacAleer scored for the Metropolitans in the last ten minutes of the first half. The Lake Shores remained in the rear until within five minutes of time, when Capt. Dockery scored and put them on easy street.

HOPPE AND CURE PLAY IN BILLIARD TOURNEY TONIGHT.

Five Noted Professionals in 18.2 Balk Line Engagement at Orchestra Hall—Good Runs by Sutton.

At 8 o'clock tonight Willie Hoppe, the boy billiard wonder, and Louis Curé, the Frenchman, will bank for the opening shot in the 18.2 balk line billiard tournament at Orchestra hall.

The other competitors in the tournament are George Slosson, the champion at this style of play; Jacob Schaefer, and George Sutton. Opinions among the experts are about equally divided as to the chances of Sutton, Slosson, and Schaefer. Many think Sutton will win on account of the runaway style in which he won his last two games at the New York tourney. Schaefer is hardly in his best form, or he would be the favorite.

That Sutton is in great form he showed again yesterday at Bensinger's, where he made a run of 209 in the afternoon, and in the evening had an unfinished run of 237.

There will be a big attendance at the games, the sale of seats already assuring that. The hall will accommodate 2,200 people.

ENTRIES FOR BOWLING MEET.

One Hundred and Thirty-eight Five-Men Teams to Compete in I. B. A. Tourney.

Bowling officials announced the total entry list to the coming state tournament, which starts next Saturday night, last night, with an estimated prize list of $3,250, the amounts received being as follows: 75 teams at $5, $375; 63 teams at $10; $630; 261 doubles at $4, $1,044; 437 individuals at $2, $874; outside contributions, $350; total, $3,250. Playing will start May 12 and will run until May 27, the five men event running every day. A feature of the entry list is the heavy entry from towns outside of Chicago.

Drug Trades Roll 1,031.

A 1,031 game by the Drug Trades was the feature of the bowling on local alleys yesterday.

HAZARDOUS AUTOMOBILE RACE.

Italian, French, and Belgian Competitors Ride Through Mountains and Over Steep Grades.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PALERMO, May 6.—What was probably the most dangerous automobile race ever run took place today for the Florio trophy. The course, ninety-one miles long, followed extremely rough mountain roads, where the gradients were sometimes one in thirteen, passing over mountains more than 3,000 feet in height. The competitors were three Italians, four Frenchmen, and a Belgian. An Italian named Cagno won. Two cars were overturned on the steep gradients and their drivers hurt. A Frenchwoman drove her husband's car faultlessly.

Notes of the Golfers.

Miss Inez Adams of the Jackson Park club is playing in fine form.

Two practice holes have been put in at Jackson park. Several practice putting greens near the first tee would be welcomed by the players.

BIG RACE IN EAST NEXT THURSDAY.

Metropolitan Handicap Will Inaugurate Sport at Big Belmont Park Track.

FINE FIELD IS EXPECTED.

Memphis Meeting Winds Up Same Day with Benefit to Frisco Sufferers.

New York, May 6.—[Special.]—While the sport at Aqueduct and Jamaica has been much above the ordinary, what is known as the "real racing season" will begin at Belmont park next Thursday with the Westchester Racing association's spring meeting.

Several new world's records were made at this track last fall, and there are more to follow. During the Belmont session, which is divided into two meetings, the important events will be the Metropolitan handicap, the Juvenile stakes, the Whitney Memorial steeplechase, the National Stallion, Withers, Ladies', Eclipse, and historic Belmont stakes.

The Metropolitan, a $10,000 affair, at a mile, will be run on the opening day. It is not yet definitely known whether H. P. Whitney's Burgomaster will start, but it is generally believed this great Hamburg 3 year old will be reserved for future events. The Whitney castoff, Israfel, by Meddler, who won the Kings County handicap in a romp on Saturday, will start, and he will have a following, too. Essentially a front runner, and a good one, he will be hard to beat, it is thought, with a comparative feather on his back. Then there are Merry Lark, winner of the Excelsior, fit and ready; Roseben, the champion sprinter; Delhi, Tokalon, Oxford, Tiptoe, Aeronaut, Red Knight, Colonial Girl, and Hamburg Belle (who has been showing fast time trials lately). Ormonde's Right also will go to the post.

Since Roseben's defeat in the Excelsior he has lost the grip he had on the racing public. It has been hinted by skeptics that Dave Johnson, owner of Roseben, did not bet much on the big horse in the Excelsior, but as a matter of fact he lost exactly $38,000 on the famous horse. Johnson placed the amount on Roseben through several commissioners, at the same time betting large amounts in the ring himself. Johnson and Trainer Weir have not been able to account for his defeat, but they have not lost confidence, and Roseben, after a "prep" in the Montague, at one mile and a sixteenth, on Tuesday, will go to the post on Thursday.

Boots Durnell, who is persona non grata as far as the Jockey club tracks are concerned, just now is quietly writing for his statement.

MEMPHIS WINDUP THIS WEEK.

Meeting About to Close Has Been Marked by Good Attendance—Ellison Chief Winner.

Memphis, Tenn., May 6.—[Special.]—The Montgomery park meeting will close on Thursday with a benefit for 'Frisco sufferers. The meeting to date has been characterized by the largest attendance in the history of local racing, the biggest betting in the memory of recent day patrons, and the poorest quality of horses ever seen at local races. The largest winner has been C. E. Ellison, with $18,050. The success of the Ellison horses, which are trained by George P. Snyder, an Illinois horseman, was totally unexpected. Several weeks prior to the opening Ellison stated he would win the Derby and Oaks, even going so far as to designate Lady Navarre. Barney Schreiber stands second on the list of winners with $4,810, most of which has been won by Horace E., who is a 1 to 3 favorite for tomorrow's Memphis stake.

Jockey Cherry remains in the lead of riders, with twenty-six victories. Willie Dugan, Schreiber's California jockey, leads in percentage of victories with twelve wins out of twenty-eight. Cherry will soon make his debut in the east. He is under contract to L. A. Cella, who intends shipping from here to the eastern tracks. The stakes for this week are the Memphis stakes tomorrow, in which Horace E. will meet Fontainbleu, and the classic old Peabody handicap. The feature on Thursday will be the San Francisco handicap.

California Horses Arrive.

F. W. Doss and G. W. Baldwin arrived in Chicago last night from California—the former with three horses, the latter with six. Doss started with four horses, but near Omaha, Royeroft, the best of the lot, took suddenly sick and died. Both stables are on the way east.

MAY NOT ADOPT BOOK OF PRAYER

Work Authorized by General Assembly Opposed by Many Presbyterians.

USE IS NOT COMPULSORY.

Some Services Similar to Those of Episcopalian Church—"Obey" Omitted from Marriage Rite.

New York, May 6.—[Special.]—The new book of common worship has just been published with the authority of the Presbyterian general assembly. For three years a special committee on forms and services for the general assembly, headed by the Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke, has been working on this new "prayer book," and the first copies of the completed book were received from the Presbyterian official board of publication on Saturday. The title page of the book bears this significant announcement: "For voluntary use in churches."

This is the first time a prayer book has been offered for use in the Presbyterian church. The opposition to the book in the general assembly last year was particularly strong from western missionaries. One of these sturdy representatives of the cloth expressed the sentiments of himself and fellows as follows:

"Out our way we have to eat canned vegetables, canned meat, and canned milk, but we can't stand for canned prayers."

Many Churches May Not Use Book.

Now that the Presbyterian prayer book has been published, all that remains for those who are opposed to it is to refrain from its use, and it is predicted by Presbyterian leaders that a large number of churches will so refrain. But in the east and in the large cities of the country generally the new book is expected to be largely used.

As to the book itself, a number of Presbyterian pastors of this city who were seen today were unanimous in the opinion that the work of Dr. Van Dyke's committee had been ably done. The book is arranged conveniently, the contents are such that practically all the regular and special church occasions are provided for, and more than one clergyman said the book would prove most useful, even if it were to be used only by a minister for his own guidance, and not put in the hands of the people of the congregation.

Omits "Obey" from Marriage Form.

In many particulars the book has points of similarity with the Episcopal book of common prayer. Some Episcopalians said that some of the forms for services and many of the prayers were, with a change of a word or two, bodily taken from their prayer book. To this assertion a Presbyterian editor made reply that as a matter of fact the makers of the prayer book of the Episcopal church themselves had drawn on some older sources.

Women will be especially interested in the marriage ceremony in the new book, for it omits the word "obey" and it also omits reference to the "worldly goods" with which the man and woman in the Episcopal and some other marriage forms "endowed" each other.

Injunction in Church Merger.

Decatur, Ill., May 6.—[Special.]—Next Monday Judge Johns in the Circuit court will be asked to grant an injunction to restrain a vote at the coming general assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian church on the proposition to unite with the Presbyterian church. This is the most important question to come up at the gathering. The nonunion faction of the Cumberland Presbyterian church objects on the ground that the general assembly has no legal right to declare a union of the church with another separate and distinct organization and provide for the transfer of property. If the temporary injunction is granted it will be an expensive proceeding, as every one of nearly 300 members of the assembly must be served in order that it be effective.

BISHOP MULDOON IN SERMON PRAISES THE $1,000 LICENSE.

Prelate Gives Temperance Address and Declares Total Abstinence Is Foundation for the Cause.

"The solution of the temperance question lies more in individual morality than in public legislation," said Bishop Muldoon of St. Charles' Borromeo Catholic church last evening, in a sermon on temperance in the Lady of Lourdes church, Leland and Ashland avenue. "The curse of liquor is not the liquor, nor necessarily in mere drinking, but in the abuses of the right to drink. The only tenable foundation for the temperance cause is in total abstinence. It is on this foundation that the Catholic church is endeavoring to defeat the cohort of liquor interests."

Bishop Muldoon was invited to speak by the Total Abstinence society of the church. It was announced by the president of the society, J. L. Slattery, that there are similar societies in 100 Catholic churches in Chicago, with a total membership of at least 10,000 persons, who have signed the pledge. The national organization is known as the Catholic Total Abstinence union.

"High license in Chicago," said the bishop, "was a step in the right direction, because its effect was to thin out the saloons and raise the moral standing of them. The benefit of high license as an increase in city revenue is a secondary consideration. Most meritorious is its tendency to eliminate the temptation from the young—the saving of souls and not of money."

CHURCH TO HAVE NEGRO BUREAU

Catholic Archbishops Take Important Step and Priests Will Be Trained for This Work.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 6.—[Special.]—Catholic archbishops have decided to establish a negro bureau, similar to the Indian bureau now conducted by the church. The bureau is to be established in Washington and a priest will be placed in charge of it.

They believe this is an important step and will mean much for the growth of the work among the negroes. One of the principal features of the work will be the education and training of young priests for this field of labor.

The Josephine fathers, located at Baltimore, carry on this line of work exclusively, having a seminary and college, but there is need to supplement their efforts.

JEWISH WORK FOR CHARITY.

Judge Mack of Chicago Delivers Opening Address at Biennial National Conference at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 6.—The biennial meeting of the national conference of Jewish Charities, which brings together representatives of every Jewish charity of any importance in the United States, was formally opened here tonight. It will continue until Wednesday. The address of welcome was made by William B. Hackenburg, and this was followed by an address by the president of the conference, Judge Julian W. Mack of Chicago. The report of the committee on distribution was read by Cyrus D. Sulzberger of New York.

Willard Hall Noonday Meetings.

Willard hall noonday meetings this week will be as follows: Monday, prayer and praise service; Tuesday, the Rev. A. J. Sullens; Wednesday, the Rev. J. F. Clancey; Thursday, Christian missionary alliance; Friday, the international Sunday school lesson taught by the Rev. William Evans, D. D.; Saturday, the Gideons.

DARK OUTLOOK FOR BULLS

SLUMP PROBABLY MARKS END OF PLANS FOR A CAMPAIGN.

Money Market Shows Little Improvement, but Conditions Are Better and Promise Easier Situation Soon —Government Activity in Investigation of Corporations Unfavorable to Higher Prices—Rumors of Reduction in Match Dividend.

Heavy liquidation in the active stock list last week culminated in a dragging movement in securities and probably marks for some time the end of plans for a bull campaign. Undoubtedly the heaviest of operators were hit by the fall in prices, and what little of the public there was in securities has been given such a drastic experience that there remains nothing of encouragement. It should not be a matter of disappointment should there be, on advances, liquidation by this element.

The money market shows little improvement, although conditions have grown better. There is already a movement of credits to New York, and the imports of gold continue in large volume. At least $60,000,000 has been engaged or imported within the last thirty days, and when further foreign insurance funds come into the country the needs of San Francisco will be more than met. Unless the tariff be removed on structural steel it will not be possible for San Francisco to be immediately rebuilt, for the mills of this country are now overcrowded. But should the tariff be removed then the money which is now coming to this country would be paid out abroad, again disturbing the money situation.

The government has taken on new activity looking toward investigation of corporations. The government seems also determined to probe the Standard Oil company, and what with the money situation and congressional investigations, the position of the stock market is highly unfavorable for the conduct of an upward movement.

Bank Statement.

The bank statement on Saturday did not promise much for the money market, but the known situation does. The movement toward California has largely abated, and funds are moving back to New York. Chicago last week bought exchange on New York at the rate of $1,000,000 a day until the latter part of the week. The previous week the same institutions were sending credits west. The large imports of gold should now begin to tell in the cash reserves of New York banks, and money inevitably become easier. The bank statement follows:

Chicago Stocks.

In the Chicago stock market the tone averaged better than the previous week. Diamond Match was irregular, but improved some after the special meeting. The directors are scheduled to meet this week, and in some quarters belief is professed that a reduction in the dividend rate will be recommended. Such a course seems clearly to be the right one, in view of the annual statements of the company. It was admitted at the special meeting that it was a question of paying 10 per cent dividends and borrowing money, or reducing the dividends and developing the business out of earnings. The meeting and the conduct of those holding the proxies was such as to further discredit both the managers and the value of the security.

For a salaried officer, and reputed a small shareholder, to decline to make any statement of the condition of the company to those whom he serves, is to make an exhibit of corporation management arrogance that could only spring from a fossilized idea of the relations between shareholders and officers. The management of the New York Life Insurance company controlled the funds of that institution so long and so absolutely and without question that the managers came to believe them to be their property and acted accordingly. But public opinion took a different view, as have the courts. One of the officials died from shame, another high financier who handled the accounts of the company, making verbal agreements, is under arrest, and a distinguished United States senator has lost his reputation. The Diamond Match management should not refuse to be guided by a kindly light.

Illinois Brick shares showed no gain. The earnings of the company are still understood to be large, but it appears to be extremely easy to organize competition.

American Can shares failed to recover from the low prices incident to the San Francisco fire.

Local Bank Share Market.

The local bank stock market does not improve. The shock which bank shares received by the events of last December and January is still felt. But for those things there should be an active and rising market, for the earnings of the banks are unusually good.

Trade in Wholesale Lines.

Conditions in the wholesale and jobbing trade were, on the whole, satisfactory last week in spite of labor disturbances in a few branches of trade. There was no diminution, apparently, in the consumption of staples and the volume of orders received compared well with former years at this season.

The strike of the longshoremen on the lakes has hindered the movement of grain and ore to some extent and dealings in these commodities locally have been restricted to a certain extent. Outside of this influence there was nothing of an unfavorable nature affecting the trade. Railroad earnings continued to reflect a heavy volume of traffic in the majority of instances, larger than last year.

There was considerable activity in leather goods and increased orders were received for footwear, harness, and other leather ware for fall delivery.

Orders from the interior were plentiful for most commodities, reflecting the practical assurance of bountiful crops, which show great promise at the present time.

Paint jobbers reported an exceedingly auspicious opening of the season, exceeding their expectations of a few weeks ago. The almost unparalleled activity in building has furnished the impetus for an equally good inquiry for paints and oils. As a consequence the month of May promises to be a record breaker in the matter of paint orders. The season has been a little backward for this class of goods, but the present volume of business promises to make up for it.

Relative to the iron and steel industry the Iron and Machinery World had the following:

"The last week continued, if it did not add to, the previous buoyant state of the iron and steel markets. The country may be getting accustomed to great shocks. Certainly the strikes of May 1 have not occasioned any great consternation. Wherever possible the trade is moving along unconcernedly as if things were not happening that were more or less disconcerting. It may, perhaps, be accepted as a reasonably safe statement that the steel corporation will not permit any minor labor complication to disarrange seriously the existing activities in the metal trade. Chances seem to favor either an early settlement of the lake strike or a demonstration that the big freighters will get through in some way. The industries of the country are under an unprecedented momentum which even appalling calamities appear unable to check. The rail trade occupied a conspicuous position the last week by reason of the thrusting of 1907 business thus early into view. The southern open hearth mill is reported to have sold 200,000 tons for next year's shipment and the northern mills also are said to have done some trading of this character. There was some good business in bridge work and plates in the east. So far as can be observed there is no diminution in the brightness of the outlook."

PRICES BREAK, THEN RECOVER

Feverish Fluctuations Mark Saturday's Trading on New York Exchange, but Close Is Steady.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, May 6.—[Special.]—Prices in general on the stock market showed little net change at the end of yesterday's trading, despite the feverish fluctuations which were apparent during the short session.

The news of the settlement of the coal strike had its effect on the anthracite carriers and the dealings in Reading were enormous. The developments in the railroad rate struggle caused an early weakness in St. Paul and New York Central dealings. This weakness was overcome when Reading shot upwards, but again asserted itself after the appearance of the bank statement.

That the average of the loans of the banks should have been increased for the week $2,900,400 made a striking exhibit of the heavy requirements which make the withdrawals of credits from the stock market necessary to afford means for meeting them.

Withdrawals of cash by the trust companies to build up their reserves in compliance with the new state law were given the responsibility for part of the discrepancy.

Furthermore, some of the large gold engagements of the latter part of the week, owing to delayed accounting in the subtreasury operations, have not figured in this week's bank statement. The effect of the statement on the market nevertheless was unfavorable and the closing was irregular in spite of the renewed advance at the last in the coalers.

Bonds moved in sympathy with stocks, but within a much narrower price range. United States 3s declined ¼ per cent on call on the week.

BANK OF ENGLAND RAISES RATE

Business Dull in London and Gold Shipments to United States Advances Price of Money.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

[Copyright: 1906: By the New York Herald.]

LONDON, May 6.—The cry is still the same—no business. On Thursday there were signs of recovery, but they lasted only a short time. The American market is the real center, and further persistent heavy demands for gold for the United States have caused the Bank of England directors to raise the bank rate to 4 per cent. Additional shipments are expected next week and the rate may be still further increased, because it is well known the bank reserve is none too strong.

There has been great disappointment with the budget, as hope has been entertained that a much larger proportion of the sinking fund would be made effective than is shown in the proposals of the chancellor of the exchequer. There is little fear of the result of the ultimatum to Turkey, but still it is a potent factor in helping towards continued slackness.

Consols are down to 89½. Russians, curiously enough, constitute the only firm spot in the foreign market. Japanese issues have lost about ½ generally.

The Statist says: "In the next two or three weeks the banks possibly may obtain a moderate amount of cash from the country, but the internal movements of cash are not likely to give the banks additional resources. With America wanting gold and willing to pay relatively high rates for money, there is some doubt if the Bank of England will secure much gold in the next few months and consequently it is desirable it should not permit its reserves to be depleted."

MASHER BEATEN AND ARRESTED

Harry Cobb Fares Badly at Hands of Thomas B. Tierney and Friends.

After receiving a beating from the passengers on an Indiana avenue car yesterday, Harry Cobb, proprietor of a laundry, 5121 Lake avenue, was arrested as a "masher." Thomas B. Tierney, 3822 Aldine street, with a number of friends, men and women, was riding south in the car on which Cobb was also a passenger. It is alleged that Cobb made remarks to the women. Tierney and the others put him off the car, struck him several blows, and had him arrested.

STRENGTH IN MAY WHEAT.

CEREAL SCORES MORE THAN CENT ADVANCE FOR WEEK.

Light Offerings and Short Covering Serve as Tonic to Present Month—New Crop Options Slightly Lower at Week End—Trade Awaits Government Report—Little Change in Corn and Oats—Provisions Suffer Declines.

Marked nervousness characterized operations in the wheat market last week. Although sentiment generally continued bearish, developments were not exactly as per the bears' calculations, and as a result stepping was cautious and careful. The dawn of the month found local deliveries of about 2,500,000 bu on contracts, but in spite of this liberal output the market acted in a manner not to the liking of the bears, who, weeks before, had predicted that the wheat would swamp the market and send values spinning downward. The northwest, pictured all along as the resting place of bushels untold, fell far below the expectations in the matter of delivery. The readiness with which the wheat was taken and the good hande into which it went brought out the fact that the short interest was considerably larger than had been generally thought. As the week wore on the stringency in the May became more pronounced, and when the final bell of the period was sounded the month was at 81c, an advance of 1⅝c over the closing quotation of the week before.

News affecting the new crop futures was of a character sufficiently bearish to bolster up the hopes of the pessimists, regardless of the firmness shown in the May. The July and September were ⅛@⅜c lower at the week end. Although there was a generous dispensation of unfavorable crop news from the winter wheat regions, the mass of matter relating to the growing plant was highly favorable. That the bears are not altogether certain of their position, however, was shown by the readiness with which short covering was indulged in on almost all suggestions of bullishness.

Offerings Are Scanty.

The older the week became the more reduced became the offerings, not only of the May, which at times was practically out of the market, but of the other months. Trades that in a reasonably lively market would have but little effect on values gave the values sharp turns. The hopes of the bears found tonic in the Ohio and Missouri state reports, which showed a better condition than on April 1, but those who believe that the grain should be unloaded on all bulges were disposed to get a "better line" on the outlook before venturing boldly from shore. It is expected that the government's report on the condition of winter wheat on May 1, to be issued next Thursday, will be bearish, but, remembering that the April figures were not as pessimistic as had been expected, the trade is not willing to suggest too glowing a showing.

Australian and Indian shipments for the week were not encouraging to the bears, and the general cash situation in the northwest was not such as to indicate marked dullness in milling circles. Some short covering was prompted by reports of sales to Europe, wheat to be shipped in July and August. There was not much disposition to sell for such future shipment.

Corn Trade Narrow.

The week in corn was devoid of notable feature, the trade being confined to narrow limits and the professionals providing almost all of the activity shown. The shipping situation was injured by the labor troubles on the great lakes, but the east displayed a willingness to take under favorable conditions. The excellent weather for farm work and the probability of an increase in the movement to market served to give the bears confidence. The developments of the week indicated in a way that the large holders favored a lower level of values for the working out of their ultimate plans. The bulls, and they are numerous and prominent, believe that there is nothing in sight to warrant a material drop in prices, and that the cash demand will serve as a strong tonic until another crop is harvested. The closing prices of the week showed a shade higher for the May, deliveries of which were practically nil, and a little lower for July and September.

Little Change in Oats.

The trading in oats was much the same as that in corn and conditions in the market were along similar lines. The deliveries on the first of the month were large, but they fell into good hands, which distributed freely later in the week. The traders displayed nervousness, shorts, fearing that the screws might be turned on them later, covering on all suggestions of weakness. The cash demand did not show much change and liberal concessions were reported to have been made to the east. The weather was favorable to the grain in the ground and the movement to market was on a moderate scale. The week's close showed a shade lower for May and July and unchanged for September.

Breaks in Provisions.

Provisions suffered severe breaks last week, much of the pressure on them coming from former friends. There still are many in the trade, however, who figure that the general market is destined to a higher level, whatever may be done to prevent its rise. Short sellers displayed more confidence, notwithstanding that shipments of products continued well in excess of those of a year ago.

PLAN RIVAL TO ICE TRUST WHILE PRICES ARE RAISED.

Eastern Capitalists Incorporate a Company with $1,500,000 in Stock to Start Business in Chicago.

The "ice trust" may have troubles of its own this summer. After its announcement of another increase in the price of ice came the discovery that eastern capitalists now propose to invade Chicago with an ice company. This newcomer, the Chicago Ice company, was incorporated in Springfield Saturday with a capital stock of $1,500,000. Clayton R. Taylor, Thomas G. Deering, and Percy B. Taylor, lawyers, were the nominal incorporators.

"I have heard a new company was being formed," said President John S. Field of the Knickerbocker Ice company, "but I am in the dark regarding the identity of the men behind it. Interested in it? Of course I am. They will become our competitors for the remaining 30 per cent of the local business."

The trust generously boosted its summer scale of prices Saturday so that they are now higher than they have been. The old and new schedules are:

Hart Sets Nonstop Auto Record.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 6.—[Special.]—G. E. Hart finished a twenty-four hour nonstop automobile run at 6 o'clock tonight, lowering the record by fifty miles, by driving 566 miles. Five hours were taken out for repairs, filling the gasoline tanks, and oiling, but the engine was not stopped at all. After driving twenty-four hours, and without stopping the engine, Hart drove another hour, traveling thirty-five miles. The average speed per running hour during the test was 29.99 miles.

NEW APRIL BUILDING RECORD.

Permits for Month Exceed Those of Any Previous April in History of the City—Table for Sixteen Years.

Building permits for April broke all previous records for that month, with the huge total of $12,139,875. The nearest approach was April, 1905, with $6,790,150, but that was $5,349,725 less than for the month just closed. The percentage of gain was over 78 per cent.

The permits which contributed largely to this big total were: New county building, $4,500,000; addition to Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. building, on State street, $850,000; addition to Auditorium annex, $750,000; Mentor building at Monroe and State streets, $400,000.

The April record for the last sixteen years is as follows:

Flat Rates for Postage

If you paid a fixed annual sum for the privilege of sending all the letters you might wish through the postoffice and were an ordinary user of the mails, would you not, in paying the annual average charge, be making up for the cost of all heavy users of the service?

If you sent five letters a day and some one else sent 500, would you care to pay just as much for the privilege? Is it possible to make a flat rate mean anything but an attempt to strike an average which will cover the cost of service of a comparatively few heavy users at the expense of all the moderate or small users? Can there be any fairer way than each user shall pay for just what he gets?

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

ADAM SCHAAF—ESTABLISHED 1873.

MAKER OF GRAND AND UPRIGHT PIANOS.

In purchasing a piano, GRADE and PRICE are important considerations. The sacrifice of the former for the latter means a clear loss of sum invested.

ADAM SCHAAF PIANOS

are backed by the enthusiastic indorsements of tens of thousands of critical users.

The price advantage of a manufacturer retailing his own product is so evident that we can safely say that

WE OFFER THE BEST PIANO VALUES OBTAINABLE.

SPECIAL—TO CLOSE OUT THE REMAINDER of discontinued styles, in all woods; also some $350 pianos slightly marred on varnish, otherwise perfect, $195.

Second hand upright pianos, practically good as new; we will exchange piano or refund money after three months' use if not as represented; prices, $75, $90, $100, $115, $125 each.

Payments, $10 cash, $5 monthly, including a handsome stool and scarf.

Square pianos, $15 to $45 each. Organs, $5 to $15 each.

To Rent—$3 and $4 per month, 200 new upright pianos, one year's rental allowed if purchased.

Pianos tuned, moved, repaired, stored, and exchanged.

ADAM SCHAAF, 147-149 West Madison-st., corner Union-st.

THIS WEEK'S LIST OF BARGAINS in LYON & HEALY'S EXCHANGE DEPARTMENT.

TERMS—Payment of $10 down and $5 per month secures any low price piano.

IMPORTANT—We employ no outside city salesmen, and do not annoy people in their homes. We give the purchaser the benefit of the large commissions earned by such solicitors. Why pay $50 to $100 more for a piano than is necessary? Save this sum by taking advantage of our original plan of one low net price—alike to all—and no commission to outside solicitors.

A handsome piano book catalogue, illustrated in colors, free.

"THE NAME THAT GUARANTEES QUALITY." LYON & HEALY, WABASH AND ADAMS.

CHOICE OF 86 PIANOS
$40.00 TO $190.00.

For the next THIRTY DAYS we will offer our entire stock of second hand pianos at greatly reduced prices on terms that will surprise you.

All that is required of you to obtain one of these bargains is to pay the amount of cartage as the first payment and installments ranging from $3 to $5 per month thereafter. In this way you can get a good piano at little cost and on very easy terms. The list comprises different makes in all the different woods.

These pianos have been thoroughly overhauled and are in good condition. We give stool and cover with each instrument and keep it in tune free of charge the first year inside the city limits. Correspondence solicited.

WORK FOR CLEANER CITY.

POLICE AND SCHOOLBOYS TO START CAMPAIGN TODAY.

Officers Will Warn Citizens Against Allowing Refuse to Accumulate on Their Premises, and Will Keep a Lookout for Heedless Drivers—Arrests Will Be Made if Notification Is Ignored—Young Pupils Will Act as "White Wings" Near Schools.

An organized crusade against unclean streets and alleys begins today. Fifty policemen have been detailed by Chief Collins to work under the direction of M. J. Doherty, superintendent of the streets and alleys department. Mr. Doherty anticipates they will accomplish much in aiding in cleaning highways and private premises.

The schoolboys of the city also are to help. Squads of these workers will be given the task of cleaning the streets and alleys near their homes and schools.

The policemen will be sent throughout the city, and wherever a dirty alley is found citizens responsible will be notified they must clean it up. If after three days it is not so cleaned the officers are instructed to swear to complaints and serve warrants. They will make reports every other day of warnings served, arrests made, and prosecutions begun.

Police all over the city have received instructions to be on the lookout for those who sweep dust and dirt from the stores into the streets, ice men who wash deliveries on the sidewalks, butchers who throw paper into the street, and overloaded coal and sand wagons. These, according to the department, are some of the greatest causes of uncleanliness in the city.

In six days, Mr. Doherty says, the system which goes into effect today will have accomplished results. Other plans for the summer, which are now under consideration, he says, will materially help matters. One of these is a street sprinkler for each ward in the city. These sprinklers have been ordered, and will lay the dust in the principal streets during the summer.

DIES AT DOOR OF HOSPITAL.

Frank Scully, Delirious with Fever, Wanders in the Streets Until He Collapses and Expires.

Frank Scully, 45 years old, after wandering about the streets in a delirium of high fever, fell dead early yesterday morning just as he reached the door of the county hospital.

Andrew Dahlberg, night clerk in the receiving room, looked out of the east window about 6 o'clock and saw Scully near, staggering toward the receiving room, clinging to the bars of the high iron fence in Harrison street. Dahlberg hurried to the door to assist him. As he opened the door, Scully threw up his hands and collapsed on the stone paving.

Dahlberg hurried him into the surgical room, where the physicians found that he was dead. A post-mortem examination showed that Scully had died from pneumonia. The authorities at the hospital believe he had been advised to go to the hospital in the evening and while on his way his high fever caused him to become delirious and he wandered about the streets.

Papers in Scully's pockets showed that he was a member of the hod carriers' union. He formerly lived in Indiana. His Chicago address could not be found.

BISHOPS TALK TO CLASSES

BACCALAUREATE ADDRESSES IN THREE CHURCHES.

Methodist Prelate Tells Graduates of Garrett Biblical Institute That Christianity Is the Ultimate Religion—Reformed Episcopal Dignitary Addresses Bennett Medical College Seniors—Dr. Gunsaulus Speaks at Chicago Theological Seminary.

Bishop Henry W. Warren of Denver delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the Garrett Biblical institute yesterday in the First Methodist church, Evanston.

"Christianity," the bishop declared, "is the ultimate religion. All things do not progress; only man's knowledge of them progresses. The universe is stable; only man's knowledge of it advances. So the principles of Christianity are eternally the same. They are not a matter of man's discovery but of fundamental necessity. They are not a matter of man's invention, but of God's establishment and revelation. As the material universe is a revelation, so is the higher universe of thought a revelation of God. In each, man may make discoveries, but the principles must be ever the same.

Worship Natural to Man.

"The principles of this religion accord with man's innate ideas; they are human, they are in harmony with his loftiest aspirations, and they are divine. Touching his aspirations, we consider first of all man's universal desire to worship a supreme being. Man is so constituted that he cannot face the realities of the universe. It is all so unthinkably great that there is a wish to worship. To be a man is to be a worshiper.

"Every man believes in God. But how about the God of the Christian religion? The God of the Christian religion is revealed, not thought out by man. He is without beginning and without ending. He is unthinkable, but a God understood would be no God at all. Yet he is complete and holy and all sufficient unto men."

Address to Medical Graduates.

In his baccalaureate address to the graduating class of Bennett Medical college, Bishop Fallows of St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal church said:

"The work of the physician has mainly to do with the human body, the masterpiece of creative skill—the body which brings forward and consummates in perfection of beauty and utility all preceding types of life. Narrow minded, imperfectly educated men have tried to disparage it. Gregory Nyssen called it 'a fuliginous, ill savored shop, a prison, an ill savored sink.' The Manicheans declared the body to be so evil that it could not have been created by God. It was the work of the devil.

"While we may say peace to the ashes of these men, we can also say: 'Perish such miserable doctrine.' Who can read Sir Charles Bell's treatise on the human hand or master the elements even of Gray's Anatomy, and Carpenter's Physiology, and not read the most conclusive evidences of exquisite design and see the marshaling of the laws of poetry, music, architecture, and beauty in this temple of the God inbreathed soul? It is a house worthy of creation's head and Lord. It is a building of God's own workmanship."

Address by Dr. Gunsaulus.

In Union Park Congregational church the Rev. Frank W. Gunsaulus, D. D., instructor in preaching at Chicago Theological seminary, preached the baccalaureate sermon to the members of the graduating class of the institution. His theme was "The Personality of the Spirit."

"It is our own individualities that count," he said. "The personality of man is the greatest thing on the earth, just as the personality of God is the greatest thing in the universe. We must be ourselves, quietly and persistently, like the tree which sends its roots here and there."

The sixty-third annual convention of the General Congregational association of Illinois will begin this afternoon in First Congregational church, Oak Park. Annual meetings of the Congregational Home Missionary society and the commencement exercises of the Chicago Theological seminary also will be held in the Oak Park churches this week.

Rough Paths of Reformers.

"When the cry of atheism has been raised against any great man in the world's history by his contemporaries it has meant one step forward for civilization," declared Dr. Emil G. Hirsch to Sinai congregation. "That cry has always been used by those whom atheism disturbed in their worship of fetiches, whether of stone or brass, before which they prostrated themselves.

"In every age there has been a class of men who did not want the world to move. In the time of Socrates it was the priests, yet today we go as pilgrims to his grave, knowing that he died a criminal in the eyes of his generation, yet he has been a prophet in the centuries that have followed.

"We have outgrown the theory that the church is the depot for heaven; that the rabbi issues the bill of lading with a discount for cash in hand. The knowledge is being borne home more and more to thinking men and women that the real purpose of religion or ethical culture, I care not what you call it, is to serve as the compass to the people, to give them a conception of the higher duties of man to man."

Supreme Need of Humanity.

The Rev. John Roach Straton of the Second Baptist church said:

"Following the disclosures of graft in the building of the Leland Stanford university structure, made by the recent earthquake shock, the suggestion has been made that a committee of citizens be appointed for inspecting new public works, etc. It is hoped by these means to prevent dishonesty, but the question immediately arises, who is to inspect this committee of inspection? and then who is to inspect that committee?

"The one supreme need of humanity is for a right heart in the breasts of all men. We cannot safeguard our civilization by the appointment of committees of inspection for the thousand and one other enterprises of today. The one hope for society is a godly honesty and righteousness of life, and that comes about only as men grow more like Jesus Christ."

Special evangelistic services will be held this week in Central Park Presbyterian church. Among the speakers will be the Rev. John Balcom Shaw, the Rev. George Dugan, the Rev. J. M. Gray, the Rev. George L. Robinson, and the Rev. G. N. Luccock. E. S. James will lead a special chorus in singing.

Noted London Pastor Speaks.

"Radical religion consists in an eternal hope in the Redeemer," said the Rev. D. T. Young, the noted pastor of the Wesley Methodist church, London, at the Grace Methodist church last evening. "This may comfort some of you who think and talk of radical religion, and some of you may need it.

"Some people tell us nowadays that there is nothing after death. O, a lie born of the devil. They talk about an unmiraculous Christianity. Who'd have an unmiraculous Christianity?

"A man once came to John Wesley and told him he was about to marry a certain woman.

"'I wouldn't,' said the great divine.

"The man was astounded. 'Why,' he said, 'she's a good Christian and a good Methodist. Why shouldn't I marry her?'

"'Well,' said Wesley, 'the Lord can live with a great many people you and I couldn't live with.'"

PUBLIC HEALTH WILL IMPROVE.

Department in Its Weekly Report Professes Encouragement Over the Outlook.

The weekly bulletin on the state of the city's health, issued by the Chicago health department, says:

"Although there is still much sickness in the community indications at the close of the week pointed to an improvement of the public health. The hospital population is returning to the normal.

"There is a slight increase in the number of cases of diphtheria and measles reported to the department, but a decided decrease in the number of scarlet fever cases. A circular of information and advice concerning the milk supply of Chicago, prepared by the health commissioner, has been issued during the week."

The statement of mortality for the week ended May 5 shows that the total deaths from all causes were 593.

Marshall Field & Company

A Time-Honored Landmark of Chicago Life Is Now Passing Into History.

The old original Marshall Field & Company store building, corner of State and Washington Sts., is now being vacated and given over to the wreckers, to make way for "another new building" to meet the requirements of this great store. This old building is memory-clustered. For over a quarter of a century it has been a prominent center of Chicago activity. Its features—the old clock on the corner, the Washington street entrance, and the south portion of the Main Aisle—are time-honored scenes, familiar characteristics of this "down-town home" of the great Chicago public. Within a few months on this site there will arise a grand new structure, uniform with the remaining State street frontage. In the meantime the sections formerly in the old building will be temporarily established (with a few exceptions) in the new Wabash Avenue building, now nearing completion. The work of removing these sections and establishing them in their new locations is now being done, with as little confusion as possible. When the new building is completed and the sections established in their permanent locations it will make this store more notably than ever "the foremost representative of progressive retail merchandising."

Corset Covers: French Made and Domestic.

This Week's Special Feature of the May Sale.

The great numbers of different designs and the superior merit of each design, together with the extreme lowness of the prices, are of themselves of sufficient importance to call for the unusual prominence we give this great May Sale.

As an opportunity to realize savings we have but to refer to the many thousands of garments offered in each of the several lines—both in the French-made and domestic garments.

Among the novelties—and there are thousands of them represented—we wish to direct attention to the Covers buttoning in the back and those with the dainty new puff sleeves, two lines especially designed for wear with the sheer summer waists. Fifth Floor West.

Remnant Sale of Fine Black Dress Goods.

Every short length in light and medium weight fabrics—and great numbers have accumulated within the past several weeks—will be included in one of the most remarkable clearance sales we have held this season. Every piece is marked at a substantial reduction from the regular price. Included are Voiles, Eoliennes, Henriettas, Broadcloths, Sicilians, Brilliantines, Tamise, Serges, Cheviots, Panama Cloths, Melrose, Wool Taffetas, and Nun's Veilings. Second Floor East.

Remnants of Fine Colored Dress Goods at Greatly Reduced Prices.

The first great remnant sale of the summer season begins this morning—an event especially planned to introduce our new location to which we have just moved on the Second Floor East. Hundreds of the best bargains we have ever offered are included—desirable short lengths being taken from practically all the high-grade fabrics in this section—Gray Suitings, Voiles, Broadcloths, Navy Serges, Checked Materials, Cream Fabrics, etc. All are marked to effect their immediate clearance. Second Floor East.

May Sale of Women's Corsets.

For the month of May we have made extensive plans—and their success is already assured—to bring to this section many hundreds of women who are unfamiliar with the advantages we offer for securing just the right model and of having it perfectly fitted to the figure without departing from the desired effect in the lines.

The Frances "A," with tapering waist and long lines in the back and over the hip to round into graceful contour medium full figures, made of brocaded batiste, trimmed with narrow silk braid—special, $2.00.

The Lilac "4," of plain white batiste, made with short hip and high bust effect to bring out the lines of slender figures—special, $2.00.

The L'Aiglon "D"—one of this season's latest approved models, with high bust, long hip and long back; made of plain batiste, in white, pink and blue, daintily trimmed with net applique—special, $2.50. Fifth Floor West.

Special Sale of Embroideries.

A very timely special purchase of high grade embroideries from one of the largest St. Gall makers will be offered this morning at wonderfully low prices for the qualities. Included are odds and ends of Swiss Flouncings, Edges and Insertions—in designs and qualities especially in demand for trimming graduation dresses, misses' summer gowns, etc.—yard, 15c, 20c, 25c, 38c and 45c. First Floor South Room.
